NEW DEAL WOOL GATHERING IS TOLD TO DEWEY

Mounting Surplus Resented in West.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Billings, Mont., Sept. 15.—A fantastic surplus accumulation of wool by the New Deal while the public is being deprived of essential wool clothing was disclosed by sheepmen here today in a meeting with Gov. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, whose two growing boys, he said, need new sweaters.

The growers told the candidate the government now has one billion 900 million pounds of wool in storage, a supply which if supplemented with 1 billion pounds annual war time production is adequate for four peace years or two war years. The stored wool includes 600 million pounds owned by the British government and held in America. The sheepmen assert their predicament is being aggravated by the sale of this British wool to American manufacturers.

Unable to Buy Sweaters.

"The stock pile," Dewey told a press conference, "is a sword of Damocles over the heads of American sheepmen. Yet Mrs. Dewey hasn't been able to buy a wool sweater for our boys for over a year.

"I want to emphasize that these figures come from the industry and my research staff has not had a chance to check them, but it's a fantastic situation regardless of the figures. We can't buy wool things we need, altho we have a dangerously excessive stock pile of wool.

"This stock pile will hang over our market for years. It will have to be dribbled to manufacturers to prevent killing the market."

The governor said he understood the wool, reported to be Australian, was not involved in lend-lease.

Submits to Questioning.

The candidate, whose tour has covered 12 states in eight days, subjected himself to questioning at an hour session with a hundred newspaper, magazine, and radio men.

Recalling Dewey's recent plea that MacArthur be given "greater scope and recognition" in the Pacific, some correspondents asked him whether it was not true that the combined allied general staff allocated supplies and assigned reënforcements.

"I hope it's now being done by the general staff," Dewey replied with significant emphasis on the "now."

"If you had been commander in chief would Gen. MacArthur have received more help?" he was asked.

"I'm not crying over spilled milk," he retorted.

Commends the Farmer.

The candidate was asked to summarize his observations on agriculture. He said he wanted to talk about that at length in one of his main speeches, but he observed that "never before in the history of our country have the food producers risen so heroically under such handicaps imposed by their own government."

He assailed the government policy which caused 10 million head of cattle to be held on the ranges while some housewives found it difficult to buy adequate meat supplies.

The Dewey campaign train left here early this evening for Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where Dewey has a schedule of conferences before leaving late tomorrow for Spokane, Wash. He will spend Sunday in Spokane and will speak Monday night in Seattle, Wash.

1,419 Enslaved in Russia Find Mexico Haven

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEON, Guanajuato, Mexico, Sept. 14.—Far from their native land but safely distant also from its scourge of terror, 1,419 exiled Poles have found a war time haven in an unusual colony founded for them in central Mexico.

Tho their lives now are relatively serene, they still are suffering reactions from their slavery in Russia, from exposure, starvation, and brutal mistreatment, from sinister disappearances of their kin, and from the ordeal of traveling more than the distance around the globe —some of them nearly 50,000 miles —to get here.

Relatives in U. S.

Many have relatives in the United States. Countess Tyszkiewicz, only member of nobility in the group of middle class exiles, is the sister of a frequent Chicago visitor, Prince Drucki-Lubecki of New York. With her are her four young sons, matured beyond their years by experiences that included helping their mother dig with bare hands a grave for their father when he died in Russia from the rigors of their enforced journey.

Survivors of that terrible trip now live together in thankful contentment in an abandoned hacienda comprising 260 acres made available to them by the Mexican government. This refuge, Colonia Santa Rosa, lies about five miles from the city of Leon and about 250 miles north of Mexico City.

It is one of several such camps established thruout the world for exiled Poles. The Poles at Santa Rosa were seized by Russian troops who invaded Poland in September, 1939, in the rear of Polish armies fighting a German invasion of their western border. Taken to Russia, they were imprisoned in concentration camps and compelled to labor for the soviets. After many months they were released and permitted to depart, if they could, to a place of safety.

264 Orphans in Colony.

About 700 exiles reached the Mexican camp on July 1, 1943, and approximately the same number arrived last November. Today there are 217 men, 547 women, 253 boys, and 423 girls. Among the children are 264 orphans, each marking a family tragedy, and a number born in the colony.

Expenses of the camp are shared by several sources, but all the money for its operation comes from the United States. Thru credits advanced by the United States government, the Polish government in exile meets the cost of feeding, housing and managing the colony. The Polish-American war relief council of Chicago bears the expense of clothing, health and instruction. And the Catholic Welfare association of New York provides money for entertainment and cultural programs.

The exiles' surroundings are adequate but not luxurious. They live in the one story dwellings, the usual patio in the center, that

1944 BATTLE OF THE SLOGANS

Constitution's Birth Will Be Told on W-G-N

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

On the eve of Constitution day the Chicago Theater of the Air thru stirring drama and music tonight will recreate the tasks that beset the founders of the republic. The story of the fashioning of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights will be portrayed in the spectacle "D-Day—1787," to be broadcast over W-G-N from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight from Medinah temple.

Following the broadcast the Republican party, which has always celebrated Constitution day because it is pledged to the preservation of the letter and spirit of the founding document, will present a special half hour program with addresses by Illinois Republican leaders.

Sponsored by G. O. P.

This latter broadcast will be sponsored by the Cook County Republican Central committee. An audience of more than 4,000 is expected. Loudspeakers on the outside of the temple will enable the overflow to hear the entire program.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will review events leading to the signing of the Constitution and discuss its significance.

Words of Founders.

Following Col. McCormick's address the drama will be presented. The story will be told thru words of the founding fathers.

A special musical setting has been arranged. Themes from the "New World Symphony," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and patriotic tunes will be included.

For the half hour program to follow "D-day—1787" Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] will be master of ceremonies. Sen. Brooks will introduce Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney.

Banker Lends a Hand; Starts Work as Brakeman

Russell L. Hoak, vice president of the First National Bank of Elkhart, Ind., today will begin work with the New York Centrail railroad as a part time, week-end worker. Hoak, who volunteered to "ease the man power shortage a bit," will start as a freight brakeman on the Elkhart to Chicago run.

Snooping Fireman Takes Steam Out of George's Car

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15 (AP).—A passing fireman extinguished flames under a parked automobile, but Owner George Harper wasn't pleased. Always, he explained, he kept the pilot light burning in his steam propelled, vintage 1912, Stanley automobile.

First, 3d, 7th, and 9th armies in France.

Fifth in Italy.

Sixth in Southwest Pacific.

Second and 4th in the United States, headquarters respectively at Memphis, Tenn., and San Antonio, Tex.

GEN. PERSHING CONFINED TO BED AFTER SETBACK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Gen. John J. Pershing has been confined to his bed with "a severe setback in his physical condition," the war department announced tonight, but is not in immediate danger.

The 84 year old general was stricken yesterday at his apartment in Walter Reed hospital, but a complete diagnosis was not available.

Disclose U. S. 1st Army Using Secret Weapons

Bar New Deal Electors on Texas Ballot

Austin, Tex., Sept. 15 [Special].—Secretary of State Sidney Latham today nullified the action of the Sept. 12 pro-Roosevelt state Democratic convention by announcing that he would certify the anti-Roosevelt Presidential electors nominated at the May 23 convention as the electors to be printed on the Texas November election ballot.

George W. Eddy of Dallas, one of the pro-Roosevelt electors substituted at the September convention, said a suit would be filed tomorrow or Monday to compel certification of the new elector list.

The state Supreme court, where a mandamus action could be filed, is in recess. It could be called into session to act on the matter. However, party leaders recall that when fourth term advocates prior to the June primary asked a mandamus to compel certification of pro-Roosevelt electors on the primary ballot the Supreme court refused to intercede in the party quarrel.

Action Taken at Austin.

In the May convention, held at Austin, the group of 23 electors named by the Texas Democrats were pledged to vote for the national Democratic nominees only if the Chicago convention met certain conditions.

When the Chicago convention failed to meet the conditions, 15 of the 23 electors indicated they would vote for Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] as the Democratic Presidential nominee. The September state convention, held at Dallas, purged these 15 from the list and substituted others.

The effect of Latham's decision is to reinstate the anti-Roosevelt slate of electors chosen last May and to undo the work of the September convention, which was controled by New Deal forces.

Gives Careful Consideration.

Latham said he had given the matter the "most careful" consideration. I must make the decision according to the law as I see it."

John H. Crooker of Houston, one of the 15 nominated in May and purged in September, charged today the pro-Roosevelt convention had "neither moral right nor legal power to oust us." He said his statement was made in behalf of all the 15.

Asserting that "real southern Democrats have the right to keep our names on the November ballots," Crooker added:

"The present revolt is against domination of the Democratic party by corrupt political machines of northern cities, the CIO political action committee, and other New Deal forces."

YANKS SMASH THRU HITLER FORTS EAST OF AACHEN ON WIDE FRONT

Marine Heroes of Guadalcanal Take Palau Beachhead.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 15 (AP).—American marines of the 1st division, heroes of Guadalcanal, have established a beachhead a mile and one-half long on the southwestern shore of Peleliu Island in the Palau group, 515 miles from Davao, headquarters announced today.

The marines, throwing back several Japanese counter-attacks, closed in upon Peleliu airport, the principal air field in the Palau group.

Peleliu is only six miles long and is defended by an estimated 8,000 Japanese of the possibly 40,000 stationed in the Palau area.

Casualties Reported Light.

The 5:30 p. m. war bulletin said casualties during the first day of the assault [today Manila time] were light.

However, the Japanese had the beaches under sporadic mortar and artillery fire and they used tanks in their counter-attacks.

In carrier-plane attacks on Peleliu immediately preceding the landings, one plane and four flight personnel were lost.

The Palau success east of the Philippines was matched by another, 300 miles south of Mindanao, announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. On Morotai, in the Halmaheras, American invaders achieved all objectives within a few hours after landing there yesterday and already air bases are being built for intensified attacks on the Philippines.

Pincer Threat to Philippines.

These invasions posed a double pronged threat to the Philippines, which previously had been under attack four days by carrier-borne Typhoons that demolished 501 Nipponese planes and 173 surface vessels.

[In a broadcast from the Palau battle area yesterday William Ewing, representing the combined American radio networks, said thick woods shielded the Japanese from the fleet bombardment preceding the invasion and that many Japanese were left alive and ready to fight when the marines landed.]

MacArthur Takes Objectives.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied forces seized all their objectives on Morotai Island in the Halmaheras [Moluccas] within a few hours after storming ashore, and army engineers already are at work rebuilding an airdrome, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters revealed today.

SAVE AMERICAN LIVES! POLICY OF GEN. M'ARTHUR

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC HDQ., Sept. 15.—Save American lives! That has been the fundamental principle on which the Southwest Pacific war has been waged by Gen. MacArthur.

A glance at the accomplishments since the first of the year shows how successfully this policy has been carried out. In eight months the Americans have moved 1,100 miles northwest to the New Guinea tip, northeast on New Britain almost to within sight of Rabaul, and jumped to the Admiralties on the flank, territory defended last New Year's day by more than 100,000 Japs. And now United States forces are in the Halmahera Islands, 300 miles south of the Philippines.

More than 30,000 Slain.

To date more than 30,000 Japs have been buried and it is quite possible more than that number lie dead in jungles from strafing, artillery, bombing, disease and starvation.

Thru the strategic placing of a relatively few divisions the Americans have at all places far outnumbered the Japs they faced, and our deaths have been far below one-tenth of the number of Japs buried.

In the Pacific war of vast spaces, usually a disadvantage, the offensive has a great advantage. It is this: The Japs must have their troops scattered everywhere against a possible blow. We on the offensive can mass our men in small areas. Since so far the war here has been one for bases, our men fight only if the Japs come to them. And in close jungle fighting the advantage reverts to the defenders.

Jap Casualties Listed.

Here in round numbers are the Jap casualties—bodies buried—since the first of the year: New Britain and the Admiralties, more than 4,000 each; Saidor, 1,200; Hollandia, almost 4,000; Aitape, more than 8,000; Wakde-Sarmi, more than 3,000; Biak, more than 5,000; Noemfoor, about 1,000; Sansapor, about 500.

Not once in the Southwest Pacific have our troops assaulted a Jap stronghold. The policy has been to move into weak spots, as again on Morotai Island in the Halmahera [Moluccas] group; cut off the Japs, build bases, and hold them against Jap counter-attacks.

The result is that thousands of American solders today live in jungle camps awaiting new attacks instead of lying in jungle cemeteries.

1st Army's 24 Hour Drive Meets Little Nazi Opposition.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE IN GERMANY, Sept. 15.—Veteran doughboyc and armored forces of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' 1st United States army today smashed thru the main fortifications of the Siegfried line on a wide front southeast of encircled Aachen.

They slashed thru into the open less than 24 hours after cracking the first thinly manned defenses in the west and accomplished their task with only a "handful" of casualties.

At last reports the tanks and tank destroyers were engaging German armored units in a second battle, having earlier beaten off one Nazi tank attack.

Aachen Surrounded.

Aachen, German frontier fortress, was by-passed and surrounded and American artillery was shelling the city. Yank forces on the outskirts had not yet penetrated into the city but it was believed most of the Germans already had pulled out.

The breach in the main Siegfried fortifications rightly enough was won by the men who had been fighting across France and Belgium.

Their immediate commander was Lt. Col. Frederick Gibbs of Staten Island, N. Y. His men had opened a way thru the first line forts and dragons' teeth yesterday. Today they were assigned to probe thru unfortified areas between the two lines. One unit worked right into the first row of pillboxes and dragons' teeth, or tank defenses, of the main line, still without really serious opposition.

Young Leader Drives Thru.

A company commander, a 21 year old fireball from Kentucky, Lt. Frank Kolb, who had graduated as a second lieutenant from officers' candidate school at the age of 17, said he thought he could go on thru. He did.

There were 21 concrete pillboxes ahead of him. On either side and in front of some of them were rows of concrete dragons' teeth. Not all the boxes were fighting forts. Some were observation posts and some were troop shelters only.

In a few hours Kolb radioed that he had taken eight prisoners and was almost thru the line. The engineers, he said, now were blowing up the dragons' teeth. Enemy artillery with observation straight down the road was shelling his men.

Planes Spot Guns.

Our small artillery observation planes went aloft seeking the enemy guns. In a little while our own artillery had silenced them. Then Kolb called back to Col. Gibbs again. This time he had captured the last pillbox and was thru the line.

Other companies changed course and soon were abreast of the gap Kolb had opened, widening it as they fought on and often meeting little knots of Germans fighting around machine gun emplacements. Then tanks rolled up to cover the doughboys and to move on thru the line.

The pillboxes in the main line were similar to those which had been neutralized in the first blows yesterday. Some were great concrete mounds with two or three tiers of chambers inside. Several hidden in the woods were topped with steel cupolas like tank turrets. Often they had zig-zag trenches around them. Near Ellendorf there were huge open gun pits but no guns.

Yanks Take Over Forts.

In a dense woods near the first line of fortifications were scores of these massive boxes, all of them now occupied by grinning Americans.

We were told each had mounted an 88 millimeter gun. Idle, empty, and useless, they added their dramatic touch to this historic crumbling of Germany's vaunted west wall.

One range of green dragons' teeth ran across the lawn of a manor house whose occupants had

Dutch Hail Yanks; Traitors Fight

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIEGFRIED LINE, Germany, Sept. 15.—Maastricht, strategic Holland city northwest of Germany's Aachen, was transformed into a welcoming sunburst of orange today as American tanks rolled in on the heels of doughboys who had entered late yesterday.

From every house flags of the house of Orange fluttered. Men, women, and children waved orange flags in every street where Americans passed and whenever our vehicles stopped they were immediately besieged by girls trying to kiss not too reluctant soldiers.

In sweeping eastward toward Maastricht, American troops had bridged the Albert canal near Hasselt, Belgium. There they had encountered fierce resistance from fanatical young Dutch Nazis of a unit of SS [elite guard] troops.

Fight from Roadblocks.

These Dutch fought with anti-tank guns behind road blocks every few hundred yards. They lay hidden in culverts until tanks passed, then attacked with anti-tank grenades and German bazookas.

Lt. Earle H. Brown of Chicago, commanding a platoon of a tank reconnaissance unit, opened up with every machine gun he had and a 37 mm. cannon to knock out one of the road blocks. Then artillery laid down a concentration. Yet when the gunfire lifted the Dutch SS still manned their gun and knocked out the leading American vehicle before being silenced.

These Dutch SS troops had been told they would never be required to fight outside Holland. They were to be kept there as a sort of palace guard for the Nazi conquerors and to help keep the Netherlands in submission.

They fought for their political beliefs, with the knowledge that the Germans would shoot them if they failed and that their own countrymen would kill them as traitors if given the chance.

Fought to Death.

The Americans at last defeated these men without a country but they had to kill most of them to do it.

In the same area, Lt. Frank Jordan, 27, Pulaski, Va., took off across country to do some scouting and came upon German soldiers lolling in a supposed rest area. Some were sunbathing, others were cleaning equipment, and one group was playing volleyball.

Jordan quietly eased toward them under cover until every one of his platoon of reconnaisance cars was in position. Then he opened fire. A few hours later other Americans came upon the scene and counted 186 dead Germans.

fied, abandoning their luxurious belongings.

The story of the smashing of the Siegfried line is not just the story of the last 24 hours. It also is the story of Sept. 3, 4, and 5 and the great entrapment and destruction of German troops between Mons and Maubeuge along the French-Belgian frontier.

It was there that the same armored and infantry units blasted the thousands of German soldiers being withdrawn to man the Siegfried line defenses.

As a result the Germans had to rush any type of soldier, including old noncombatants, into the line. They did not have enough soldiers to fill every pillbox, and many of those who were there offered little resistance.

Race Toward Cologne.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, [Saturday], Sept. 16 (AP).—The United States army in a mighty sweep of Aachen hurtled down the last 30 miles toward the great industrial city of Cologne and the Rhine river today.

While these defenses crashed, the American 3d army captured Nancy—Once Nazi headquarters in France. Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army tanks raced on 10 to 15 miles eastward as the enemy reeled in retreat back to the Rhine on a 30 mile front.

Hitler's west wall buckled at two other points as American forces, redoubling their blows, drove ten miles into Germany north of the fortress of Trier, and plowed into the heart of the Siegfried line south of Aachen at Prum.

Win Maastricht.

"Some Germans fight, some don't," said Sgt. James Heutell of North Burling st., Chicago, of the fighting near Frier. "Early today a German lieutenant marched his men right up to us and surrendered them. They had told him two days ago to rush into the Siegfried line with his men, but instead he kept on going."

On the north, the important Dutch city of Maastricht, thru which the Germans swept four years ago on their way to conquer France, fell to American units and patriot forces who shattered a die-hard defense by Dutch Nazis to the west of the city.

In the drive past Aachen the doughboys swept up Stolberg, six miles east.

The line was shredded along a front of at least 10 miles, for that distance south of Aachen the German border town of Lammersdorf was captured.

Peril Nazis in Metz.

Patton's wide sweep threw the Germans defending Metz—last important city held in France by the Nazis—into peril and they were faced with possible encirclement or a retreat to the rich Saar industrial basin 20 miles away.

The Germans pulled out of Nancy, Moselle river stronghold, last night after the city was outflanked.

The population went wild with joy as an American general in a jeep led his forces into the city. French forces of the interior had rounded up most of the few Germans left behind in the exciting hours before the Americans entered.

Thirty-seven miles to the southwest, the 3d army captured the road junction of Epinal, which is about midway between Nancy and Belfort.

Canadians Retake Bridgehead.

A late dispatch from the front said the Canadians, forced to yield one bridgehead on the Leopold canal, had thrown the Germans back and put patrols across the water barrier at six different points.

The British on the right were driven back north of the Belgian town of Geel but held firm near the Leopold canal.

The Polish armored division of the Canadian army sent advanced elements several miles beyond the Dutch frontier and moved up in force five miles north of St. Niklaas, between Antwerp and Gent, to the town of Sanlooper.

To the north German escape ports on both sides of the Schelde river were bombed by allied air forces.

A final check of the prisoners taken at Le Havre showed the bag reached 9,600.

Far away to the west on the tip of the Breton peninsula the battle for Brest roared to a climax with the Americans fighting forward street by street as the waterfront rocked to German demolitions.

FINNS SMASH GERMAN ATTACK UPON ISLAND

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 15 (AP)—Finland found itself virtually at war with Germany today as Nazi troops invaded the Finns' fortified island of Suursaari [Hogland] and German troops moved to close the Finnish-Swedish frontier in the north.

It appeared doubtful that German troops would be out of Finland by midnight, the deadline for their withdrawal under terms of the Finnish-Russian armistice agreement, and reports circulated here that Germany might attempt to blockade Finland both by sea and air.

The Swedish foreign office tonight confirmed the German intention of closing the border of northern Finland tomorrow.

The German attempt to seize Suursaari, in the gulf of Finland, took place early today, but the Finnish garrison appeared to have the situation under control at nightfall.

Report Nazis Liquidated.

Late tonight the newspaper Falukuriren reported from Helsinki that the Finns had liquidated a German beachhead on the island, but there was no official confirmation. Earlier, a Finnish war bulletin said the Nazis were being mopped up at the only beachhead they had established. Nine German ships, the bulletin said, were sunk or set afire in the attack.

Russian planes helped to repel the attack, the Finnish news agency said.

The possibility was seen that Finland might declare war on her former Nazi brothers in arms, as Romania and Bulgaria have done.

Finn Parliament to Meet.

The Finnish parliament was scheduled to meet in secret session tomorrow. It held an eight minute session today but no announcement was made concerning its discussions.

Hantti Hackzell, Finnish premier, who heads the peace delegation, suffered a stroke in Moscow last night and was left paralyzed. It was [illegible] here that he was stricken [illegible] hours before Russia presented the text of its armistice terms.

[A Moscow broadcast last night said Premier Hackzell's condition was grave.]

A dispatch from Helsinki declared that Erhu Castren, 58, president of Finland's supreme court, might succeed Hackzell.

BRADLEY GIVEN SENATE O. K. AS MAJOR GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—The senate today confirmed President Roosevelt's nomination of Lt. Gen. Bradley for the permanent rank of major general.

Other confirmations included promotion to the temporary rank of major general for Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, leader of "Merrill's Marauders."

ARTIFICIAL FOG BLANKET GUARDS MOSELLE BRIDGE

Negro Unit Keeps Span Hidden.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Sept. 15.—American Negro troops, under heavy shellfire for the last six days, have been providing artificial fog as a blanket covering one of our most important Moselle river crossings near Metz.

Every day from dawn until darkness the fog generators and smoke pots were pouring white vapor into the air in such volume that the Germans were prevented from seeing where their shells were bursting. Two men were assigned to each generator, one to operate it and the other to warn of the approach of German shells.

Bridge Damaged Few Times.

The Germans have damaged the bridge a few times, but without the fog it would be almost impossible to use the span except during the night.

Lt. Col. Levin B. Cottingham of Richmond, Va., who is directing the fog generating operation with Lt. George R. Lamb of Dallas, Tex., said the fog also was valuable for psychological reasons since, under its own cover, the men feel twice as safe. Both Cottingham and Lamb said the Negro troops were doing a "wonderful job."

First Time at Front.

Lamb said the troops deserved special credit since they actually had been trained for rear jobs and that this was the first time they had been used right up on the front lines.

7TH ARMY JOINS IKE'S COMMAND; YANK GREATEST

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 15 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower was entrusted today with the greatest command ever given an American, command of all western front forces, including the United States 7th army. The 7th, which has been driving north from the Mediterranean under Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, was added to Gen. Eisenhower's command in accordance with a prepared plan and at the direction of the combined chiefs of staff.

The greatest American force ever put into the field is the dominant part in Gen. Eisenhower's tremendous organization, for it includes the United States 1st, 3d, 7th, and 9th armies.

It was announced that Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy commander in the Mediterranean, had been made commander of the 6th American army group, composed of American and French units.

Devers undoubtedly takes a rank equal to that of the other group commanders, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the American 12th, and Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery of the British 21st. Bradley's group embraces the United States 1st and 3d armies, Montgomery's the British 2d and the Canadian 1st, and it is believed Devers will have the United States 7th and 9th.

REDS, POLES WIN 11 PLACES NEAR WARSAW GATES

Berlin Says Russia Opens Baltic Offensive.

LONDON, Sept. 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian and Polish troops captured 11 localities on the east bank of the Vistula river north of fallen Praga yesterday as other units fought for the bridges leading across the river into besieged Warsaw.

Moscow dispatches said it was believed that Red army units already had carried the fight into the Polish capital by crossing the broad river, but the daily soviet bulletin told only of the extension of Russian holdings along the east bank.

A front dispatch to the Moscow newspaper Pravda said the four bridges connecting Praga with Warsaw still were intact, but a German broadcast said they had been destroyed.

"It is worthy of note," the soviet bulletin said, "that despite the clamor raised by [Polish] Gen. Bor about his 'underground' army in the Praga area not a single soldier of the so-called underground army has in fact been discovered in Praga."

Report New Offensive.

Berlin said the Russians had begun a new offensive on a curving 150 mile front in Latvia and Estonia, sending 40 divisions of upwards of 400,000 men into a final effort to crush trapped German forces in the Baltic states. The attacks ranged from Bauska, 37 miles south of Riga in Latvia, eastward and northeastward to both sides of Valga in Estonia, the German broadcast said. Moscow's bulletin did not mention that area.

In southern Poland other soviet forces fighting toward Lupkov pass leading into Slovakia captured nine localities, the bulletin said. Farther west soviet units were reported to have already crossed into Slovakia near the Dukla pass.

In Transylvania the Russians captured a town within 23 miles of the German-Hungarian stronghold of Targu-Mures. More than 40 localities were taken in Hungarian-annexed Transylvania, the bulletin said.

Budapest Pounded Again.

For the second straight night long range soviet bombers hammered targets in Budapest, Hungarian capital, on Thursday night. More than 35 fires amid industrial objectives were started, the bulletin said.

Northeast of Warsaw the Russians had forced the Germans across the Narew river within 15 miles of the southern border of German East Prussia. Moscow dispatches said Red army units already had crossed the Narew.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN.

The German war report, broadcast from Berlin yesterday, said:

"In southern Transylvania and the northern part of the Szekler gap, numerous Russian attempts were frustrated.

"On the Vistula, north of Sandomierz, grenadiers and pioneers, supported by army assault artillery and mortars, eliminated an enemy bridgehead in bitter fighting lasting several days and destroyed the bulk of two reënforced Russian rifle divisions.

"Northeast of Warsaw, strong enemy attacks were repelled. Northwest of Lomza, our troops withdrew to the northern bank of the Narew river after grim fighting.

"In the northern sector of the eastern front the Russians began their expected offensive on a broad front.

"Despite enemy superiority in men and material, our troops frustrated all breakthru attempts in bitter fighting, well supported by the Luftwaffe. Breaches were closed in immediate counter-attacks.

"On the Kandalaksha front [Russian Lapland near Finland] our troops yesterday repelled several Russian attacks."

BURMA FIGHTER RECALLS TASKS AS A MARAUDER

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Back from a 30,000 mile trip around the world, young Tech. Sgt. Russell Hill last night lounged in a big chair in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill, 5500 Haddon av., and told of his adventures. It has been 3½ years since he left Chicago with Company H, 132d Infantry, Illinois National Guard. In that time he fought on Guadalcanal and New Caledonia, and in Burma with the celebrated Merrill's Marauders. Sgt. Hill is 21 now.

"It was good hunting, all of it," he said, "but the best was in Burma with the Marauders."

He was a member of the Marauders' C battalion and an acquaintance of Staff Sgt. William J. Anderson, of Chicago, whose graphic, day by day story of the campaign behind Jap lines from Ledo to Myitkyina begins in Monday morning's TRIBUNE. Sgt. Hill also knew the late Chaplain Thomas J. Barrett of Chicago, idolized by the hardboiled Marauders, both Catholic and Protestant.

Recalls Courageous Padre.

"Father Barrett was the swellest padre we ever had," said Sgt. Hill. "The minute a man was shot he was right there. He carried back many a wounded Marauder under Jap fire. There were many times when they wanted to evacuate him because of the danger but he insisted on sticking. We used to yell at him to keep his head down. He would reply:

"'What's the difference? I can't live forever.'"

Father Barrett died of typhus at the close of the Marauder campaign last June. Sgt. Hill also knew Lt. Logan Weston, a combat officer who interrupted his training for the ministry to join the army.

Sgt. Hill helped rescue Lt. Weston's platoon when it was trapped on a dangerous mission just before the battle of Walawbum, a story which is told in full in Sgt. Anderson's account. Sgt. Hill's buoyant sense of humor has come thru undulled. One of his best stories concerns a pack mule named Mabel and her devoted master who insisted she had personality.

Mabel Gets a Fox Hole.

When Mabel plunged off the almost perpendicular trail thru the Chindwin hills of Burma and into a chasm, her master insisted upon going to find her body. He found her 100 feet below the trail, unhurt and waiting impatiently to be led out. On one occasion he insisted on digging a fox hole for Mabel.

"But this wasn't all sentiment," said Sgt. Hill. "When he got it dug and got Mabel into it, he crawled in under her, making Mabel a sort of bomb shelter."

Sgt. Hill has two brothers also in the army: Lt. William Hill, 24, a paratrooper, now stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., and Staff Sgt. Frank J. Hill, at Camp Lewis, Wash. A third brother, Robert, 16, is in school and counting the months until he can get into uniform.

ENOUGH ENOUGH, IT SEEMS, EVEN FOR CHURCHILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Week, leftish weekly, tells a story about Prime Minister Churchill and his son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, chairman of the committee that drafted counter-measures against flying bombs.

Just before Churchill left for Quebec, Sandys undertook to read to the prime minister a long report on how the bomb peril was overcome. Churchill listened, then lit a cigar as the reading went on and on. Sandys eventually decided Churchill didn't appear well and asked if he should send out for a little brandy. Churchill replied that completion of the report would probably make him feel better. This remark, according to The Week, nettled Sandys, who said he inquired because Churchill was looking rather like a sick Mussolini.

The last word, however, remained with Churchill, The Week says. "At least," the prime minister is said to have remarked, "Mussolini had the supreme satisfaction of shooting his son-in-law."

French Seize 3 Reported as Slayers of Mandel

PARIS, Sept. 15 (AP).—The French ministry of justice announced today the arrest of three members of the Milice, Vichy's Gestapo, who were said to have admitted the murder of Georges Mandel, former minister of colonies in the Daladier cabinet and one of the leading opponents of collaboration. Mandel was arrested before the allied landings in North Africa and killed in Fontainbleau forest shortly before the liberation of Paris, it was announced.

ENVOY KILLED BY ROMANIANS, BERLIN CLAIMS

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP).—The German radio broadcast today its version of the death of Baron Manfred von Killinger, Nazi ambassador to Romania and former consul at San Francisco. The Germans said he was killed when "Romanian militia stormed the legation in an attempt to capture him and his staff and turn them over to the Russians." Previous accounts said that Von Killinger killed himself and his blonde secretary when Romania switched sides, and that the diplomat seized a machine gun and killed all his staff, crying that "we all must die for the fuehrer." Then, beneath a large canvas of Hitler, the ambassador was said to have fired a shot thru his brain.

NAVAL INQUIRY ON JAP ATTACK RETURNS TO U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP).—The naval court of inquiry convened by the secretary of the navy to inquire into circumstances connected with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor has returned from Pearl Harbor and is holding sessions in San Francisco. Later it will return to Washington to continue its inquiry. The court is composed of Adm. O. G. Murfin, U. S. N., retired, president; Adm. E. C. Kalbfus, U. S. N., retired, and Vice Adm. Adolphus Andrews, U. S. N., retired.

INTERNEES TELL OF LIFE IN GREAT CAMP IN FRANCE

Treated Well, but 2,000 Are Happy at Rescue.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VITTEL, France, Sept. 15.—This famous spa for the last three years had been the site of the largest German internment camp in France. More than 2,000 men, women and children, including almost 400 Americans, today awaited the unwinding of red tape that will release them from behind barbed wire.

The internees are housed in seven large hotels and, aided by American Red Cross packages, got enough food and clothing actually to live better in most cases than their German captors. We found no one with a complaint against his treatment.

The prisoners received German rations daily and were permitted to use the park, tennis and baseball courts, to fish in the park pond, to organize their own entertainment, to run their own schools and library and even to manage their own camp affairs.

They're Glad It's Over.

When the first French troops reached the town on Tuesday and the first American officers visited the camp late that evening, however, the internees were so overjoyed that, as Earl Ewing, 52, a former resident of Carthage, Ill., put it, 'Don't ask me to explain how I felt. I know the English language pretty well, but not well enough for that."

Ewing, who was last in the United States in 1919, was arrested on Dec. 12, 1941, in Paris with his French wife.

Mrs. Elsie Robinson, Bridgeport, Conn., who had been in England and France for 30 years, was elected camp commandant of the American section by her fellow internees when the camp was solely for women.

Light Penalty for Escapes.

Mrs. Robinson said that the German commandant, Capt. Otto Landhauser, was correct in the treatment of the internees and that there were German guards only outside the barbed wire. She said that she knew of at least seven or eight persons who had escaped, and that those caught were imprisoned in their rooms for eight days.

The camp discipline was elastic, with no set rising hour. The usual rations during a week included butter, cheese, jam, sugar, coffee substitute, and potatoes. The internees could use the kitchens at certain hours. Each adult once a week was given Red Cross parcels containing cheese, prunes, pork, corned beef, sugar, coffee, liver paste, jam, soap, biscuits, chocolate bars, salmon, oleomargarine, and powdered milk. Each also received from four to seven packs of cigarets weekly.

27 Babies Born in Camp.

Twenty-seven babies were born in the camp hospital, many old persons died, and at least two marriages were performed. There were two camp schools for boys and girls up to 14 years.

Among the prisoners was Joseph Meles, who left Chicago 20 years ago and had been working in Paris. His brother Edward, an architect, lives at Fennville, Mich.

C. E. Lloyd, Bendix corporation representative in Paris, and his wife also were interned.

Another former Chicagoan is Felix Marcovitz, whose brother Harry's address is given as 337 S. Franklin st., Chicago.

There also was Mrs. Myra Davis Wilson, who was born in Charleston, Ill., attended the University of Illinois and had been teaching English and music in Paris.

We also talked with Miss Gertrude McBrady, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McBrady, live at 1325 Main st., Evanston, Ill. Miss McBrady, who was studying art in Paris when trapped by the war, plans to hold an exposition of more than 100 portraits she drew in the camp.

Others who gave Chicago as their home or birthplace are Mike Blaustein, Jacques Lefever, Ottilie Ficke, and Katherine Dudley.

Americans Strike at Japanese in Two Pacific Islands Close to the Philippines.

GUADALCANAL MARINE HEROES LAND IN PALAUS

Take Beachhead on Peleliu Island.

yesterday on Morotal, northeast of Halmahera Island and within 300 miles of the Philippines.

United States navy carrier borne planes and land based aircraft maintained a constant and unchallenged cover over the landing forces, as they began at once to prepare bases for intensifying the assault against the Philippines.

Land with Assault Waves.

Today's war bulletin said the engineers landed "with the assault waves."

The engineers were at work rebuilding the Pitoe airdrome, on the southwest coast of Morotal. The island is 375 miles from Davao, main city on Mindanao Island.

Infantry units drove to their objectives under cover of ground and naval gunfire.

Up to nightfall yesterday there had been no reports of any organized or even casual Japanese resistance, as the Americans overran Pitoe and a narrow five mile long peninsula, which form the island's southwestern tip.

While the navy provided an air-tight aerial umbrella over Morotal, land based planes of the far eastern air force continued pounding all potential bases in the remainder of the Moluccas, Dutch Celebes, and Dutch New Guinea.

MacArthur Goes Ashore.

Gen. MacArthur, who went ashore at Morotal soon after the troops hit the beaches, told his men their new position was secure, that America now dominates the Halmaheras and that defeat "stares Japan in the face."

The virtually simultaneous landings on Morotal and Palau, respectively south and east of the Philippines, were worked out as a coördinated plan by the commands of Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz.

[The two commanders conferred at Pearl Harbor at the time of the visit there of President Roosevelt.]

HEAR CHURCHILL AND F. D. R. PLAN MORE PARLEYS

Effort May Be Made to Meet with Stalin.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Sept. 15.—Further conferences between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill after the conclusion of the meeting here were predicted today.

It was assumed that they would be concerned with post-war problems in Europe and with the prosecution of the war against the Japanese. There were indications that another attempt would be made to arrange a meeting of the two chiefs with Premier Stalin.

Official silence was maintained on the possibility of further conferences in this near future. Stephen Early, Presidential press secretary, gave a clew to Roosevelt-Churchill meetings to follow in announcing that the conference here would be largely completed tomorrow. Asked if the discussions between the two government heads would go on, he said that the "conferences in Quebec" were nearing conclusion, but left the door open for speculation on other conversations elsewhere. No word was forthcoming as to the time or place of conferences that might follow.

Cadogan at Quebec.

The close relationship between the present meeting and the Dumbarton Oaks post-war security conference at Washington was seen in an announcement that Alexander Cadogan, head of the British delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks meeting, was attending the conference here. Cadogan is permanent undersecretary of state.

Since the Russians have been represented at Dumbarton Oaks, but not here, it was believed that he had come to explain the Russian position on post-war questions. His arrival was made known, it was noted, a few hours after that of Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, who made a trans-Atlantic dash to Quebec immediately after conferring with Polish high officials on the Polish-Russian dispute.

Thus it was evident that there had been ample opportunity for an exploration of the whole subject of Stalin's plans for territorial grabs in Europe, since it was made plain yesterday that Eden would hold major discussions with President Roosevelt.

Secrets Likely to Be Veiled.

It was officially announced today that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt would meet with the press tomorrow. They are expected to make statements regarding the secret conference here, but since they have given no indications that they will submit to questioning it was presumed the conference secrets would remain secret.

While there has been concern in the United States over the possibility that the British would shirk the Japanese war once England's safety was assured by the defeat of Germany, there was evidence today that the Americans themselves were asking for the major burden in the war against Japan.

It was learned from excellent sources that one of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's programs here may be to convince the British that the Pacific war is too far away for them to operate effectively and economically. Should he succeed, it was said, the United States would be officially given the task it is believed it had expected to be forced to assume.

While many felt it would not be difficult to pursuade the British to permit the Americans to carry the burden of crushing the Japanese, there were some who said the British desire to wage an aggressive war in order to save face after the Americans restore their Far Eastern territories which the Japanese have overrun.

See Eden Seeking Red Accord.

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP).—Anthony Eden's decision to fly to Quebec was understood today to be motivated by his desire to see President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill exercise a stronger hand and reach a clearer understanding with Russia at a moment when elements of discord are reported to have crept into British-soviet relations.

A reliable informant said the lack of understanding stemmed from the Polish-soviet dispute, uncertainty over-soviet war aims in Europe, and military problems on which Britain and Russia do not see eye to eye. Eden was said to feel that they could be erased if brought to a showdown.

POPE MOVES TO WIN FREEDOM OF HLOND, PRIMATE OF POLAND

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 15 (AP).—Pope Piux XII, receiving more than 2,000 Polish troops, said today the Vatican would exert all its efforts on behalf of Poland.

The Vatican news service said the Pope had requested Msgr. Orsenigo, papal nuncio in Berlin, to take steps for the liberation of Cardinal August Hlond, primate of Poland. The cardinal is reported to have been transferred to Germany from France.

A HOSTAGE, SAY POLES.

The Polish telegraph agency at London said Cardinal Hlond, before his transfer to Germany, had rejected a German offer to establish him as regent of Poland. It added that he was being held as a hostage against Polish demands for punishment of Nazi leaders.

Report France Orders Marshal Petain's Arrest

New York, Sept. 15.—The American broadcasting station in Europe [Absie] said today French Minister of Justice Francois de Menthon announced in Paris that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Marshal Henri Petain. The minister said he would "ask for the creation of a special court" to try the former Vichy chief of state.

NIGHT BOMBERS RAID BERLIN AND PORT OF KIEL

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—British Lancaster bombers last night delivered a heavy attack on the northwestern German port of Kiel, while Mosquitos bombed Berlin for the fifth night in a row, it was officially announced today.

10,284 Airmen Lost.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—American air forces operating in Europe from D-day to Sept. 11 lost 2,870 aircraft with 10,284 men killed or missing in action, Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, deputy commander of the army air forces, said today.

Reporting that the AAF flew 187,147 sorties in tactical operations supporting ground forces and 86,155 strategic bombing sorties, Giles told a news conference, "The best proof of effective results is the present German position within their own borders."

COL. SIMONI'S HERO BROTHER SLAIN BY NAZIS

Col. Aristeo V. Simoni, retired United States army chaplain, Columbus hospital, said yesterday that dispatches from Rome announced that his brother, Gen. Simone Simoni, Italian World War I. hero, was recently slain by Nazis in reprisal killings with 319 other hostages.

Col. Simoni, who was decorated for heroism by several governments in the first World war, was retired with full military honors at Camp Grant last summer.

Gen. Simoni was an outspoken foe of Fascism and advocated opposition to the Nazis when they occupied Rome. A month's mind mass will be held for his repose in Assumption church, 313 W. Illinois st., with Col. Simoni, a monsignor, the celebrant.

BREACH GOTHIC LINE; CAPTURE STRATEGIC RIDGE

ROME, Sep. 15 (AP).—The last German defense lines south of Rimini wavered today as allied troops breached the Gothic line with the capture of the strategic San Savino-Coriano ridge.

British and Canadian troops reached within a mile of the Rimini air field and within four miles of Rimini, Adriatic doorway to the Po valley and the industrial heart of Italy.

Canadian infantrymen and tanks stormed across the Marano river. The nearby town of Coriano was captured. Air forces of the Mediterranean command supported the ground troops. With the crossing of the Marano, the last water barrier before Rimini and the Po valley had been overcome.

Nazi Losses Severe.

Severe losses were inflicted on the Germans along the entire 8th army Adriatic front. The capture of the 7,000 yard San Savino-Coriano ridge wiped out a formidable obstacle to the advance on the Po valley.

Greek and French troops joined the general 8th army assault with the Greeks blasting at the defenses of San Lorenzo, about five miles south of Rimini. Heavy Nazi counter-attacks were repulsed.

United States 5th army troops continued to batter the western half of the Gothic line. Slashing thru main fortifications, Lt. Gen. Mark Clark's men captured the towns of Monte Catino, Pietrabuona, and Ponti di Mariano, all north of Lucca. Capture of Pietrabuona gave the allies control of an important road leading thru a mountain pass. East of this area, other troops continued to push doggedly against Gothic line fortifications above Pistoia.

Shell San Marino.

Gen. Harold Alexander's headquarters announced that shelling and bombing of enemy gun positions in the little republic of San Marino, on the Adriatic coast south of Rimini, and commenced following a warning to civilians to evacuate their villages.

Air reconnaissance had shown that the Nazis, violating San Marino's neutral territory, were using the republic for hiding supply dumps and gun positions, headquarters asserted.

"Guns within the republic are being engaged by our air force and artillery as on other sectors of the front," it was stated.

1,419 ENSLAVED BY RUSSIA FIND HAVEN IN MEXICO

Aided by Contributions of Chicago Poles.

sprawl over the acreage. Crowded together, an entire family or group of three or four in one room, they sleep on folding camp cots and have little privacy and only the barest equipment.

Served Army Style.

Communal meals are provided. All the food—abundant and wholesome—is cooked in one kitchen and is dished out, army style, to individuals or heads of families, who take it to their rooms and eat with their groups.

The colony has a school, including kindergarten, grammar, and high school classes, in which five nuns from Chicago help with the teaching. The exiles cultivate small gardens, tend a few community owned cows to provide milk for children, and publish a daily multigraphed newspaper containing radioed news. They have a hospital staffed by their own doctors and nurses, and their own religious leaders conduct services in the old hacienda chapel.

Those who perform community work, such as preparing food, cleaning, and repairing, are paid the prevailing Mexican wage rate, about 3 to 4 pesos a day. A peso is worth about 20 cents. Others, unable to work because of infirmities or lack of jobs, receive 10 pesos a month to enable them to make occasional small purchases.

Ask to Visit U. S.

Except for the issuance of passes to make one day visits to this city of 59,000, the exiles are confined to the camp under terms of Mexico's permission for their stay here. Neither may they accept employment outside the camp. Some have sought to visit the United States on the basis of guarantees by their American relatives that the exiles would not become public charges, but none of the colonists with whom I talked knew of any such case being successful.

Terms of their acceptance here provided that the Poles may stay for the duration of the war or until such time as they can return to Poland and that, meantime, they may not move to another country or become citizens of Mexico or of any other country.

But the exiles have no desire to emigrate. Their fond ambition is to be able to return some day to their old homes in a liberated Poland. Meantime, they are so grateful for deliverance from the chaos in Europe that they have no complaints about the minor discomforts of their present existence. The suffering they endured and the greater miseries they escaped are still too fresh in their memory to permit discontent with any shortcomings of their haven.

Traveled 45,000 Miles.

The terrible experiences of Josef Plebanek in Siberia and on his circuitous journey of more than 45,000 miles between his home in Poland and the quiet safety of the Santa Rosa colony will serve as an example of what many of the Santa Rosa Poles have withstood.

Plebanek, 47, is in charge of food storage at the camp. A former soldier in the Polish army, he had fought against the Germans in World War I. and against the Russians in the Polish war of independence of 1919-'20. He was farming a soldier's land grant of 95 acres and operating a small restaurant in Stolpce, near the Polish-Russian frontier, when the soviets invaded Poland Sept. 17, 1939.

"They surged into Stolpce at 4 a. m. and began shooting all Poles in uniform—soldiers and police," Plebanek recalled. "A Polish soldier was thrown under a Russian tank and crushed to death. The Reds made a house to house search and arrested officials, professional men, land owners and other educated persons. When all the jails were full, the Reds used school houses and other public buildings to house their prisoners. The congestion was relieved by tranporting trainload after trainload of Poles across the Russian border to Minsk."

Polish sources have estimated that 1,500,000 Poles were deported to Russia by the soviets.

Disguised as Woman.

"Convinced that I would be shot if I were caught, inasmuch as I was an ex-soldier and landowner, I disguised myself as a peasant woman and escaped the Reds for a time," Plebanek continued.

"The soviets were amazed at the well stocked stores in Stolpce, a city of 12,000. At first they offered their rubles, worthless in Poland, for watches, clothes, food and whatever they fancied. But soon they gave up that pretense and resorted to looting stores and homes to get what they wanted. In a few days stores were entirely denuded of stocks.

"While the Reds were there, my brother and his two children came to Stolpce from Krakow, in southwest Poland, which he had fled to escape the invading Germans. But we discovered that while the Germans were harsher on the Jews than the Poles, the Russians were reversing that attitude. My brother decided it would be less dangerous if he returned to his home in Nazi occupied territory. Still in my disguise, I assisted him and his children across country to Lwow where he entrained for Krakow.

To Opera in Nighties.

"In Lwow one of the Reds' first acts was to order a performance of the opera. Red officials and their women attended in newly acquired dress clothes, to which many of them were unaccustomed. Some of the women, apparently seeing formal attire for the first time, were misled by the low cut of some of the clothes and were wearing nightgowns.

"When I returned to Stolpce I was pointed out to the Reds by a Jewish former neighbor and was immediately arrested and taken to Minsk. The soviets grilled me for days trying to compel me to admit my identity, but I insisted I was my brother, altho I learned my neighbor had given them full particulars about me.

"The Reds used a variety of brutal methods to try to break me down. One of their acts was to fire a pistol close to my ear unexpectedly. They ruptured my right eardrum. They beat me, knocked out my front teeth with a pistol butt, and said that if I didn't admit my identity I would be shot. But they added that if I did admit my identity, as a former soldier and landowner, they would shoot me anyway.

Loaded on Trains.

"Our food rations became steadily worse until we were receiving only a little bread and soup. Finally we were loaded onto trains, 2,500 to a train. There were about five Russians being sent into exile for every Pole among the prisoners, and the Russian prisoners were treated as badly as were the Poles.

"The train I was on went to Moscow, where it stopped in a suburb for two days while our captors decided what to do with us. Then we were started on a 44 day trip to the Siberian port of Vladivostok, across the width of Russia.

"We were jammed together in open cattle cars. Often we went without water for several days and frequently our only food was dry bread. Many of the prisoners were ill, but no medical care was provided. Sometimes the sick and starving battered at the car walls in frenzied desperation for lack of care, but no help was given them despite their suffering. The Russian prisoners, outnumbering the Poles, fought us in gangs and took our few possessions. We could only endure the misery, for escape was impossible. Machine guns were manned on top of each car, and the train was illuminated at night with searchlights.

4,000,000 in Exile.

"At Vladivostok 8,500 prisoners were herded aboard an aged steamer which took us north to the port of Magadan. Then we were taken overland to a large concentration camp at the headwaters of the Kolyma river in the heart of Siberia. In this area 4,000,000 exiled Russians and many foreigners were being held captive and forced to work on soviet developments.

"Among these exiles are Communists who fled what they considered were distasteful practices in capitalistic countries and had expected to find an Eden in Russia. But there they were with us, exiled to Siberia for the rest of their lives or at least long terms. In the camp with me were three Americans who had gone to Russia in the late '20s.

"The Russian exiles included a number of Soviet soldiers who had refused to go to the Finnish front. One was a tankman who had been accused of deliberately freezing his fingers to evade front line duty against the Finns. He had been ordered shot but the sentence was commuted to 10 years in Siberia.

Many Former Officials.

"I saw many once important Red officials who had been banished to Siberia after the 1936 purge in Russia. Three whose names once were noted in Moscow were Isidorov, commissar of the NKWD, communist form of the Czarist OGPU [secret police], which operated the entire prison labor project; Nikishov, district chief of the settlement, and Drobkin, commandant of the camp where I was held."

The captive labor, Plebanek explained, was employed to work a new soviet mining development, build air fields, and to construct a road more than 1,500 miles long to connect the Lena river region with the port of Magadan on the sea of Okhotsk. He said the Kolyma region, where this extensive work is being carried out by the exiles, is more highly developed than nearby Alaska.

For two and a half years, Plebanek said, he slaved in Siberia, under constant mistreatment, often with not enough to eat, and with only cotton quilted clothes to protect him against the cold and winds that sometimes blew men down. During this time 133 Polish men and two Polish women died in the concentration camp. Plebanek had a list of the names of these victims.

But freedom was near for him. In August, 1942, Russia needed whatever help she could get to stem the tide of Germans who had turned against her. Plebanek was told he could join the Polish army to fight on the side of Russia. Back he went by steamer to Vladivostok, then by train across Russia and to a Polish camp in Iran.

Had Lost 70 Pounds.

There he was found unfit for army service, like so many of the Poles who had suffered thru Russian captivity. When arrested in Poland he had weighed 160 pounds, but his weight had dropped to 90.

During the following several months that Plebanek remained in Iran, he met and married an exiled Polish widow, who now is with him at the Santa Rosa camp.

She and her son, a boy then 15, were seized in Nieswiez, Poland, by the soviets and taken to Minsk in June, 1941. They were loaded into cattle trucks, about 40 women to a truck, and taken to Kansk, far into the Russian interior, where the widow and her son were forced to toil on a farm.

They were released a year later, at the time Russia freed thousands of Poles to permit the men to fight the Germans. The woman and her son were among about 75,000 Poles who succeeded in making the difficult and dangerous trek to freedom in Iran.

The widow told of exchanging a long guarded silk dress for 140 pounds of wheat which provided her and her son with food on the journey to Iran. Others who made the trip were less fortunate. Tho freed by the Russians, they had been deprived of everything except the clothes they wore, which often were only rags, and their plight was pitiful, even tho they had their liberty again.

Helped to America.

Following their marriage in Iran, Plebanek and his wife were among the exiles aided by the Polish government to make the long journey to America. Their course took them from Iran to Iraq, then to India, thru the Mediterranean to West Africa, then to Australia, to New Zealand, and finally across the vast Pacific to Mexico. Mrs. Plebanek's son had left them in Iran to join the Polish army now fighting with the allies in Italy.

Like other exiles at Santa Rosa, the Plebaneks at first had difficulty becoming accustomed to the security of their new surroundings. For a long time it seemed unbelievable to them that they were not imprisoned or in momentary danger of being killed or enslaved, that they need not worry about the sources of their next meal, and where they would sleep.

Many of the new arrivals, especially children, were slow to give up their habit of hoarding bits of food against the uncertainty of the future. In pitiful remembrance of their sufferings, children would stow away under their mattresses a piece of bread or a potato. Even nurses at first hid extra bandages instead of returning them to store cabinets. But gradually they realized they have reached a sanctuary where they will have a place to sleep and food to eat today, tomorrow, and the next day.

Route to Slavery and Then to Freedom for Poles Exiled by Russians

Broken line traces tortuous route of 1,419 Poles from their native land, first into the slavery of life in Russian Siberia, and thence back thru Iran, to India, around Africa, to Australia, and finally to haven in Mexico.

Freed from concentration camp in Russia, a Pole in rags is pictured about to cross frontier to freedom in Iran. The picture was taken in 1943.

2 BRITISHERS KNOW A MILITARY SECRET WHEN THEY SEE IT

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15. — British circles are chuckling over a published story of the recent trip to France to Adm. Louis Mountbatten, commander in chief of the southeast Asia command, and Field Marshal Montgomery. This is the story:

The leaders' ship was sunk while crossing the channel and it then developed that Adm. Mountbatten could not swim. Another vessel rescued them.

Later Mountbatten told Montgomery, "Better keep this under our hats. It would be bad for my prestige if people learned that I, a British admiral, cannot swim."

"Certainly," replied Montgomery, "it would be worse for my prestige if people knew that I cannot walk on water."

REPORTS F. D. R., CHURCHILL SEND POPE MESSAGE

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 15 (AP).—The newspaper Le Canada said today that Cardinal Rodrigue Villeneuve was carrying to Rome a message from President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. It was announced several days ago that the Archbishop of Quebec was planning visits to the Vatican. "The cardinal probably is carrying to the sovereign pontiff special messages from Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt and the assurance that the hopes which he expressed to the British prime minister concerning peace conditions were receiving the attention they deserved at the 'victory conference,'" the French-language newspaper said. The cardinal has arrived in Britain by plane from Montreal.

[Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, said it is "news to me" when asked at Quebec if Cardinal Villeneuve bore a message to the pope.]

ANTI-NEW DEAL DEMOCRATS' AIM: TO GET OUT VOTE

Party Set in 36 States, O'Connor Reports.

Announcing the purpose of his organization to get "the American voters to the polls," John J. O'Connor, executive chairman of the American Democratic national committee, anti-fourth term party, asserted yesterday that organization has been completed in 36 states.

"Hillman [Sidney Hillman, CIO leader] and his Communists are ringing the doorbell to every flat," said O'Connor, "to get their people out to register and to vote under the threat of 'voting or not eating.' These workers will just not receive their union cards or permits to work unless they obey the orders of the gentleman from the Volga.

29,838,938 "Stayed Home."

"In 1940 there were 29,838,938 men and women in the United States, eligible to vote, who failed to go to the polls. A realignment of 500,000 votes would have changed the result.

"Hillman, Browder, the Communists, and New Dealers will vote in 1944. Let's get our American voters to the polls."

O'Connor listed as states with committees and officials actively operating Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

Under Various Names.

"In some of those states," said O'Connor, "our group is known as Democrats for Dewey, Jeffersonian Democrats for Dewey, All-Party Ticket for Dewey, and by other titles, all affiliated with our national committee.

"Within a short time, within days in some instances, organizations will be set up in the remaining 12 states."

O'Connor said active headquarters of the organization are now in operation in the following 16 cities: Washington, New York [3], Chicago, Boston, Johnstown, Pa., Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Nashville, Memphis, Oklahoma City, and Fort Worth.

4 ILLINOISANS LIBERATED FROM BULGAR PRISON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Eleven army officers and nine enlisted men have been released from a prisoner of war camp in Bulgaria, the war department announced today. They are now at an American hospital at Istanbul, Turkey. Among them are four Illinoisans: Second Lt. Richard Roehll, 619 Washington blvd., Oak Park; 2d Lt. John F. Wilson and Sgt. Harold L. Bern, both of Galesburg, and Sgt. Michael J. Sullivan, 1201 W. Roosevelt rd., Chicago. Second Lt. Thaddeus C. Gajda, Dearborn, Mich., and 2d Lt. Edward R. O'Hara, Detroit, also are in the group.

SOLDIERS SOLD OUT AT ARGO, UNION CHARGES

Independents Back Fight on Election.

Officials of the Employes association, an independent union of workers at the Corn Products Refining company in Argo, which lost an election June 27 to the CIO, charged yesterday that the election was contrary to the sentiment of a majority of several hundred absentee workers in the armed services who were not allowed to vote.

George Christiansen, Chicago attorney who represents the independent union, said that an unofficial canvass of these absentee workers produced replies from 183 who are vehemently in favor of the original union as opposed to only 10 for the CIO.

Appended to Appeal.

These unofficial returns, he said, have been appended to the independent union's appeal, filed July 24 in Washington with the national labor relations board in support of its contention that the election was illegal and that the results would have been reversed had the servicemen been allowed to vote. Since then no word has been received from the NLRB, Christiansen said.

Bitter resentment over the attitude of the NLRB in ruling them out of the election was expressed in letters returned from overseas by many of the servicemen, said Christiansen.

"If we are good enough to fight, we ought to be good enough to vote," said one reply.

Feeling of Unrest.

Christiansen said there is consequently a general feeling of unrest among the company's approximately 1,500 workers. He added that, during the six year incumbency of the independent union, there never was a strike and ideal relations prevailed between the workers and the company.

In the election in June, he said, 683 votes were cast for the Oil Workers International Union [CIO], 614 for the Employes Association, and 16 against both, while 47 ballots were challenged and 11 were voided. At the time, he said, there were 1,487 workers and, in view of these figures, he contends the CIO did not receive a majority.

Other Charges Made.

The independent union alleges further, Christiansen said, that the election was illegal because it was held off of the company premises, that "ringers" [invalid ballots] were voted and that the independent union requested a list of the voters which the NLRB held must be secret.

NAZI FURLOUGH BAN EXTENDED OUTSIDE REICH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—An extension of the furlough ban to include factory hands employed outside the reich borders was announced by the German radio tonight. "Furloughs in all cases will be granted only if there is a medical certificate stressing urgency for health reasons," the broadcaster said. "War workers or private employes called up for armed service can only be granted an interim furlough for the settlement of private affairs if it is absolutely necessary. War workers injured in air raids must cut their furloughs down to the minimum."

SHUN POLITICS, UNION MEMBERS ASK IN PAMPHLET

Harry Morgan, 36, a turret lathe operator in a Chicago war plant, issued a pamphlet yesterday urging CIO union members to join him in a drive to remove politics from the organization before it is corrupted and destroyed.

His attorney, William J. Grace, said the pamphlets were handed out at the plant of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, 5600 Roosevelt rd., by Morgan and four members of local 1150 of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers.

"The whole question," said the pamphlet, is: Shall shop stewards be labor men or politicians? Shall they be stewards or precinct captains? Labor and politics are two separate masters.

Can't Serve Two Masters.

"You can't be loyal to both. One of them is sure to be sold out where the two of them are in the picture—and generally it is labor that is sold out.

"I say that your politics is your own business. My politics is my own business. If I am for Roosevelt and you are for Dewey or you are for Roosevelt and I am for Dewey, that is your business. It is not the union's business. It is not the employer's business."

Morgan, who joined the union in November, 1942, recently filed suit in Superior court to get his money back. He charged that the organization is a New Deal and communistic machine masquerading as a labor union.

He was removed as chief shop steward in the plant, Morgan charged, because he had refused to distribute communistic and New Deal printed matter. After he began suit, Morgan said, the UE leaders printed smear stories about him in the union newspaper.

Recalls Pledge to Members.

Those who joined him in distributing the pamphlets, Morgan said, are Frank Jacobs, 5229 Monroe st.; Elmer Churchill, 1700 Humboldt blvd.; John Sobus, 1809 N. Washtenaw av., and Carlo Giampapa, 1832 S. Hamlin av.

"We five were the committee that organized the union of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company," Morgan said. "When we were organizing the UE here, we pledged to the workers that we would not lead them out of the frying pan into the fire. The fire of political bossism and communist domination is just as bad as the frying pan of employer rule.

"Real labor unionism can render true service in the employer-employe set-up. Political and Communist labor unionism renders service to neither. It serves selfish and un-American purposes alone."

Grace B. Reynolds Named as G. O. P. Campaign Aid

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds of Cambridge City, Ind., former vice chairman of the Republican national committee, today was named campaign assistant to Miss Marion E. Martin, assistant chairman of the Republican national committee. Mrs. Reynolds will assist Miss Martin in directing women's activities in the campaign. Mrs. Reynolds was active in the 1936 and 1940 campaigns.

Granted Divorce

LOLA LANE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP).—Lola Lane, who gave up her movie career in 1941 when she married Henry Clay Dunham, today won a divorce from the aircraft executive. She testified he suggested a marital vacation last April, which vacation still is in effect. Lola formerly was married to Lew Ayres, actor, who became a chaplain's assistant, and to Director Alexander Hall.

KELLY MEETING CALLED TO PUSH VOTING DRIVE

Mayor Kelly yesterday called a meeting of the Democratic central committee of Cook county for Sept. 19 to stimulate the drive for registration of voters. Kelly is chairman of the committee.

All precinct polling places in the territory of the Chicago board of election commissioners will be opened Oct. 10 to aid in the registration drive. The board last night announced that it will catch up tonight on the task of mailing out soldier ballots, for which 123,000 applications have been received.

George F. Ross, manager of Democratic county headquarters, announced that Peter Fosco, 20th ward committeeman and county commissioner, will be in charge of the speakers' bureau. His assistant will be Municipal Judge George L. Quilici. Ward and country township meetings will be held in behalf of county candidates beginning next week.

Hurricane Delays Start of UNRRA Meeting

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 15 (AP).—Opening of the 44 nation council of UNRRA [the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration] was postponed today until tomorrow. The eastern hurricane delayed arrival of delegates.

ASSAILS RECORD OF CITY JUDGES IN GAMING CASES

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Republican municipal court candidates are making the news in the lagging Cook county campaign. Normally overshadowed by the county candidates, some of the aspirants for the bench are stepping out and smacking the Kelly machine monopoly on local government.

William J. Remus, one of the 12 G. O. P. court nominees, attacked the Kelly judges last night as protectors of the gambling syndicate. He spoke in the 49th ward at 6150 Broadway.

Remus quoted the Chicago crime commission report showing that during June and July only 3.3 per cent of 1,525 gambling charge defendants were found guilty and were fined an average of $10. More than three-fourths were represented by four lawyers—"lawyers for the gambling syndicate," he charged.

Termed Organized Murder.

"Organized gambling as it flourishes in Chicago is organized murder," Remus said. "It is organized extortion. It is organized racketeering. It is organized vote frauds and it means widespread corruption.

"As a great industry in Chicago it has produced nothing but grafters, embezzlers, forgers, confidence men, pickpockets, burglars, and bandits. How could it have any other result?"

He recounted the murder of Ben Zuckerman, 24th ward Democratic power; Sam Gervase, shot last March; James De Angelo, whose body was found stuffed in his automobile in March; Thomas Oneglia, gambling boss killed last December; the kidnaping of Jack Guzik, gambling leader, and others.

Remus named Democratic politicians whose henchmen were employed by big time gamblers, according to testimony in federal court.

Strikes at Monopoly.

"It is obvious why the Kelly judges are anxious to protect these gamblers," Remus said. "And now it is vital for the citizenry to understand that there is no way of breaking this criminal hold on Chicago without breaking the Democratic monopoly of the Municipal court."

60 CIO Workers Remain Away from Motor Jobs

More than 60 employes of Clawson & Bals, Inc., remained away from their jobs in the company's plants at 2450 Calumet av. and 4701 Lake st. yesterday. The strikers are members of the CIO United Steel Workers and are engaged in making parts for motors in military vehicles. They went on strike Thursday night as negotiations were under way for a contract.

Isle Below Split Seized from Nazis, Says Tito

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP).—Yugoslav Partisans have expelled the Germans from the Dalmatian island of Brac, 10 miles south of the port of Split, Marshal Tito announced today. Tito said 24,000 German and satellite troops had been killed and 11,900 captured by his Partisans in the first 10 days of September.

CHINESE LINK UP WITH STILWELL'S BURMA TROOPS

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 15 (AP).—A Chinese force has made contact in Yunnan with the Burma troops of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and gained control of a trail between Myitkyina and Tengchung which requires only the capture of Lungling to establish an overland supply route from India to China.

Myitkyina is about 70 miles air line from Tengchung. Lungling, less than 40 miles south and east of Tengchung, is on the Burma road. The Burma and Ledo roads are expected to be connected by way of Myitkyina, Tengchung, and Lungling.

Japanese forces still were advancing toward Kweilin in their Hunan-Kwangsi campaign far to the east in an attempt to bisect China and meet any projected allied invasion of the China coast. The enemy drive on Kweilin, an important American air base, was thrusting west from Hengyang and southwest thru Lingling, Gen. Stilwell said.

Munitions Blast

Site of explosion (arrow).

Hastings, Neb., Sept. 15 (AP).—An explosion which threw box cars 150 feet into the air and was felt 125 miles away killed three service men and injured 56 persons today at the Hastings naval ordnance depot—the third fatal blast this year in the 48,000 acre installation.

Two negro sailors and a coast guardsmen were killed. One of those injured, W. B. McQuaid, was the husband of a woman killed April 6 when an explosion at the depot took eight lives. Last Jan. 27 three seamen were killed in a blast.

Today's explosion dug a crater 550 feet long and 25 feet deep and threw railroad cars over high earth embankments. Windows were broken in buildings within a 95 mile radius of the depot.

Besides those injured at the depot, three students were cut by flying glass at Glenvil, and at Harvard, 16 miles away, a school principal and 10 pupils were injured when the concussion caved in a roof.

MURDER CHARGE PLACED AGAINST PARK POLICEMAN

Park Policeman Edward Neis, 47, was booked on a charge of murder at the E. Chicago av. station early today in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Audrey McLaughlin Hooke, 37, of 231 E. Superior st., a former dancer and model.

Mrs. Hooke was shot behind the right ear with the policeman's service revolver early Thursday morning in the Lake Shore park recreation house, Chicago av. and Lake Shore dr. Neis, denying that he shot her, has insisted that she must have committed suicide.

Assistant State's Atty. Julius Sherwin ordered the murder charge placed against Neis after a conference with John Warren, deputy chief of detectives; Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the police homicide section, and Acting Capt. Michael Spatz of the Chicago av. station.

Plan Monday Arraignment.

The plan is to arraign Neis in the Felony court Monday and to ask a continuance until after Sept. 28 when an inquest into Mrs. Hooke's death is to be resumed by Coroner Brodie.

Mrs. Hooke, estranged wife of Robert D. Hooke, labor relations counselor for a national mail order house, was shot at 12:40 a. m. Thursday. Policeman Neis said that he was in the men's room in the basement of the Lake Shore park fieldhouse when he heard a shot upstairs. He ran up, he said, and found Mrs. Hooke shot, and his gun at her side. He stuck to this story in a lie detector test and during an eight hour examination last night.

"This man's story is full of glaring discrepancies," said Prosecutor Sherwin. Sherwin admitted that he had no positive evidence against Neis, but he wanted a coroner's jury and perhaps a grand jury to investigate the case.

Points to Powder Marks.

Sherwin said a factor prompting the murder charge against Neis was the presence of powder marks on Neis' right hand, and only a slight trace on Mrs. Hooke's left hand, plus the fact she was shot behind the right ear. Also, said Sherwin, Neis' gun had a safety attachment which he doubts Mrs. Hooke knew how to operate to fire the gun.

Another element, Sherwin said, was Neis' insistence that he knew Mrs. Hooke only casually. At least, he said, she knew his name. This was revealed by a new witness, Miss Joan Spies, 18, of 1001 N. Dearborn st. Miss Spies was sitting near the fieldhouse with an ensign late Wednesday night when, she said, Mrs. Hooke came up and asked them if they had seen "Policeman Neis." "I'm waiting for him," Miss Spies quoted her as saying.

Anthony Kuhn, 1641 Berwyn av., a chef at the Lake Shore Athletic club, told Sherwin and police that he had seen the policeman embracing Mrs. Hooke outside the fieldhouse at 10:30 p. m., two hours before Neis said the two went indoors. Neis denied Kuhn's story.

Sherwin said he would resume questioning of Neis today.

Policeman for 19 Years.

Neis, a park policeman for 19 years, when told he was to be charged with murder, said, "Go ahead and book me."

Against the technical murder charge, police said it is possible that Mrs. Hooke shot herself, or was shot accidentally. She is known to have threatened suicide because of divorce litigation. Also police admitted they know of no motive for Neis to commit murder.

MILLION LONDON HOMES BLASTED IN ROBOT BLITZ

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—German robot bombs landed in the southern counties of Britain and the London area today for the first time in two weeks. Damage and casualties were reported.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Twenty-three thousand London houses and apartments were destroyed and 1,104,000 damaged in the recent flying bomb attacks, Minister of Reconstruction Woolton announced for the first time today. He said the government had not previously thought it wise to tell the people the facts about London's damage problem.

Another 84,000 houses had been destroyed by bombs by last spring, and 142,000 of those damaged are still awaiting repair. Forty-two thousand houses are not yet fit for occupancy, Woolton said. The blitz and flying bombs combined, he estimated, destroyed homes accommodating half a million people.

83,000 on Repair Work.

Woolton said 83,000 men were employed in repair and demolition work in London as of Sept. 12 of whom 21,000 were brought from the provinces and 5,000 absorbed from military forces. Among materials needed were 150,000,000 tiles and slates, 200,000,000 square feet of ceiling and wallboard and 50,000,000 square feet of glass.

Woolton admitted it would not be possible to build new houses, either temporary or permanent, in time for the winter, but promised that 10,000 huts of various designs would be erected where the need is greatest. He announced that Malcolm

Ask Sharing of Homes.

The council of Croydon, London borough in which three of every four houses were damaged, today appealed to persons whose houses still stand to share them with bombed out families. With winter coming on, many persons are still sleeping in public shelters and even in garden shelters.

Woolton joined Prime Minister Churchill, Regional Commissioner Dudley, and other government spokesmen in warning the public against thinking that enemy attacks on England are ended.

"We should be foolish to assume that he [the enemy] has exhausted his capacity to invent devilish instruments of destruction which can be discharged from a safe distance without any risk to himself," Woolton said.

Woolton urged evacuees to stay out of London until the government gives the all clear signal, which he promised at the earliest possible moment.

For the last 10 days the ministry of home security and other government departments have been telling evacuees to stay put, Dudley underlining the warning with the announcement that attacks by new Nazi weapons of destruction are probable.

CHICAGOAN GETS DSC FOR LEADING ATTACK ON NAZIS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—The war department announced today award of the distinguished service cross to Sgt. Michael Ros, infantry, 1829 W. 19th st., Chicago, and the silver star to Pvt. 1st Class Arthur Schoop, infantry, Freeport, Ill.

Sgt. Ros' citation said "In action on March 28, 1943, west of Maknassy, Tunisia, when the platoon in which he was a squad leader suffered numerous casualties he held his ground, began firing, and killed the German officer leading the attack. Then, since no American officer was present, reorganized the platoon and led a patrol that captured eight Germans."

Pvt. 1st Class Schoop's citation read: "When intense fire halted his company in Italy on Feb. 29, 1944, he ignored fire and knocked out an enemy gun 400 yards away.

You're SURE when you say V-DAY

SURE THAT VICTORY, final and complete, is now inevitable!

And you can be sure when you say Seagram's—sure that the whiskey you buy today TASTES the same, and IS the same pre-war quality Seagram's that you bought in 1940, 1941, and for years before.

This is the result of Seagram's foresight and confidence . . . that fine blended whiskies would always be America's overwhelming preference.

Therefore when all distilleries were converted to 100% war production in October, 1942, Seagram's great warehouses in Kentucky, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Maryland were filled with a treasure of Seagram's very finest whiskies and Seagram's pedigreed neutral grain spirits.

These priceless stocks had been distilled exclusively for blending purposes. Therefore, all during this difficult war period, Seagram's HAS continued, and WILL continue, to bottle, distribute and sell whiskies of the same fine pre-war quality—Seagram's 5 Crown and 7 Crown.

We have not been opportunists. We have not sacrificed quality for quantity. For you would have tasted the difference. And your faith in the name of Seagram would never have been the same again.

That is why today, you, seeking whiskey of true pre-war quality, need only . . . "Say Seagram's—and be sure!"

TO HELP BRING V-DAY CLOSER

• Up to July 31st, 1944, Seagram and its affiliate companies had produced over 185,000,000 proof gallons of war alcohol—the record production amongst all distillers.

URGES BRITAIN ACT IN INDIA TO AID ALLIED CAUSE

Illinoisan Cites Peril to American Forces.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—Declaring the full coöperation of India in the war against Japan would save thousands of American lives, Rep. Calvin Johnson [R., Ill.] today called for a definite statement of British policy toward Indian independence in the interest of the allied cause.

Johnson, in a statement, expressed the hope that President Roosevelt at the Quebec conference has called Prime Minister Churchill's attention to the vital need for Indian support in the drive against Japan.

"I hope this matter has been discussed at the Quebec conference," said the congressman, "because on the prompt solution of the Indian independence question depend the lives of thousands of American boys in India and Burma, as well as the entire course of the war in the Pacific.

In British Prisons.

"If the lives of these American soldiers were not involved, the Indian question would not directly concern the United States. But with Britain and the United States pledged to crush Japan together, the issue becomes more than a dispute between India and Britain.

"Gen. Stilwell's army can use all the support it can get. But I am convinced that no material assistance will be given our forces by the Indian people until a definite statement of policy concerning India's independence is made by the British. It is impossible to obtain India's coöperation as long as her leaders languish in British prisons."

The Illinois congressman said he fully understands India's opposition to the "so-called independence offer" made India by Stafford Cripps in the name of the British government.

Johnson said the Cripps proposal, altho purporting to offer India freedom after the war, is so restricted by various conditions that it is a "hoax."

Asks Prompt Consideration.

Johnson urged prompt consideration by the house foreign affairs committee of his recent resolution urging that two diplomatic ministers representing Britain and India in Washington be declared "persona non grata" for alleged efforts to mold American public opinion with regard to the Indian question.

The ministers are Girja Shankar Bajai, minister for India, and Ronald Campbell, minister extraordinary and envoy plenipotentiary for Great Britain. "If the committee takes up this resolution," he said, "we may be able thru full hearings and inquiry to remove the veil of secrecy that shrouds India and learn how much help Gen. Stilwell's army is getting from India and Britain."

Johnson offered his resolution earlier this month after Ambassador William Phillips was recalled from London, reportedly at the request of the British government. Johnson charged the British sought Phillips' removal because Phillips had reported to President Roosevelt that the Indian army would not help the allies beat Japan unless India was given independence.

SENATORS VOTE $1,475,250,000 FOR ROAD PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—A bill authorizing the federal government to spend $1,475,250,000 on a three year post-war highway program passed the senate by voice vote late today.

It was sent to the house where prospects were strong that action would be deferred until after the congressional recess for the November election.

The measure authorizes the government to spend 200 million dollars a year for three post-war years on main line federal highways, 125 million dollars for urban and 125 million dollars for farm-to-market roads, all the funds to be matched by the states on a 50-50 basis. An exception was made in the case of Arkansas, the bulk of whose gasoline and other revenues from highway users are pledged to the amortization of road bonds.

In addition to the funds the states have to match, the bill authorizes the government to spend 25 million dollars a year on forest highways, 12½ million on forest road and trail developments, and $4,250,000 on national park highways.

2,000 WOMEN AIR MECHANICS ARE GOING TO HAWAII

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—More than 2,000 women now being trained as civilian aircraft workers are going to Hawaii to help the 7th air force.

Army air forces officials said today that 5,000 specialists in aircraft maintenance, repair, armament, and similar work were being recruited and that it appeared about half would be women. The women, who range in age from 18 to 55, already have proved their skill in training here, officials said.

Housing is being constructed at Hawaii for the workers and will be ready for the first group, expected to arrive there soon.

288 MILLIONS GO FOR WAR COSTS EACH DAY IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Government war spending was at the rate of $288,800,000 a day in August, an increase of 2.1 per cent over daily expenditures in July, the war production board reported today.

The total spent for war purposes in August was $7,798,000,000. For the period from July 1, 1940, thru Aug. 31, 1944, war expenditures totaled 215 billion dollars.

MRS. PHILOMENA ANDERSON.

Mrs. Philomena Anderson, 31, of 2440 Harlem av., Elmwood Park, who said her husband, LeRoy, 38, candy maker, struck her during a quarrel about religion, was awarded temporary alimony of $18 a week yesterday by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court. Mrs. Anderson, represented by Atty. S. Edwin Bloom, charged cruelty in a pending suit for divorce. They were married May 29, 1935, and separated Sept. 3, 1944, and have two children, Joan, 7, and Howard, 6.

LAUDS HEROISM OF NAVY MATES UNDER JAP FIRE

John P. Orr Jr.

A man who has been 13 years in the navy and who is credited officially with participation in nine major engagements yesterday told of the almost superhuman endurance and heroism his shipmates had displayed in some of the war's most grueling assignments.

He is Chief Gunner's Mate John P. Orr Jr., 32 of Davenport, Ia. He is spending a portion of his leave, the first in about a year and a half, with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Ribbing, 7932 Metropole st., Elmwood Park. He is a nephew of Kay Clancy, Tribune reporter.

One thing Orr won't forget, he said, is the conduct of a Chaplain Kelly after their ship sustained a direct hit from a Japanese bomber near the Marshalls last winter. The chaplain was one of the men wounded by the blast, and the doctor ordered him to turn in.

"People need me in the dressing station," was his reply. Orr related how the chaplain held a tourniquet on his own leg to keep himself from bleeding to death while he ministered to the wounded and dying in the dressing station. He later accepted medical aid and recovered.

A FIGHTIN' SHIP, VET OF 2 WARS, RETURNS HOME

New York, Sept. 15 [Special].—Proudly displaying the Purple Heart, a memento of Pearl Harbor, and service ribbons of both World wars, the U. S. S. Nevada has arrived in New York harbor after five months in the Atlantic and Mediterranean theaters where she took part in every major European engagement involving sea support.

The navy said the ship came into port Thursday and would discharge its entire crew for a 20-day leave. She is the first American battleship to return to a home port since D-day.

The story of the Nevada, which made a heroic comeback after being put out of action at Pearl Harbor for 12 months, was told at a press interview in the officers' wardroom with Capt. Powell M. Rhea of Fayetteville, Ark., her skipper, and Comdr. Howard A. Yeager of Salina, Kas., executive officer.

Both men described D-day, June 6, as the "hottest" engagement the Nevada was in during her tour of duty in the European theater with the battle for Cherbourg, on July 25, when the ship was "straddled" 27 times by German gunnery, as a close runnerup. These were near misses landing on both sides of the ship simultaneously.

According to Capt. Rhea, the Nevada came thru D-day untouched and without a single casualty. She suffered minor shrapnel hits in the Cherbourg duel with German coastal batteries, but in none of the engagements were any men lost.

On D-day the crew of the Nevada accomplished the outstanding feat of four hours of continuous gun fire, while officers and men stayed at their battle stations continuously for 80 hours during the initial invasion period. The ship's guns on D-day fired 2,300 14-inch shells and 400 5-inch shells, approximately 2,500 tons of ammunition.

After operating off the Normandy coast, the Nevada was dispatched to the Mediterranean to support the landings of the American 7th army and on Aug. 15, took part in the shelling of Toulon.

The last salvo fired from the Nevada's guns before she was ordered home was "historic," as Comdr. Yeager put it, since it destroyed the Chateau d'If, off Marseille, which was where the count of Monte Cristo was imprisoned.

MARINE HEROES RETURN; TELL OF WIPING OUT JAPS

Forty-two marine heroes, 23 of them from Chicagoland, who went in the Southwest Pacific, 23 of them from Chicagoland, were greeted with wild acclaim by teary eyed relatives and friends when their train pulled into the Dearborn station last night.

Sgt. Mike Greco.

Among the Chicago group was Platoon Sgt. Mike Greco, 23, of 2414 S. Harvey av., Berwyn, who was awarded the silver star and a Presidential citation for valorous conduct. He fought thru campaigns all the way from Tulagi to Saipan.

"The Japs still are too dumb," said Sgt. Greco. "They can't beat us because they aren't clever enough in spite of all their claims."

Sgt. Greco's company was the first to reach the Japanese held airport on Tarawa, he related. In the course of battle, he said, all but 25 men of his unit, including all of the company's commissioned officers, were wiped out by Japanese gunfire from machine gun nests and pillboxes.

"I was the senior officer; so it was my duty to take over," explained Sgt. Greco.

Modestly he disclaimed glory for himself and gave the credit to his 25 men who stormed and captured the airport after a fierce battle. They wiped out 20 Japs in one pillbox, 15 in another and at least 25 in a third.

Last night was the first time that Sgt. Greco has seen Chicago in three years. He has been overseas 26 months. His wife, Carol; their baby daughter, Sue, 2 years old, and his mother, Mrs. F. Greco, all live in Berwyn. They were not at the station to greet him, he said, because he hadn't wired them that he was on his way home.

Capt. Duane Fultz, 25, of 1804 Dial ct., Springfield, was in charge of the furlough group as far as Chicago, where they disbanded for their separate destinations.

Some of the returned heroes carried colorful relics, among them Japanese swords taken from Japanese soldiers and a Japanese flag.

Among those from this area who returned with the group were Corp. John Schiller of 6230 S. Talman av., and Staff Sgt. Edward Krope of 2301 S. Leavitt st.

$200 Gold Studded Shoes Bought by Movie Figure

A pair of tan calfskin men's shoes was sold yesterday for $200 at Marshall Field & Co. by Philip Rife, 317 N. Home av., Park Ridge, a salesman. The shoes looked much the same as other footgear, but they had gold slugs in the heels and gold eyelets as well as gold tipped laces. The purchaser was a member of the motion picture industry on the west coast. His name was not disclosed.

REPRISAL FEAR BRINGS HALT TO HOUSE FCC QUIZ

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—Fear of "swift and certain reprisals" upon one of the navy's highest ranking officers caused Rep. Miller [R., Mo.] to cut short today an inquiry by a special house committee into federal communications commission operations.

On Wednesday, Miller had made public the secret testimony of Rear Adm. Stanford C. Hooper, retired, which accused the FCC of partial responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster. He had planned to proceed today, it was reported, with the questioning of FCC Chairman James L. Fly about extracts from a transcript of testimony from another admiral.

While the name of this second officer was not stated officially, it is known that Rear Adm. Joseph R. Redman gave a statement privately to the house committee. Last March, Miller charged that President Roosevelt sought Adm. Redman's retirement for disclosing to the committee an instance of FCC bungling that caused a naval mishap in Alaskan waters.

When the committee hearing opened today Miller said he had been approached overnight by a former naval officer who pointed out that "the presentation of certain new and startling testimony might seriously affect and injure the future career of a high ranking officer of the navy."

CIO BUS DRIVERS DELAY TRAFFIC IN PAY DISPUTE

New York, Sept. 15 [Special].—Tens of thousands of homeward bound workers were delayed today when CIO drivers on two east side and four cross-town Manhattan bus lines joined in a slowdown over a wage dispute.

Passengers were forced to wait 20 minutes for buses. When they did get on them, the drivers would go only 15 miles an hour. There was no passing of the bus in front. There usually were six or seven vehicles bunched together. Passenger protests were disregarded. The drivers said their tactics consisted only of "safe and sane driving."

The dispute is over pay for 10 minutes paper work which the drivers do before going out on their routes. The drivers said the companies—the East Side Omnibus corporation, and the Comprehensive Omnibus company—refused to pay for the work, which consists of getting change ready and receiving the day's routing assignments. They said the payment has been approved by the war labor board.

The drivers are members of local 100 of the CIO transport workers' union.

ELECTION BOARD POINTS TO RULES ON REGISTRATION

Persons registered in the permanent registration system need not register again for the November election unless they have changed their name or address, John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, said yesterday. He said the board's switchboard was swamped with calls from persons who thought that all had to register again on Oct. 10 because of the opening of all polling places for local registration, and remarked that this registration is only for new voters or for those who have moved or changed their name, by marriage or otherwise.

W-G-N to Depict Scenes as London Lights Go On

The lifting of London's black-out after more than five years of nocturnal gloom, will be depicted in a special broadcast over W-G-N-Mutual in coöperation with the British Broadcasting corporation from 8:45 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. The broadcast, titled "When the Lights Go On Again in London" will originate from the city's streets. Commentators will describe the reaction of civilians to the restoration of night time illumination.

Thousands of Businesses to Quit Tokyo, Say Japs

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—The Japanese Domei agency broadcast today that the equipment of "several thousand" business concerns would be moved from Tokyo to other areas "in the very near future" in precaution against air raids.

WYOMING, TIRED OF OPA BUNGLING, TURNING TO G.O.P.

Live Stock Raisers Bitter at Burocrats.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 15.—The eastern housewife who asks her butcher why beef is so poor and scarce is being answered in a clamorous chorus by the ranchmen of Wyoming. New Deal incompetence is the reason, they say.

Disgust with New Deal incompetence on the part of the live stock growers, who constitute the largest and most potent segment of the electorate in this state, is one of the outstanding reasons why Gov. Dewey will carry Wyoming, according to Republican leaders.

The embattled stockmen recently voiced their opinion of the New Deal in resolutions stating the OPA does not understand "that the business of meat production is a three cornered one: the producer, the feeder, and the processor; that the feeder is an essential gear in the marketing machine and if this gear is not kept in motion at this critical time it is apparent we are heading for trouble."

Both Sides Suffer.

The midwestern region, of which Chicago is the metropolis, is the stock feeding center of the nation. The consumers of meat and the producers of beef cattle are both suffering from OPA bungling of cattle feeding regulations, according to the Wyoming stockmen.

Russel Thorp, secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers association, said today that the number of cattle being fed in the corn belt has decreased 41 per cent "because of the cattle feeders' reluctance to buy and feed live stock while they are uncertain what changes may be made in current price regulations."

In turn, cattle growers have been delaying marketing pending clarification of the situation. The whole live stock industry has been deranged by OPA ineptitude, according to the stockmen. Thorp said that as a result of the paralysis of stock feeding in the corn belt a large amount of live stock is being marketed that normally would not leave the ranches. The marketing of fat cows and heifers has doubled because they can be slaughtered immediately, instead of being put to feed. Ordinarily they would be held for breeding.

Buyers Taking Anything.

"Lacking feed cattle," said Thorp, "buyers are taking anything they can get that can be killed out rapidly. Only a small percentage of cattle shipped from the range are fit for immediate slaughter. Most of them must go thru the feed lot to make suitable beef. Thus if the feeder is stymied, the range cattleman automatically loses his market for a large percentage of his produce and the consumer loses a large volume of edible beef. Under such conditions the packing houses will be unable to process the heavy fall runs, including thousands that should go to the feed lots, while supplies of beef later on will be entirely inadequate."

Thorp said point reduction on utility and commercial grades of beef had not alleviated the producers' situation because most people will not buy lower grades of beef. He said a price increase on A and AA beef cattle grades is necessary to allow feeders to operate without forcing a "ruinous reduction" in the price of range cattle. The price gain should go to feeders and not to range cattlemen, he said.

Reports from the range indicate a high degree of resentment of New Deal burocracy and regimentation that is going to produce a great outpouring of votes for Dewey on election day, rain or shine, according to the Republican canvassers.

Pin Hopes on Labor.

Democratic leaders admit that the stockmen are more strongly opposed to the New Deal than ever before but they look to the labor vote to assure Mr. Roosevelt Wyoming's three electoral votes. The President carried the state by only 6,000 in 1940. I was told by both Democratic and labor leaders that there is a good deal of uncertainty of the labor vote.

Sidney Hillman's political action committee is dedicated to getting out the labor vote, but in this state the Communist dominated CIO is weak, having only about 2,000 members.

LONDON POLICE WOMEN REVOLT OVER UNIFORMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—London's police women are up in arms against the unbecoming hats and the "frumpish" uniforms they are compelled to wear, so today Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison and his parliamentary secretary, Ellen Wilkinson, attended a fashion parade of women police uniforms from five provincial areas to decide what to do about it.

Dislike of the outfits worn by London women bobbies is so intense among the girls in the auxiliary fighting services that they are turning down appeals to volunteer for the police force. The bitterest complaint is against the hats and some police women prefer to wear tin helmets despite the discomfort.

Provincial police women wear hats similar to those of the fighting services and their uniforms are better tailored, smarter and with the skirts shorter. Morrison evidently was impressed by the fashion show since it was reported he already has decided a change is necessary.

HOME BUSINESS WORRIES ALONG AT SNAIL'S PACE

Bad Year for Moths, Ralph Reports.

The snail business is slower this year, Ralph Hahn, 46, of 1501 S. Chicago st., Joliet, said yesterday, and he has given up his trade in frogs, grasshoppers and meal worms. He is sticking out the war with snails, beetles, butterflies and moths.

It has been a bad season for the moths. They didn't do well in the house. Hahn said he did not know what happened to the moths, and his wife, Edith, said she wondered about it, too. Every time Hahn brought moths to the house, something seemed to kill them off, she said.

Employed as Pipefitter.

Hahn, who also works as a pipefitter at a refinery, has been raising and selling his fauna since 1914. He sold grasshoppers for dog food, and once filled an order from the state of Kansas for two tons of them for research purposes. He did not inquire what research, he said; he just gathered them up.

In his basement Hahn has 10,000 snails in galvanized iron vats, and thousands of beetles. He gathers butterfly cocoons in the woods, and sells them to schools as specimens. Most of his beetles are shipped to Louisiana, where they are used in tropical disease research.

Gasoline rationing has restricted his activities somewhat, and priorities on such materials as rubber, plywood and certain metal containers which he uses in breeding and raising the insects further limit his scope, he said. In a normal year he handles about 200,000 snails.

Fattens Them in Basement.

Hahn has been given gasoline B coupons by his rationing board to visit the ponds around Joliet where he places his adult snails, in sets of three, in the spring. In the fall he goes back and collects the little ones, which he takes home and fattens in the basement. They eat two heads of lettuce a day.

They are not the edible type of snail. Hahn sells them to laboratories and schools. They are used largely in aquariums. If water is impure, they crawl out.

The ram's horn snails, the largest ones he deals in, are about the size of a nickel on edge, in their shells.

Some water snails can scoot along at a good speed, he said, but the big land fellows are more sluggish. From studying them, Hahn said he has figured that a snail's pace is one foot in 40 seconds.

DEWEY'S NEIGHBORS SAY HE'S INFORMED ON FARM PROBLEMS

New York, Sept. 15 [Special].—Gov. Dewey's knowledge of farm problems was discussed tonight on the "Dewey's Neighbors" broadcast from Pawling and Owosso, Mich., over the network of the National Broadcasting company.

Alfred Burgess, a Pawling farmer, said Dewey "has a good man running his place [at Pawling] and he depends on him to plan and do the everyday farm work. Just the same, the governor knows a lot about farming. I know the farmers around here feel the governor really understands their needs and has done a lot to help them."

Speaking from Owosso, Mr. Dewey's birthplace, Earl Putnam told how "Tom" Dewey had worked for him as a farm hand in 1918 when he was only 16. He said Dewey stayed thru the full three-month vacation period.

"He had lots of energy and was a great hand to ask questions," Putnam related. "He was always finding out about farm operations, management and machinery."

Mrs. Anne T. Dewey, mother of the governor, who spoke from Owosso, said she was convinced "he is capable of handling any responsibility he accepts."

Former Sailor, 19, Gets 2½ Years for Car Theft

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday sentenced Henry F. Kwak, 19, dishonorably discharged from the navy, to two and a half years in prison on a charge of stealing a car and driving it from one state to another.

BRICKER CALLS JOBS FOREMOST POST-WAR NEED

Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—Gov. Bricker of Ohio, speaking before a cheering crowd of 8,000 persons in the high school stadium, tonight said the country's one great post-war problem was providing jobs, and that the New Deal had been unable to do this in peace time.

Mayor Golden Underwood, who made the estimate of the crowd, said the rally, a part of the state Republican convention, was the largest political gathering in the city's history.

The Republican candidate for Vice President, helping to open a campaign to swing this state back into the G. O. P. national column for the first time since 1928, told the audience:

"You likewise know that the New Deal was never able to provide jobs in peace time. It took a war to put men to work—and but for that war we would still be in the midst of the Roosevelt depression."

Prospects Called Great.

America is just beginning to grow and the prospects of full private employment are great, Bricker said, but a "climate of opportunity" must be created to help industry.

Tracing the history of the present national administration, Bricker asserted "the trouble with the New Deal was that it had lost faith in the future of America."

He quoted Aubrey Williams, deputy administrator of the WPA in 1936, as saying that "thousands of young men and women leaving our schools each year are destined never to become self-supporting and independent."

"This defeatist idea," Bricker declared, "led the New Deal directly to its policy of scarcity in production in industry and in agriculture," a policy he said resulted in the destruction of jobs.

Just Beginning to Grow.

Rejecting "the theory that ours is a decadent society, that opportunity no longer exists," Bricker said America was just beginning to grow and "there are natural resources and new industries to develop."

He envisioned a great post-war demand for products such as automobiles, vacuum cleaners, radios, refrigerators, and washing machines that offered "most encouraging" opportunities for private business.

Bricker, departing from his text, accused President Roosevelt of "selling out his party" to the CIO political action committee.

Bricker said "the greatest harm they [the New Deal] have done labor" lay in "the vicious alliance with Sidney Hillman and the political action committee."

"This man Hillman," said the governor, "brought to this country his old world political concepts of power politics and class hatreds, and they have no part in our American political life."

POLL BY WALLACE'S PAPER SHOWS IOWA FARMERS FOR DEWEY

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 15 [Special].—Iowa farmers prefer Gov. Dewey of New York as their Presidential candidate, a survey released today by Wallace's "Farmer and Iowa Homestead, shows.

The survey gave Dewey 48 per cent of the Iowa farm vote, President Roosevelt 39 per cent, and 13 per cent as undecided. The publication pointed out that the number of undecided is unusually small for this stage in a campaign.

The survey indicated Roosevelt is weaker on Iowa farms than he was at the same stage of the campaign in 1940. At that time he and Willkie were about even. The poll was taken before Dewey's recent trip to Iowa.

Vice President Wallace formerly was editor of the publication.

"This goes for a War Bond—this for a box of Wheaties.
This for another bond—this for another box of Wheaties!
That goes on every pay day!"

Here's a wise man with a dollar. He's putting every available buck in bonds, saving for post-war plans. And right now he's backing Uncle Sam's better breakfast program. That goes for lots of milk, fruit, and Wheaties, "Breakfast of Champions." And that's for you.

TRUMAN'S BOSS DECIDES TO PUT HIM IN SENATE

Candidate Is 'Proud' of Pendergast Machine.

[How Harry S. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States, became a United States senator is told in this article, the fourth in a series on the career and experience of Truman, who says that "experience" is the yardstick by which candidates should be judged in the November election.]

BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 15.—Harry S. Truman served for eight years as presiding judge of the Jackson county court. He did his duty to the Democratic organization headed by Thomas J. Pendergast, boss of Kansas City and Jackson county.

The job of presiding judge, which corresponds to chairman of the board of county commissioners in other states, paid Truman only $4,800 a year. He felt he was entitled to more money. He went to Boss Pendergast and asked permission to run for county collector, a more lucrative office because its salary was based partly on fees.

The boss frowned and shook his head.

"No, Harry," he is reported to have replied, "the best I can do for you now is a United States senatorship."

Power Reaching Peak.

This was in the spring of 1934, when the Pendergast machine's power was reaching its peak. A combination of unusual circumstances had extended the boss' reign over the entire state of Missouri.

Two years earlier, Francis Wilson, the Democratic nominee for governor, had died on the eve of the election. Pendergast, who controled the Democratic state committee, decreed that Wilson's place on the ticket should be filled by Guy B. Park, an obscure Platte county circuit judge. Park was elected. This was important for the Kansas City machine, because the governor appoints the city's board of election commissioners.

At the same time, the Missouri legislature had failed to redistrict the state after the 1930 census, and all congressmen were required to run "at large" instead of in districts. Democratic candidates trooped to Kansas City, hats in hand, asking for Pendergast's indorsement. His big block of controled Kansas City votes assured the election of his slate.

One Cloud on Horizon.

As a result of these developments, Pendergast was the undisputed master of Missouri when Truman came to him in 1934 and asked permission to run for county collector. There was only one cloud on the machine's horizon.

A bold group of young people, angry and disgusted with the corruption in their home town, had organized a fusion movement of independent Democrats and Republicans. They challenged the machine in the municipal election, backing A. Ross Hill, former president of the University of Missouri, for mayor of Kansas City. The machine's incumbent mayor, Bryce B. Smith, sought reëlection.

What happened in that election, held in March, 1934, was described later by Jesse W. Barrett, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, in a speech to a Kansas City audience. Barrett said:

"We all remember the pictures of the hospital wards filled with men who were broken and bruised by the gangsters who assaulted them at the polls. You remember that flood of fraudulent votes. You were baptized in blood, but the contest was won by the machine. The score was four murders, 200 assaults, and 100,000 felonies."

A Decisive Victory.

The machine's candidate won, 141,117 to 81,749.

Three months later, Harry Truman, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, made a speech in Joplin. Said he:

"Jackson county has the greatest Democratic organization west of New York. I am proud of it."

At the time Truman was running against Congressman John J. Cochran of St. Louis, who was chosen in a poll of Washington correspondents as one of the five or six most useful members of congress. Truman was almost unknown outside of Jackson county, where his record as county judge had been marked by waste and extravagance.

In the election, Cochran swept St. Louis and most of Missouri's counties, but Truman, the county judge who wanted to be a collector, won the nomination because of a tremendous block of votes counted for him in Kansas City. The official returns in Kansas City were: Truman, 120,180; Cochran, 1,221. In one north side precinct there were 808 votes cast and 808 votes counted for Truman.

Nothing Is Done.

On the face of the returns, it was evident that many fraudulent votes were cast, but nothing was done about it. The machine controled the board of election commissioners and exerted strong influence over the Circuit court judges. Proof that the election was fraudulent did not come until several years later when a federal grand jury started indicting hooligans of the machine and a new governor appointed a new election board to purge the polling lists.

After the facts came out, the Kansas City Star said:

"It may be interesting to recall the primary figures of 1934, when he [Truman] obtained his nomination. Truman defeated Rep. John J. Cochran of St. Louis in the primary by fewer than 41,000 votes. He was saved by the enormous plurality of 119,000 rolled up in Jackson county. In view of the revelations of wholesale fraud in local elections, it is at least questionable whether Truman would be in the United States senate today if that primary had been honestly conducted in this county."

Democratic Landslide.

But Truman was nominated, and won handily in a Democratic landslide the following November.

Before the Kansas City election rolls were purged, the Pendergast machine had 268,000 names on the registration rolls out of a total population of 415,000—64.5 per cent. The United States census estimates only 60 per cent of the people are over 21 and eligible to vote. Therefore, Pendergast had on the election rolls more than the total adult population, including the aliens, the insane, and the prisoners. This may be one reason why he was able to send to the senate Harry Truman, the little man who wanted to be a collector.

Truman's margin of victory in the primary was 41,000. A comparison of the Kansas City votes cast in two comparable elections, before and after the poll lists were purged, shows that the total vote dropped 58,881 after the housecleaning. In November, 1936, the total vote was 255,919. In November, 1940, the total vote was down to 197,038.

Judge Starts Cleanup.

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves started the cleanup on Dec. 14, 1936, when he told a federal grand jury:

"When a dishonest vote is introduced into the ballot box, it tends to contaminate the whole government. A fraudulent ballot is a common enemy, a canker gnawing from within. We cannot surrender our ballot box to plug uglies and hoodlums who parade the streets with machine guns. We must not stand them any longer. I cannot sit quietly in my district and witness the open flouting of election laws."

Then the judge charged the jury: "Gentlemen, reach for all, even if you find them in high authority. Move on them!"

United States District Atty. Maurice M. Milligan, a Democrat who was not dominated by Pendergast, presented the evidence to the grand jury. He showed the figures for the first ward, where the candidate for governor opposed by Pendergast got only 15 votes out of 19,709 votes cast. The population of the ward was only 19,929.

Jury Goes to Work.

In the second ward, the anti-machine candidate got 12 votes out of 21,936 cast. The population of that ward was only 18,478.

The grand jury went to work, and by January, 1938, 50 election officials had been convicted of vote frauds. But the convictions and the cleanup had come too late to keep Harry Truman from a seat in the United States senate. When he heard the bad news for the machine, he hurried from Washington to Kansas City, and on Jan. 31, 1938, he conferred for almost an hour with Boss Prendergast in the headquarters of the boss at 1908 Main street.

They were conferring about the career of Maurice Milligan, the prosecutor of the machine, whose name was up for reappointment as United States district attorney. What did Boss Pendergast want his senator to do?

[This question will be answered in tomorrow's article on the career of the Democratic candidate for Vice President of the United States.]

No Furniture

MRS. KATHERINE L. KOSTI.

Mrs. Katherine L. Kosti, 27, of 1129 N. Menard av., had to go home to her mother when her husband, Thomas, 29, a radio technician, moved all the furniture out of their apartment, she testified yesterday in Superior court. Judge John A. Sbarbaro granted her a divorce on grounds of desertion. Atty. Irving Eisenman, representing Mrs. Kosti, said the couple was married May 6, 1939, and separated in February, 1943.

OPA TOSSES OUT OFFICE TENANTS, FAILS TO MOVE IN

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 15 [Special].—The OPA has ordered canceled on Oct. 1 its lease on 4,500 square feet of office space in the former Shorewood State Bank building, it was disclosed today. It never has occupied the space and has paid no rent since July 1 when, on its "hurry up" orders, the quarters were vacated at heavy financial loss and great inconvenience to the former tenants.

M. R. Derzon, secretary of the Central Shorewood Building corporation, which has operated the building since the bank failed in 1932, made the disclosures. Derzon said the OPA, thru the office of emergency management, contracted for the space July 1 for a year at $5,625 annual rental for use as a center to issue gas ration coupons for the Milwaukee OPA district of 22 counties.

Vacant Since July.

The quarters have remained vacant since July 1, however Derzon said the OPA had paid no rent and had not reimbursed the corporation for $1,000 spent to install a burglar alarm system. Derzon asserted the corporation would lose additional rent because "it is difficult to obtain tenants so late in the year."

Several former occupants, who were forced out of the first floor and basement of the building July 1 because the OEM said there was an "imperative need for the space," expressed resentment on learning of the OPA cancellation. They said they could not understand how the "imperative need" had passed so quickly.

Herman W. Eskuche, manager of Shorewood's only currency exchange, disclosed he had to abandon his check cashing and safety deposit box renting business when forced to leave the building.

Relocation Costs $2,500.

Gardner E. Bacon, owner of the Bacon Printing company which had occupied the basement, estimated he had lost almost $2,500 by being forced to relocate his heavy printing equipment.

In Chicago today, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA chief, said he was "very sorry to have inconvenienced the former tenants and safety box holders." He asserted he was forced to "close the office before it even opened" because "congress and the Washington OPA office did not appropriate enough money to operate it" after the order was given to take it over.

Lilies in Park

Jane Sterling, actress now appearing in "Over 21," admires the water lilies at Garfield park.

Hundreds of tropical water lilies, now in their prime, may be seen in the lily beds at Madison st. and Central Park av., in Garfield park. The collection is one of the largest in the country. Some bear 12 inch blossoms. Colors run thru yellows, blue, maroon, plus pure whites. Many of the varieties were developed under the direction of William G. Blaesing, chief horticulturist of the Chicago Park district.

COURTNEY SAYS GREEN CONFUSED SOLDIER VOTING

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 15.—State's Atty. Courtney continued his first week of campaigning as the Democratic candidate for governor here tonight with a speech in which he charged Gov. Green with having confused the procedure of soldier voting.

"When a soldier or a sailor from Illinois asks in the near future this question: 'Who robbed me of my vote?' I think you know the answer," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at a party rally.

"In the last session of the legislature Sen. Richard Daley, a Democrat, introduced a bill allowing the wife, father, mother, brother, or sister of a service man to request that a ballot be sent to him.

"A number of other states have adopted this system, including our neighboring state of Michigan, as the simplest way of handling soldiers' votes. Why did Gov. Green oppose this bill? Why did the Republicans prevent it from passing."

GREEN REVEALS $7,000,000 PARK BUILDING PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shelbyville, Ill., Sept. 15.—Gov. Green announced tonight that his state administration has a $7,000,000 program for the construction, improvement, and development of state parks. He said $3,750,000 worth of the projects can be launched after the war.

The governor spoke here and at Toledo at Republican campaign meetings attended by Lt. Gov. Cross, Auditor Lueder, and Atty. Gen. Barrett, all candidates for reëlection. Attending the rally here was George Williams, state superintendent of parks and memorials, who is Shelby county's Republican chairman.

"This program, upon its completion, would place at least one state park within a 50 mile radius of every Illinois community," Gov. Green said. "Our long range program will necessarily require several years for completion, but your state government already has prepared blueprints for $3,750,000 worth of state park improvements which we can begin immediately after the war.

"These immediate improvements will consist of constructing or improving picnic and camping grounds and other recreational facilities such as lakes, boat landings, roads, and trails, necessary buildings, and land acquisition.

"These plans are ready to go now. They depend upon the ending of the war, the release of materials, the availability of labor, and the action of the state legislature in allocating funds from the more than 100 million dollar post-war nest egg that has been saved by your Republican administration."

Fail to Gain ODT Okay on Harlem Bus Extension

Representatives of the city, the surface lines and the office of defense transportation conferred yesterday in the office of the Illinois commerce commission on a request of the city for extended bus service on Harlem av., north of Foster av. The commission has approved the extension, but the conferees were unable to formulate a plan satisfactory to the ODT, which has refused to grant extra mileage to the surface lines. The discussion will be resumed Monday.

LYONS CHARGES LUCAS NEGLECT OF FLOOD AREAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Havana, Ill., Sept. 15.—Elections of Republicans to office is essential if the residents of the Illinois river valley expect flood control and other public improvements, Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, said at a campaign mass meeting here tonight.

Altho Havana is the home town of Sen. Lucas, the Democratic opponent of Lyons, the city and surrounding farm territory are expected to be overwhelmingly Republican at the Nov. 7 election.

Lyons charged that Lucas has accomplished nothing to further control of frequent floods in the Illinois valley, adding:

"The New Deal senator from Illinois is part and parcel of a government that has spent unprecedented billions of public funds on public works in every section of our country. Some of them have been sound propositions; some have been very silly propositions. Tonight I want to ask the people of Havana and the Illinois river valley what their New Deal senator has done in the last six years to obtain from this free-spending national administration any constructive help for the flood sufferers in Illinois?"

BAN SMALL ARMS FROM LIST OF WAR SOUVENIRS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 [Special].—Explosives and small firearms have been banned as war souvenirs from overseas theaters, the war department declared today in enunciating an official policy on the carrying of martial trophies into this country by army personnel.

Among the other restrictions listed were that souvenirs must be small and not of military value or of use as scrap material.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was stated in THE TRIBUNE Thursday that John A. Floyd of 8227 Prairie av. testified in a child custody case in Superior court that his daughter, Elizabeth Ann, 3, slept in the same bed with a dog in the home of Floyd's mother-in-law, Mrs. Selina L. Murray of 7647 Maryland av. Mrs. Murray denied this in court. The city news bureau, which supplied the information, failed to mention Mrs. Murray's denial.

HOW ROOSEVELT DIDN'T ARM FOR WAR.

Rep. Engel of Michigan has shown that before 1940 Mr. Roosevelt regularly whittled the army's requests for appropriations. Invariably, Mr. Engel said, congress appropriated more to the war department than Mr. Roosevelt had recommended in his budget messages.

The figures, given in Mr. Willard Edwards' dispatch to THE TRIBUNE on Friday, speak for themselves. Mr. Roosevelt's words can be quoted to prove beyond all doubt that the figures mean exactly what Mr. Engel says they mean.

On Jan. 3, 1936, when Hitler had already been in power for three years, Mr. Roosevelt said in his annual budget message:

"It is felt that this [increase in the strength of the army from 118,000 to 165,000 enlisted men] is as fast as the government should proceed in this matter in the light of the present forecast of fiscal affairs."

On Oct. 5, 1937, in the speech dedicating the Outer dr. bridge in Chicago, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"How happy we are that the circumstances of the moment permit us to put our money into bridges and boulevards, dams and reforestation, the conservation of our soil, and many other kinds of useful works rather than into huge standing armies and vast supplies of implements of war."

On Jan. 3, 1940, Mr. Roosevelt submitted a budget message calling for the expenditure of $1,800,000,000 for national defense. He said:

"This is an increase, of course, over the current year, but it is far less than many experts on national defense think should be spent, tho it is in my judgment a sufficient amount for the coming year."

Rep. Engel's statements, the figures, and the President's own words all tell the same story. The President's press agents have sought to persuade the country that he foresaw everything and prepared the country for the war that was coming. The truth is that he steadily pushed this country toward war while promising peace and at the same time whittled military appropriations. He told the country its preparations for defense were adequate.

There was no political profit in spending money for defense, so Mr. Roosevelt spent his billions for leaf-raking.

WHO HELP THEMSELVES.

An Anglo-Canadian-American production and resources board has issued a warning that coal may have to be rationed in America so that homes can be heated and utilities and railroads operated in liberated Europe. Europe's needs may also result in continued shortages of shoes, textiles, and paper and pulp products in this country, the report said. At the same time, Rep. Calvin Johnson [R., Ill.] asked congress to investigate alleged plans for sending 5,500 American farm tractors and tens of thousands of farm machines to Europe when American farmers also need to replace outworn equipment.

Americans have never failed to do their share and more than their share in relieving distress abroad and will not be found wanting this time. What they object to is the growing disposition to turn to America for charity before even considering any alternative, including, particularly, self-help.

There is plenty of coal in the mines of northern France and Belgium. It is true that transportation from mines to markets has been crippled by the destruction of bridges and other railroad facilities, but if the French people know that they are expected to provide their own fuel the chances are that the repair of the railroads will be hastened, to everybody's benefit.

Likewise, there is no immediate need for agricultural machinery in Europe, because the growing season is nearing its close. This year's crops in France have been excellent, by all accounts. There will be relatively little need to replace old machinery until next spring. By that time the French agricultural machinery industry may be in full operation. At any rate, the assumption should be that the French and every other liberated people will provide their own needs.

WAGES AND ELECTIONS.

Philip Murray, president of CIO, who is trying to get the members to contribute a dollar apiece to the PAC fund to reëlect Roosevelt, announced at a meeting in Detroit that within a week the government would take the lid off pay raises for union members. The lid he is talking about is the Little Steel formula, which was first applied in 1942 by the war labor board in deciding the controversy over wages between the smaller steel companies and their employes, and then became the general rule. The formula limits pay increases to 15 per cent over the hourly rates in effect in January, 1941.

Mr. Murray has been trying to get the Little Steel basis modified ever since John Lewis cracked it for his mine workers. Mr. Lewis, after a long drawn out fight with the President and the war labor board, in which they tried to take his union away from him, finally forced his adversaries to agree to the raises he demanded. To save their faces a phony formula was cooked up to make it appear that the Little Steel formula still stood. The modification required mine owners to figure that the miners ate their lunch faster than they used to. For the time they theoretically saved in gobbling down their food they are paid at the rate of time and a half. They are also paid on the same basis for the time spent to get to their work after arriving on the premises of their employer, and for the return trip to the exit. This spurious timekeeping arithmetic gave the miners exactly the increase in earnings Mr. Lewis asked for. He didn't care how it was figured, just so his men got the extra money for no more work.

By this success Mr. Lewis put Mr. Murray on the spot. The mine leader had succeeded where the CIO boss had failed, in spite of Mr. Murray's big "in" at the White House. Ever since then Mr. Murray has been trying to pull strings to upset Little Steel. In desperation, he went to the President and the congress with a yap that the labor department's cost of living figures, which he had long accepted as final, now understated the rise. He didn't succeed in putting this one over because two sets of impartial experts appointed by the President failed to sustain him, so Mr. Murray's unions are still limited by the Little Steel formula and the war is drawing to a close with a period at hand when food prices may be expected to decline.

This would not seem to be a propitious time for the CIO leader to expect to get action if he had to justify it by some recent upturn in commodity prices. The government's cost of living figures have shown practically no change for some time. The official index reached 125.1 in May of 1943 and hasn't gone up as much as 1 per cent over that figure at any time since. There is no basis for changing the Little Steel formula in anything that has happened in a year and a half. If, as Mr. Murray's announcement in Detroit indicated, the formula is to be lifted now, two months before the election, it will be nothing but an attempt by Mr. Roosevelt to win the election by bribery. We have too much respect for the integrity of the American workman to believe that it will work.

SUPREME COMMAND IN THE PACIFIC.

President Roosevelt's press representatives set the theme for his conference with Prime Minister Churchill at Quebec by declaring it was to be a military meeting, concerned with the defeat of Japan after Germany is conquered. They gave this report substance by hinting that the conferees might pick a supreme commander for the Pacific, equal in authority to Gen. Eisenhower in Europe. Stephen Early, the President's press secretary, now says that the problem was "disposed of" before the meeting. He refused to give any details.

In truth, there ought not to be a moment's doubt about the choice of commanders. The men for the jobs have proved themselves in action. Gen. MacArthur should be given the top place, with Adm. Nimitz as his deputy. They have shown that they know how to beat the Japs and no officer in any other army or navy has any such claim to consideration.

Gen. MacArthur has proved himself the most brilliant general that this war has produced. He achieved vast results with only the most limited means. His losses have been astonishingly small. He has made strategy and superb tactical planning count for the divisions of soldiers and squadrons of airplanes he couldn't pry out of Washington. Other generals, outnumbered as he was, might have resorted to Fabian warfare, but Gen. MacArthur's war has been one of constant attack, hitting the Japs where they were most vulnerable, driving them back thru shrewd use of every advantage while he husbanded his meager supplies.

Adm. Nimitz, with Adm. Halsey serving under him, has shown equal resourcefulness in the naval war of the Central Pacific under somewhat different conditions. They are commanding the greatest aggregation of naval vessels the world has ever seen. No other nation can produce a team to equal Nimitz and Halsey.

By all odds the best choice for supreme commander in the Pacific is Gen. MacArthur, and the best choice for deputy, Adm. Nimitz. They have had years of experience fighting the Japs. That would not be true of any commanders transferred from the European theater to the Pacific after Germany's defeat. Another important factor is that Americans fight best under American command.

From the time of Pearl Harbor and the loss of the Philippines, American operations in the Pacific were one long string of successes, except where our men fought under foreign command. The British general, Archibald Wavell, was placed in supreme command in the Netherlands East Indies, and shortly afterward American naval and air forces were driven out of there by the Japs. The disastrous battle of the Java sea, in which only four American destroyers out of a composite force of two heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, and nine destroyers managed to escape from the Japs, was fought under the command of Rear Adm. Doorman of the Netherlands navy. Rear Adm. Crutchley of the British royal navy presided at another terrible defeat off Savo Island, in which the Japs surprised and sank three of our heavy cruisers and one Australian cruiser in a 30 minute night attack.

If the British are holding out against a MacArthur-Nimitz combination to finish off the Pacific war, their only motive must be a desire to regain prestige. Catering to that desire will only prolong the fighting.

PUNISHMENT FOR YOUTHS WHO DECEIVE BARTENDERS.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The Tavern Owners' Association of Maryland has taken a persuasive position in its current campaign to promote more vigorous prosecution of minors who overstate their age to buy intoxicating drinks.

After all, in every such illegal transaction there are two parties involved. The tavernkeeper who honestly tries to determine the age of a prospective customer of youthful appearance before selling a drink is no more to blame, in strict justice is not as much to blame, as the buyer who deliberately gives false information. While the tavernkeeper can only guess about the accuracy of that information, the buyer knows whether it is true.

Note that the association does not attempt to dodge or to minimize the obvious obligation of its members in the matter. What they ask is that minors evading the law also be prosecuted, and that in all doubtful cases charges be brought against both parties for determination of actual guilt in the courts.

The publisher wanted the type on the 15th, and on that date I told him to take it away, which means that snappy work has been done by every one concerned, especially the printers downstairs. Now to relax and learn how it feels not to toil on the day off.

Joined the first-nighters at the Harris theater last Monday to open the new play-going season, and there was much merriment over the behavior of Ruth Gordon in an officers' training camp. While the audience was blowing smoke in its eyes and burning holes in its clothes in the lobby during the intermissions, I stayed in my seat and studied the inscriptions that nobody reads. Found on the walls, high up, the names of Dante, Verdi, Bellini, Rossini, Liszt, and Bizet, and wondered if they had been drawn out of a hat, for Dante never wrote a play and the others are grand opera and concert characters.

Now to go to Wrigley field to say good-by to the Cubs, who have kept me in a dither all summer and are now striving to make a running catch of fourth prize money. To help them, have sent to Passeau, the pitcher who believes in such things, a good luck buckeye of this year's crop.

BONFIRE YEARS.

The autumn fires are alight again,
And I remember how we used to build
Our own leaf-pile behind the alley lane
To burn it every season. It was filled
With fragrance from the children's little share.
They brought small baskets full of autumn leaves
And stood to watch them burn. High in the air
They soared like fireflies teasing the breeze.
Then we would sing and wait for the last ember
Before we went together toward the door,
One family joined by love-fires each September!
But, these days bring no jolly autumn chore.

For family cares have seasons, too, we find;
And we have left bonfire years behind!

Hon. Linemaster: The ole nayborhood has sure gone beserk, fr'instance, in every block we used to have an ole fashion grocer, a butcher, tha druggist, an mebbe a hardware store. You shood see it now.

At tha corner we got tha Yellow Pelican club, next door tha Blue Mouse inn, comes next Annie and Jake's Spot; this goes on an on until tha next corner, which opened two weeks ago, called Playboy Blues. A pesty naybor starts braggin to tha Mama about how swell an elegant tha new spot tha Playboy Blues is, an fer 3 nights she's been on my neck to take her.

Tha sign seys there's no cover charge, no minimum charge, no admittance, and no amusement tax, an free souvenirs. Giving you 5 things fer nothin, I presume tha owners are aiming at running a non-profit organization. Course they don't want to lose money, so they catch up a little by serving you tha nicest snit of beer for 45c an a gin-fizz for as little as 85c, an they've got tha cutest looking little whisky glasses—their made out of solid glass an there's a little depression close to tha top for the liquor, but you must be careful cause 70 or 80 of these might make you act a bit play-full.

Tha 6 acts of vaudeville was certainly worth tha free admittance charge. First comes a Jap magician cutting a rope instead of his throat. So's no soldier wood take a pot shot at him, he closes the act by making 6 colored hunks of silk turn into an American flag. Next comes Y'vonne Y'vette, blues singer; her closing shriek was entitled, "Shoe-Shoe-Baby." If they wood of shoo-shooed her out on tha sidewalk it wood of been swell.

Following is a female juggler; there's nothing I like better excepting mebbe a trained seal. I cood'n tell ya what tha next 2 acts was cause by this time I aint facing that way, but with tha closing number "Toots La Touche," a strip teaser, I turns my chair her way.

I'm figgering if she's any good tha whole evening wood'n of been so bad. I aint a going into details, but I have seen smaller waist lines on a beer barrel and less wrinkles on a alligator. The applause she got from tha bus-boys an tha waiters was terrific. Walking home I paid tha Mama a very nice compliment. Duke Bakrak.

R. C. H. writes: "I have heard that the 21 day delay en route given to all returnees was gratis and not counted as furlough time, and that, upon arrival at assigned stations, we were eligible for 15 days' leave of the regulation 30 days each year. In over three years, with 27 months overseas, I've had seven days rest period, which was counted as furlough time, and, upon arrival in this country, I was given 21 days' delay en route from California to Florida, yet I'm not eligible, I am told, for any more time until Aug. 5, 1945. All the Joes in camp in this country have gotten plenty of time off, but why can't we returnees?"

The army says the enlisted personnel's furlough time is not "accrued time as in the case of officers." Enlisted personnel may receive up to 30 days' furlough in a year, but it is not cumulative and is granted if the man can be spared. If the "rest period" of seven days was charged against you, this is an error, because you were on "detached service." As we compute it, you are still entitled to 16 days in addition to the 21 day delay en route. Your company commander or the adjutant should be able to get the error straightened out.

A BLOCKED STOMACH OUTLET IN BABIES.

EVERY now and then a young mother will write, "My son, now nearly a month old, has been vomiting for the last few days. He has ceased to gain—in fact, is losing weight."

To such an inquiry the answer is returned invariably: "Suggest to your family doctor that he consider a possible narrowing of the stomach outlet. Sometimes this region clamps down and prevents the passage of food into the intestine."

The condition, known as "pyloric stenosis," is common enough to warrant attention—at least, alertness. The symptom may point to a state of affairs which will call for prompt and expert management. As a rule, any tot under 3 months of age who ejects feeding after feeding, may be assumed to be suffering from some obstruction at or near the back door of the "breadbasket."

Strangely enough, the diagnosis is missed all too frequently because the natural tendency is to blame the milk. We must keep in mind that the gastric pouch, shortly after it receives the meal, goes into wavelike contractions which force the nutriment against the pylorus [exit]. Now, in this area, there is a circular muscle which keeps the parts closed. Normally, it should open at intervals so that edibles can enter the intestine where they will be prepared further for absorption.

If the fibers are too tight, or if the little one was born with a contracted opening, function may fail. As time goes on, the constricting band of tissue may actually thicken. This only makes a bad matter worse, despite valiant efforts made by the stomach to get rid of its contents. Thus it is that a youngster, slow to enter his growth stride, may, after a few weeks, begin to spit up everything that is swallowed. Meanwhile, he is fussy because he is in considerable pain.

Babies cannot live without nourishment, and skilled treatment becomes imperative. Some years ago, Rammstedt devised a simple but effective operation. He divided the obstructing band which permitted the doorway into the bowel to swing open. But this procedure is not our only recourse. Special dietary measures have been worked out, alone or in combination with a relaxing drug known as "eumydrine." With one or the other of these methods, there is no excuse for a fatal outcome, if the abnormality can be spotted before the babe has lost too much resistance. We must not forget, however, that an incidental infection may present itself because starvation has been allowed to go too far. The advantage of the surgical plan is that relief is prompt and there is no further difficulty.

Now and then, before the mother recognizes that something is wrong, the infant may have lost so much fluid that it will be necessary to replace it. Fortunately, liquids will be absorbed if introduced beneath the skin. Eumydrine, which is a preparation of atropine [belladonna], has a tendency to counteract spasms. Under its influence, the gateway may widen and allow food to pass onward.

Mr. Lippmann's Clutter.

Naturally almost any one must wonder if as Olympian a figure as Mr. Walter Lippmann is endowed with any of the attributes of the common man, so it was with considerable relief that this department noticed recently two edifying pages of pictures and prose in its favorite shiny magazine for shiny people.

The pictures and prose both deal with Mr. Lippmann at home. The prose states that Mr. Lippmann molds minds as tho they were soft chocolate. We had thought this molding sprang fullblown from his noble brow, but the magazine says Mr. Lippmann writes at a desk "in a minuscule, neat, crabbed handwriting" in his second floor study with "its attractive mess of books."

The pictures showed Mr. Lippmann looking at the birdie with a shy smile as he balanced a tiny cup of tea; Mr. Lippmann looking thru shell rimmed glasses at another birdie as he held a fountain pen over paper and apparently prepared to write; souvenirs of Mr. Lippmann's career as a chocolate molder; and Mr. Lippmann in his study.

Mr. Lippmann did not seem to be doing anything in his study. He was just sitting at his enormous desk, that attractive mess of books nearby, and looking profoundly at his hands. But the caption for the picture is delightful. It states: "Mr. Lippmann's study . . . never has its pleasant shabby clutter uncluttered."

Never to have a pleasant shabby clutter uncluttered is an achievement known to few men. It seemed worthy of scientific study, so we tried a microscope on Mr. Lippmann's uncluttered clutter. It revealed neat rows of well bound books dimly visible in shelves. A table in the far background held more books. All were closed. Mr. Lippmann, neither shabby nor cluttered, sat at the desk. On the desk were a globe, more books, papers. Three of the books were open. Beside the desk was a neat pile of three more books, all fat and presumably ponderous. Beside that neat pile was a neat pile of what seemed to be 11 [altho it may have been 12] newspapers. The edge of one was a half inch out of line. Beyond that pile was a coffee table. On it were piled more books. Their ends faced the same way [the reader's way], but it appeared, altho one could not be too certain, that some of them were upside down. Beyond the stack of books was a stack of what might be periodicals. A large one was on top. It gave a topheavy effect. On the wall a small piece of white that looked like a calendar hung askew. The whole thing was shocking.

Somehow this intimate view of Mr. Lippmann in his study with the pleasant shabby clutter that is never uncluttered has shaken our faith in Mr. Lippmann. It isn't just the books, altho they shatter a cherished illusion that Mr. Lippmann never had to consult books—that books consulted Mr. Lippmann. It isn't just the clutter, altho it bruises our former belief that Mr. Lippmann's study was as orderly as his orderly mind. It isn't the brocaded armchair, the gleaming waxed surface of the Chippendale coffee table, the shining, dustless radiator, the heavy, discreet draperies, the carpet that must have its edges covered by clutter. That isn't it, altho it pains us to think that Mr. Lippmann works in such shabbiness.

The problem torturing this unprofound mind, this bit of chocolate waiting to be molded, is how Mr. Lippmann manages to keep his shabby unclutter cluttered. No, that's wrong. It is how he manages to keep his shabby clutter uncluttered. No, the first was right.

Somehow, when tossing newspapers around like mad, seeing to it that no two edges lie in juxtaposition and thereby create an uncluttter, we wonder just how Mr. Lippmann can pile his 11 [or is it 12?] and manage to get one out of line and thus produce a clutter? Doesn't he ever throw one on the floor? Or throw himself on the floor? Or throw the floor on a chair or a book? Gentlemen, we'll take our chocolate hard.

HOW HE ANSWERED THE CALL.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—I have been pictures of a New Deal campaign poster, made up from a 1917-'18 war poster, in which Uncle Sam was pictured as saying: "I want you!" The fourth termers have superimposed a picture of Mr. Roosevelt. At that time I and thousands of others answered Uncle Sam's call and said "Here I am!" We put on uniforms and with guns, ships, shells, and bombs we went where death rained, in what turned out to be a foolish effort "to make the world safe for democracy."

What was F. D. R.'s answer to Uncle Sam's call? He was sitting behind a desk just as I was. But, in effect, he said "O no! You don't want me! Let George do it!" And he didn't go; he didn't put on a uniform; he didn't carry a gun, and he didn't risk his skin.

I believe that great capital can be made out of this poster by the Republicans, coupling it with a picture of Roosevelt sitting behind a desk with his cigaret at a jaunty angle telling Uncle Sam "You don't mean me—really! It could be captioned "The 1917 answer," with the legend: "Let the people give the same answer to him in 1944." WM. J. GRACE.

IT HURTS HIS SOUTHERN PRIDE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—I am from the south. What's so unusual about that? Nothing, but I've been here a little over four months and there's something about you northerners that I cannot understand. About 75 per cent of the people it has been my lot to meet here make no effort to hide the fact that they think southerners quite illiterate and "hillbillyish." One man went so far as to tell me he knew the southern women wear sunbonnets and the only sunbonnet I've seen in years was on a woman on an Illinois truck farm!

At Shaw, Miss., is situated the largest consolidated high school in the world, and if it isn't stretching your powers of belief too far, we even have colleges in the south! It makes me so mad when a Yankee walks up to me and says: "Did you wear your first pair of shoes when you got to Chicago?" that I forget to tell him it was my second pair! HOLLY DOUGLAS.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Thanks to "One of Millions" for so well expressing the thoughts of so many lonely army wives. No one questions whether or not it is right for a married soldier to have the company of the opposite sex. Parties are arranged, and truck loads of girls from neighboring towns are brought to bring cheer and color to the soldiers' lonely hearts.

Certainly married army men are not off the list. Rather, public opinion sends out a feeling of satisfaction, approval, and good humor to our men, which is as it should be. But why, then, criticise us for also accepting a bit of color when it comes our way?

I want to have a smile in my eyes and a song in my heart when my husband comes back to me. I'll not have it staying home month after month drudging away with housework while my eyes grow dull and my soul becomes warped. ANOTHER ONE.

HE DOESN'T MIND THE CROWDING.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—After all the slams and bangs about crowded buses and the poor bus driver who drives blindfolded, I would like to put the public at ease. The bus driver who wrote that letter about driving blindfolded evidently does not know his business. I suggest he quit the job before he has a serious accident which might result in injuries to himself and passengers. There are many drivers as well as myself who have no-accident records. In my 25 years as a bus driver I have never had an accident due to overloading and this applies to hundreds of our drivers. For every war worker I can pack on my bus, your boy as well as mine might have a better chance to come back home because they started work on time.

The buses are overcrowded because people can't get gas to drive their automobiles; because of the shortage of bus drivers with many runs off the street as a result, and because there have been days when a hundred buses have been in the garage for lack of parts and shortage of help. Every available man is working long hours and the company should be given credit for the grand effort they are making to keep the buses rolling. People who have the welfare and safety of the public at heart should do something about the jaywalking in the loop. I can't understand how Chicago won the safety award last year, but miracles do happen. CARL L. SCHUELER.

ROOSEVELT PREPAREDNESS.

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 9.—You have urged preparation for war, always. The blackest lie the Hillman-Browder ticket is using is that F. D. R. was prevented from arming on account of the Republicans. I think it was reported on the floor of congress that F. D. R. said May 14, 1940, "A two ocean navy is silly—just dumb." Why not give this to our American readers?

K. PAUL COLFAX JR.

EMPLOYERS' DUTY.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—I would like to express my heartfelt thanks for your editorial, "A Duty of Employers to Employes." I am a member of a local boilermakers' union and, outside of those working for railroads, I never heard of a boilermaker getting a pension. WM. FIETZ.

STATE INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—I should like to know what portion of an inheritance is subject to state tax in Illinois. R. D.

The exemption depends on the relationship. On a gift to spouse, lineal ancestor or descendants, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, or person to whom deceased stood in acknowledged relation of a parent, the Illinois inheritance tax is 2 per cent after an exemption of $20,000; to a brother or sister, after an exemption of $10,000, 2 per cent; and to an uncle, aunt, or their descendants, after an exemption of $500, 6 per cent. In all other cases, after an exemption of $100, the tax is 10 per cent. These rates apply only in the first bracket. Higher percentages apply to large gifts. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGION CHARGES NEW DEAL GIVES G. I. RUN-AROUND

Demands Action to Let Vets Have Benefits.

BY HARRY McCLAIN.

Demand that the New Deal administration in Washington stop playing politics with the G. I. bill of rights and establish at once rules under which discharged veterans of World War II. may obtain benefits of the bill will be made by the American Legion.

The bill which provides hospitalization, education, vocational training, loans for business, homes and farms, job placement, and benefits to the unemployed became a law last June, but legionnnaires complain none of those charged with administration of the law know where they stand.

Unable to Get Loans.

This is particularly true in the cases of veterans who want loans to enable them to start businesses for themselves, or to buy farms or homes. The reason they can't obtain the financial aid is because bankers and loan agencies have not been told by the government what to do.

Legionnaires arriving early for the convention which opens Monday in the Coliseum and continues thru Wednesday are especially aroused by the executive order of President Roosevelt which saddled upon Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, the job of reemployment and rehabilitation of war displaced civilians.

Because Hines has to administer affairs of the veterans of World War I. in addition to those of World War II. the legionnaires say he already is overworked.

Their Hopes Rise.

"Soldiers returning from overseas who expect to be discharged shortly," said a prominent Illinois Legionnaire yesterday, "read in the newspapers about what has been done for them; their hopes rise and they believe that it will be only a short time after they are out of the service until they are reestablished and self-supporting."

"But what happens? The service men start the rounds of agencies in search of the assistance that is theirs under the G. I. bill of rights and all they get is negative answers. The men become disgusted and their morale is destroyed just at the time when it should be on the rise."

Memorial and patriotic services tomorrow night in the Sherman hotel will be preceded by a parade of Cook county Legionnaires with their drum and bugle corps and bands. There will not be any national participation in the parade.

Burglary Case Dropped After Restitution of $1,500

After restitution of $1,500 taken from the home of Frank Mazur, 65, of 1529 Cortez st., burglary charges against two men, Joseph Stanosz, 25, and James Palmer, 18, were nolle prossed by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Boys court and a third man, Thomas Stramer, 35, was placed under court supervision for a year.

FIRE ROUTS 30 PERSONS.

Thirty persons were routed from their apartments at 4728-32 Woodlawn av. by smoke last night when fire started in the basement of the three story building. Chief James J. Gormley of the 16th battalion said it apparently was caused by spontaneous combustion. He estimated damage at $700.

PAC Makes Use of OWI Poster

OUR MANPOWER
% of our strength must not be lost through discrimination
12,900,000 Negroes, 4,800,000 Jews, 11,400,000 Foreign Born

OWI COLLUSION WITH HILLMAN'S PAC IS CHARGED

New York, Sept. 15 [Special].—The Constitutional Education League, Inc., charging in letters to members of congress that collusion exisited between the office of war information and Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee, today requested a congressional investigation of the use by the PAC of original OWI art work by a government paid artist.

The request for the probe was made by Joseph P. Kamp, vice chairman of the league.

Send Reproductions.

With the letters to members of congress were photographic reproductions of a PAC poster and the original OWI paintings by Ben Shehn.

The letter said that Shehn is a protege of the Mexican painter, Diego Rivera, who was described by the league's letter as a Communist. Shehn, who was said to have been formerly head of the poster division of the OWI, now is art director for the PAC.

The poster in question shows two workers, both wearing helmets similar to those used by welders. One wears a pair of safety glasses. According to the league, the original poster had this caption:

"Our man power—one-fifth of our strength must not be lost thru discrimination," and under it the line: "12,900,000 Negroes, 4,800,000 Jews, 11,400,000 foreign born."

Caption Changed.

The P. A. C. poster, with the same drawing, carries the caption:

"For full employment after the war register-vote." It is signed "CIO political action committee."

At the New York headquarters of the PAC, Ping Ferry, director of public relations, said that Shehn originally had painted the poster about a year and a half ago on his own time while with the OWI and had submitted it to that government agency. It was turned down, Ferry said, and Shehn took it home.

"Mom, you've got to leave room in Jim's Christmas box for these! You always said he'd rather play ball then eat!"

COL. McCORMICK HOST TOMORROW TO 1ST DIVISION

More than 325 members of the Society of the First Division from all sections of the country will attend the society's annual reunion in Chicago tomorrow, Herman R. Dorf, vice chairman, reported yesterday. The reunion will be a prelude to the opening Monday of the American Legion's national convention.

A highlight of the reunion will be the attendance of probably 10 soldiers wounded in campaigns in Normandy, Italy, Africa, and Sicily, who will come from the Vaughn General hospital as members of the present 1st division.

The members will be the guests of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, at a picnic at Cantigny farm, near Wheaton. Free transportation has been arranged over the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin line on trains leaving the Quincy st. station at 9:30 a. m. and returning to Chicago at 5 p. m.

The reunion banquet will be at 7 p. m. in the Hotel Sherman. Speakers at the banquet will include Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, former commanders, and Col. McCormick.

In the afternoon wives of the veterans will be entertained by the auxiliary of Cantigny post, American Legion, at a tea in the Hotel Sherman.

G.I. BURGLAR WHO LIVED IN CHURCH GETS 3 YEARS

Kenneth Altenburg, an AWOL army private who operated as a burglar from a basement room of the First Methodist church in Evanston, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Harry H. Porter in Evanston court to three years on the prison farm at Vandalia on his plea of guilty to three charges of petty larceny.

Altenburg, who has a record as a juvenile delinquent and who is a former inmate of the Illinois State Training School for Boys, was arrested July 3 while looting a concession stand on the Clark st. beach in Evanston. His arrest was brought about by William Lambert, beach supervisor, and Policeman Francis Plunkett.

Altenburg told police he lived for a week in the church basement without knowledge of church employes and had used the room to store his loot. He confessed to burglarizing several Evanston homes.

Gets 60 Days for Taking $50 from Drinking Pal

John Fleming, 26, of 1641 W. 63d st., was sentenced yesterday by Judge William V. Daly in Felony court to 60 days in the Bridewell after he pleaded guilty to taking $50 from a drinking companion.

ILLINOIS TO BE FIRST TO HELP HER VETS: GREEN

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 15 [Special].—Gov. Green gave his pledge today that "Illinois will be the first in helping her veterans in peace, as she was first in supporting her fighters in war."

Addressing the men he has assigned as Illinois veterans' service officers at the start of a two day school conducted in the hall of the house of representatives, the governor gave these instructions:

"Think of human reconversion in terms of helping every individual Illinois veteran to help himself. Never for a moment forget that these fighting men and women do not want and will not accept sympathy, charity, coddling, or special favors. What they do want, what they have a right to expect, and what I pledge they are going to receive in Illinois, is understanding of their individual problems and help in solving them."

Attending the school were 110 state employes who next week will open veterans' service offices in every Illinois county. All are war veterans. Homer G. Bradney, administrator of the governor's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and employment, said a dozen of his field men had served in World War II.

Thirty key men from the Illinois selective service staff were assigned to Gov. Green's school by Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service.

Approval of Gov. Green's program for helping veterans was voiced by Armstrong's chief deputy, Col. Victor A. Kleber, who pointed out that the state administration previously had given every aid to selective service officials.

Makes 8 pts.

Note: Avoid iodized salt for canning.

Show your Yankee thrift . . . have an electric range in your post-war kitchen

It's good Yankee thrift to save money every month in the year. And that's exactly what an electric range will do for you in your post-war kitchen.

For an electric range is always economical. Thanks to Chicago's low electricity rate, you'll cook dinner for five in your deep well cooker for as little as 2¢! You'll use a minimum of current all the time. Baking cakes and roasting meats, automatic oven controls maintain steady, even temperatures—the electricity is "on" only about 1/5 of the actual cooking time.

You'll save food, too—for meats cooked electrically shrink less. Vegetables come to your table rich with vitamins that your family needs for glowing health. Accurate temperature controls insure good flavor—good texture—perfect results with every recipe you use.

So with Yankee thrift in mind—decide today you'll have an electric range in your post-war kitchen!

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Sept. 15, 1944.

WHAT is the best possible use for the corn and hay crop now on the farm? Will it be more profitable to feed the corn to the hogs or will feeder cattle give the best returns? That is the problem confronting the manager at the farm and all other midwestern farmers.

Altho conditions vary from farm to farm in feed supplies, it is possible to generalize on the best use of the crops when future markets are taken into account. Briefly, the hogs will make best use of the corn while it will prove most profitable to make the cattle utilize the roughage.

Hog Market Improves.

The country faces a cut of one-quarter in hog numbers. With the big run in the markets over and shorter supplies ahead, hog prices should remain strong and at ceiling. The current corn hog ratio is 12.7 to 1. This means that 100 pounds of live hog is equal to 12.7 bushels of corn. The corn is worth $12.95, while 100 pounds of pork is valued at $14.25. This gives the hog raiser a good margin of profit.

Cattle feeding in recent months has not been very profitable. High corn prices and labor costs have forced many farmers to refrain from restocking their cattle yards. It is especially hard to make a profit bringing steers to a prime grade because of the extra amounts of corn needed to do the job.

The most profitable cattle now are medium to good grades brought to a medium or good finish. Farmers stand the best chance of making money by feeding medium type cattle using as much roughage as possible.

Quality Spread Widens.

Large numbers of thin cattle are starting to come from the range country now, and as the supply increases there will develop a wide spread between good and choice cattle and the bottom grades. Thus the farmer should plan to feed his cattle on silage and hay with a minimum amount of corn and protein supplement. His cattle should move to market carrying a good finish and no more. He should not attempt to turn out prime animals even if his feeder stock is of choice quality as is the case at the Wheaton farm.

The accompanying chart prepared by the college of agriculture at Ames, Ia., gives a good indication of how efficiently the different types of live stock convert their feed to food for human consumption. Cattle are the least efficient and for this reason our short feed supplies should be concentrated more on hogs and dairy products.

Comparison of fattening cattle with other kinds of live stock in edible product and food nutrients produced per 1,000 units of feed. [1]

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

AT this time of the year a common worry among gardeners relates to approaching frosts. Records of the Chicago office of the weather bureau indicate that if we have normal weather this year, killing frosts should not strike until Oct. 21, giving us another month of growing weather.

Records of the last 72 years show that Oct. 21 is the average date of a killing frost in the Chicago area. The earliest killing frost in the 72 years was Sept. 20, 1896. Gardeners worrying about early frosts probably remember the fall of 1942, when vegetation was killed on Sept. 25, the second earliest date on record. In only six of the 72 years have we had killing frosts in September. October is the most common period of first frost, and in 19 of the 72 years frosts have not hit until November.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY

REPORT DAMAGE OF 30 MILLION IN HURRICANE AREA

32 Dead in Seven States Blamed on Storm.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

A hurricane that scourged the Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas to Prince Edward Island was spending its fury in the North Atlantic last night after bringing death to at least 32 persons in seven states and causing property damage unofficially estimated at 30 million dollars.

Most of the deaths and devastation centered in the New York and New Jersey area, where the Caribbean born hurricane roared inland Thursday night, and in the New England states, where a similar storm killed nearly 500 persons in 1938.

Among the dead last night was Mrs. Agnes Pollock, 60, of Detroit, Mich., who suffered a heart attack at Atlantic City, N. J.

Evacuate 1,000 Soldiers.

More than 1,000 sick and wounded soldiers, most of them from Pacific and European battlefields, were evacuated today from the army's Col. Thomas M. England General hospital at Atlantic City, where all facilities had broken down as a result of yesterday's storm. The soldiers, including 275 bed patients, were transported in hospital trains to Halloran General hospital on New York's Staten Island.

Uprooted trees, snapped power lines, ruined crops, flooded streets —those were the aftermath of the 85 mile an hour gale that lashed more than 1,500 miles of coastline with torrential rain. Approximately 3,000 persons were evacuated from their damaged homes and some 300,000 telephones in the stricken area were out of service.

New Jersey, where three persons were killed and damage to crops and seashore properties exceeded 20 million dollars, appealed for federal aid. Rescue workers strove to reach hard hit areas of Long Beach Island.

Fruit Crips Ravaged.

Seventeen persons died in metropolitan New York and Long Island, altho the city escaped the hurricane's full fury.

Connecticut, its tobacco and fruit crops ravaged for the second time in six years, counted four dead. Five deaths were reported in Massachusetts, where the hurricane leveled fruit trees, battered shore properties, and cut communications to islands including Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard. One death each was reported in Maine, Virginia, and North Carolina.

New England's total damage approached 10 million dollars, half of it in New Bedford, Mass.

FIND DEAD MAN'S $3,500 HOARD IN A PHONOGRAPH

A phonograph owned by Stephen Fuchs, 65, a tool and die maker, who died Oct. 7, 1943, was found to be the hiding place for $3,500 when it was chopped into kindling, it was testified yesterday in Probate court. Joseph Wolf of 2302 Addison st., who was Fuchs' landlord; Wolf's wife, Antonia, and Charles A. Reinhardt, who rooms with them, admitted they found the money and gave only $500 of it to the office of John T. Dempsey, public administrator. Atty. Don M. Peebles, representing the administrator, said he believed $10,000 may have been hidden in the phonograph. Probate Judge John F. O'Connell issued a citation to discover more assets, and continued the case to Oct. 19. Fuchs is survived by a daughter, Wilma, 28, a patient at Manteno state hospital.

SEARCH ASKED FOR WOODHULL ESTATE ASSETS

A Probate court citation against Miss Dorothy Stahel, a secretary, to discover assets in the estate of Ross A. Woodhull, former president of the board of trustees of the Chicago sanitary district who died May 26, was asked yesterday in a petition filed in behalf of Mr. Woodhull's sister, Mrs. Nellie V. Hayward, 7100 South Shore dr. The petition, filed by Atty. Matt Kahn, stated that Mrs. Hayward believes Miss Stahel, who was Mr. Woodhull's secretary, has knowledge of or has possession of assets belonging to the estate which have not been accounted for. Miss Stahel was given $7,500 in the will. Probate Judge John F. O'Connell set Sept. 28 for hearing the petition.

Mrs. Barad, Mangano Case Figure, Is Freed by U. S.

Mrs. Florence Jackson Barad, 38, who was questioned in the gang slaying of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, was freed on government motion yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of violation of the Mann act. A charge is pending against Mrs. Barad that she received a portion of a shipment of stolen cigarets. Mrs. Barad, a millinery operator, denied the cigaret theft and has insisted she knows nothing of the slaying Aug. 3 of Mangano.

4 New Polio Cases Noted in City in 24 Hour Period

Four more cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Chicago in the 24 hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said. There have been 100 cases and four deaths from the disease in the city this year, compared with 656 cases and 63 deaths at this time a year ago. The sixth case this year in Lake county also was reported yesterday.

HUNT FOR CAUSE OF RAIL WRECK IN WHICH 29 DIED

Death of Trainmen Hampers Inquiry.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 15 [Special].—As the toll of dead in collision of the 14 coach Dixie Flyer and an express train in a fog early yesterday morning reached 29 today, railroad officials were engaged in an investigation to determine the cause of the wreck in which 26 air force veterans died.

One report, neither confirmed nor denied by officials of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road, said the southbound Dixie Flyer, carrying many battle veterans from home furloughs to a redistribution center in Florida, had been under orders to stop at a siding at Atherton to permit the Chicago bound express train to proceed. Atherton is six miles north of the scene of the wreck.

Train Crewmen Killed.

In Chicago, President C. T. O'Neal of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, said a "definite decision" on the cause of the wreck would have to await completion of the investigation, "owing to the fact both members of the engine crew of the Dixie Flyer were killed and both members of the engine crew of the northbound train were injured."

The army today added the name of Sgt. Lester H. Konzen, Dyersville, Ia., to the list of dead. Konzen, who died in a local hospital, originally was listed as seriously injured.

CHICAGOANS AMONG VICTIMS.

Tech. Sgt. Wallace F. Doerffler, 23, one of the airmen killed in the wreck, had participated in 44 missions on a Liberator bomber on which he was radio man and gunner. He saw action in Italy, France, Austria, and Romania. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Doerffler of 4410 Jackson blvd., and had entered the service on Oct. 29, 1942, going overseas last January. He attended Austin High school before enlisting.

Tech. Sgt. Robert Hoekstra, 21, who also lost his life in the wreck, was the son of George Hoekstra, an evangelist of 10050 S. Racine av. He was a radio man and gunner on a Liberator bomber and had 51 missions to his credit during eight months in the Mediterranean theater. He was graduated from Thornton Township High school in 1941.

34 Missions on Bombers.

Tech. Sgt. Charles A. Loeffler Jr., 21, of 5545 Wayne av., a third radio man-gunner from Chicago to die in the wreck, had participated in the bombing of the Ploesti, Romania, oil fields, as well as points in Italy, France, Germany and Austria. He had participated in 34 missions on a Liberator bomber. He had returned from his Italian base on Aug. 9 and reported back to Fort Sheridan on Sept. 11. He entered the service in December, 1942, the same year he was graduated from Sullivan High school.

TRAINS COLLIDE HEADON IN WEST TIE UP TRAFFIC

Miles City, Mont., Sept. 15 (AP).—A freight train and a work train of the Milwaukee road collided headon last night at Paragon station, eight miles west of here, derailing both engines and several cars and tying up the single track main line until about noon today.

The accident required rerouting both the eastbound and westbound Olympians, crack passenger trains, over the Northern Pacific tracks between Miles City and Sappington.

One engineer suffered a hand injury and one fireman, a rib fracture, a railroad spokesman said. He said the work train had not entered a siding in time to clear the way for the freight.

KILLED BY AUTO; CHARGE FILED AGAINST DRIVER

Robert Bateman, 76, of 2355 N. Kildare av., was fatally injured by an automobile yesterday as he was crossing at Palmer st. and Kostner av. The driver, John Paul, 46, of 4317 N. Whipple st., was charged with reckless driving.

Mrs. Fannie Hertzman, 74, died yesterday in Mount Sinai hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 15 when she was struck by the car of a hit and run driver near her home at 1570 S. Albany av.

SUIT STOLEN FROM PARKED CAR.

Paul G. Jacobson of 423 S. 4th st., Rockford, reported to police yesterday that a man's suit was stolen from his car while it was parked in the 200 block on E.

600 TOLD FUND DRIVE GREATEST OF CAMPAIGNS

More than 600 district chairmen and captains of the city division of the Community and War Fund held their first general meeting last night in the Hotel Sherman in preparation for the opening of the fund drive on Oct. 2. The goal for the metropolitan area is $12,980,000.

It is the aim of the city division to get 9,108 workers to aid in soliciting coöperation of business firms which employ a total of 500,000 workers. Clarence B. Randall, general chairman, told the group that the agencies served by the Community and War Fund form "the greatest galaxy of causes for human bettermen that have ever been assembled in one campaign."

Included in the group are 187 health and welfare agencies in the Chicago area, 19 foreign war relief agencies, the U. S. O., War Prisoners' aid, and others.

INDIAN PASTOR TO BE AWARDED COUNCIL MEDAL

The Rev. Philip Gordon, a Chippewa, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church in Centuria, Wis., will be awarded the 1944 Indian Council Fire achievement medal at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 S. La Salle st., Friday night, Sept. 22, which will be observed as American Indian day in Illinois.

The Rev. Philip Gordon.

Father Gordon, who was born in a town named for his family in Wisconsin, is a descendant of Chief Hole-in-the-Day, noted in Minnesota history. He attended the American college in Rome, Italy, and was ordained in the Cathedral of Sacred Heart, Superior, Wis., in 1913.

He is the third Chippewa to receive the Council Fire award since it was established in 1933. The medal will be presented by Willard W. Beatty, education director of the Indian office.

IRON LUNG HELPS SOLDIER BATTLE RARE MALADY

Corp. John G. Planeto, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Planeto of 3921 Deodar st., East Chicago, Ind., is recovering from a rare paralytic disease after being placed in an iron lung respirator that was flown by the army medical department from Australia to his advanced post in New Guinea, his parents have been informed.

Corp. J. G. Planeto.

Planeto, a range setter with an anti-aircraft unit, was almost totally paralyzed up to his neck for two months with porphyria. It was his second attack of the disease; in 1943 he was hospitalized for four months with it.

He entered the army in June, 1941, and went overseas in January, 1942. He attended Washington High school in East Chicago, and was employed by a news agency in Sturgis, Mich.

CHURCH COUPLE IN ADOPTION CASE ARE REMARRIED

The Rev. Zonroy Wilson Buss, 44, founder of the Holy Science Spiritual church at 2858 N. Clark st., and Mrs. Ruth Joan Buss, 38, who were divorced Aug. 8, were remarried yesterday by Judge Burton A. Roeth of Carthage, Hancock county, in Marriage court.

They were central figures in an adoption litigation in Superior court last month. Mrs. Sarah Blevins, 23, of 856 Leland av., a war plant employe whose 19 months' old daughter had been adopted by the Rev. and Mrs. Buss, charged that they used the child to stimulate collections in their church. The adoption was vacated and the mother recovered her child.

Mrs. Buss charged her husband with cruelty when she divorced him last month. She was given custody of two other adopted children, 8 year old twins.

SEEK RELATIVES OF DEAD MAN.

Police were attempting last night to locate relatives of Michael Michalex, 51, a roomer at 948 Madison st., who died yesterday.

Comdr. Dalton Takes Bride in Florida Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE news that Lt. Comdr. Philip S. Dalton is being married at noon today in Jacksonville, Fla., was brought back to Lake Forest by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elliot Dalton, when she and her mother, Mrs. DeForest Hulburd, arrived from Cleveland Thursday. Comdr. Dalton was one of Chicago's popular young bachelors during the years he was pursuing a career here, following his graduation from Harvard in 1931.

His bride is Mrs. Betty Manning Turnbull, widow of the late Joel Tucker Turnbull of Wilmington, Del., and Jacksonville. Comdr. Dalton's mother, Mrs. Dalton Sr., is in the south for the ceremony, which is taking place in St. Mark's Episcopal church in Jacksonville. The Rt. Rev. Frank A. Juhan, Episcopal bishop of Florida, will pronounce the benediction. The bride will be unattended, and Comdr. Dalton will have as best man his cousin, Lt. Philip G. Howe.

Comdr. Dalton and his bride will live in Jacksonville, where he is stationed. Mrs. Turnbull, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Saunders Manning of Jacksonville, is a graduate of Florida State College for Women and is a member of the Junior League of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Elliot Dalton spent part of the summer with her mother-in-law in West Chop, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and after saying farewell to her husband, a lieutenant in the navy, when he departed for duty in the Pacific, she joined her parents in Cleveland, where Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Hulburd have been living. Mrs. Hulburd and her daughter just have moved back to Lake Forest and are in the process of opening the two guest cottages on their property which they will occupy. As Comdr. Hulburd is remaining in Cleveland, and the son of the family, Lt. Charles H. Hulburd, is in the South Pacific with the navy, they will leave the big house closed.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fabens Kelley of East End av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Lawrence, to Lt. Chailie Mosely Love of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Royal Lee Love and the late Dr. Love of De Ridder, La. For the past year Miss Kelley and her fiancé have been stationed at Great Lakes, where she serves as a lieutenant, junior grade, in the WAVES. A graduate of Vassar college, she was executive secretary of the English-Speaking union before joining the WAVES a year ago. Lt. Love was graduated from Louisiana college and took post-graduate work at Louisiana State university.

Other Wedding News.

The Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth will be the scene of the marriage at 8:30 o'clock tonight of Miss Mary Katherine Lidecker and Pvt. Richard Elmer Buenger of the army specialized training program, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Buenger of Winnetka. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine E. Lidecker of Kenilworth will give a reception in the Georgian hotel in Evanston.

Miss Dorothy Lidecker will be her sister's maid of honor, and serving as bridesmaids will be Mrs. Richard R. Lachry and Mrs. William Monro III. Ensign Mitchell Kendall Simpson is to be best man. After a wedding trip to the Smoky mountains, Pvt. Buenger and his bride will live in Chicago while he is completing his studies in the medical school at Northwestern university. He attended Princeton university, and his bride studied at Northwestern.

The marriage of Miss Rita Kulpers to Lt. [j.g.] A. Peter Stauffacher of the naval reserve will take place at 7 o'clock tonight in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. G. Kuipers of Kenilworth. A reception will follow in the Michigan Shores club. Lt. Stauffacher, son of Mrs. Arthur Stauffacher of Minneapolis, Minn., will take his bride to his new post near Walnut Ridge, Ark.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Bermingham Jr. [Josephine Hancock Logan] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, John Anthony, Aug. 29 in Grant hospital. The baby and his sister, Sara Jane, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Temple McFayden of Libertyville and of Mr. and Mrs. Bermingham of Evanston.

If Ross J. Beatty Jr. arrives from Tinton, S. D., the family circle will be complete when his parents, the senior Beattys of Highland Park, celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with a tea this afternoon. The Beattys' daughter, Mrs. Melville G. Branch Jr., arrived yesterday from Quonset, R. I., and another son, John T. Beatty, lives here. Also here for the tea and buffet dinner following for a few close friends are the Beattys' niece and nephew, Mrs. George Hawk and Thomas L. Ryan of Muncie, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Beatty Jr. and their two little girls will be moving back to Chicago this fall.

The week-end will be a gay one with a dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club, the annual harvest home party at the Knollwood club, its last outdoor party of the year, and a dinner and preview of the film, "Greenwich Village," at the Saddle and Cycle club.

The South Shore Country club will hold its annual Good Fellowship day today. Each member is permitted to invite three guests for golf, for whom greens fees will be waived, and a dinner will wind up the festivities.

Kenilworth Girl and Her House Guest from East

Miss Ruthann Wigglesworth (left), daughter of the Albert W. Wigglesworths of Kenilworth, and her house guest, Miss Patricia Rosicki of Washington, D. C., both will be away at school this year. Miss Wigglesworth leaves Monday for Mountmary college. Miss Rosicki, daughter of the Stephan Rosickis of Washington, will enter Holton Arms Junior college. Her father is associated with the American Red Cross. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Christmas Tree in First Gifts to Yanks Overseas

A Christmas tree, bright with tinsel, is on its way to New Zealand to bring a bit of home and holiday cheer to a Chicago soldier, Pvt. Roy J. Kulow. It was among the first overseas packages to be mailed yesterday, opening day for the overseas Christmas mailing period which closes Oct. 15. Any properly wrapped parcel weighing up to five pounds may be sent to men and women in the fighting forces without a request during the period. The packages should be labeled "Christmas mail" and will be held at the destination for Christmas delivery. They must be mailed within the period however, if they are to reach destinations in time, postal officials said.

Christmas tree which is on way to Pvt. Kulow.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in one week to the same service person by the same sender. Parcels must not exceed five pounds and must not be more than 15 inches long or 36 inches in length and girth combined. Containers should be of wood, metal, solid fiberboard, or strong corrugated fiberboard reinforced with gummed paper or tied with heavy twine.

Men in uniform who want to mail packages to their buddies overseas, or those stationed in this country, will be given assistance in wrapping at the new service stand just opened at the U. S. O. center at 131 S. Wabash av.

The Christmas tree on its way to Pvt. Kulow is 13 inches tall and weighs less than three pounds, according to his wife, Mrs. Lillian Kulow, 5922 N. Rockwell st. Despite its compactness, there was nothing missing in the way of decorations of packages. Airmail stamps and pearl buttons painted with red fingernail polish added color. Thirty gifts in all, including games, nail file, shoe laces, chewing gum, razor blades, and notebooks, were fastened to the cardboard flaps which form the base of the tree and fold up around it for shipping protection.

Enough candles are included so that Pvt. Kulow and his buddies will be able to light the tree seven evenings, his wife said. She hopes she can keep the secret, for the tree is intended for a surprise on his second Christmas overseas.

A survey among department stores indicates men and women in all war theaters want gifts which remind them of families and friends and which cannot be obtained where the recipients are stationed.

Popular gifts include pocket size books, pipes and tobacco pouches, games, hard candy, dried fruits, and razor blades. Navy men overseas expressed preference for tinned "luxury" foods, Bibles, sun glasses, steel mirrors, folding writing pads, and snapshots.

Women seem to want sheer hosiery most of all. Cosmetics also are high on the list, particularly standard items, such as lipstick, rouge, and powder. Dainty underwear, zippers, and cream cologne are popular items on the want list of women.

Only a few relatives mailed packages yesterday, the opening day of Christmas mailing period, Postmaster Kruetgen said. He urged relatives to send such packages as soon as possible to facilitate the handling of mail.

The Chicago postoffice urgently needs hundreds of men and boys, 16 and over, as mail handlers, letter carriers, and clerks, to handle the tremendous volume of Christmas mail to the men and women in uniform. Salaries range from 69 to 81 cents an hour, the postmaster said.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

One of Chicago's exceptional volunteer war work records is that of Mrs. Marie Czarra, 4519 Magnolia av., who will be 79 Oct. 1. Despite the fact she is well beyond the age when most women sit back and consider their usefulness over, Mrs. Czarra has devoted 2,000 hours to the production unit of the Red Cross which meets at the Community Club of Sheridan park, 4536 Dover st.

In recognition of so much time given to the making of surgical dressings and to knitting and sewing, the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross has awarded Mrs. Czarra a certificate of merit and a letter of commendation, the latter signed by Mrs. Edward T. Ryerson, chairman of production.

Production corps work is one phase of Red Cross activity which has no age limit. Willingness is the only requirement. Mrs. Ryerson is making a special appeal for volunteers to help the chapter meet its quota of 4,000,000 surgical dressings a month, assigned by the army and navy thru national Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C.

The chapter now is two months behind in production. Any woman with even a few hours weekly to give is urged to visit the dressings center, 180 N. Wabash av., at any time, or to contact the production unit in her neighborhood. The Red Cross produces 90 per cent of all surgical dressings, Mrs. Ryerson said.

Sally J. Schiemann, 21, was sworn into the WAC yesterday at recruiting headquarters, 166 W. Van Buren st., and will leave soon for basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., after which she will enter the army medical service, which is campaigning now for the procurement of WACs with experience to do hospital jobs.

Sally Schiemann, laboratory technician, now a WAC.

Miss Schiemann is the second woman in her family to join the army. Her sister, Pvt. Julanne Schiemann, is stationed in Cairo, Egypt, after having served on the staff of the adjutant general in the middle eastern theater of operations. Julanne has been a WAC for a year.

Sally, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Schiemann, 5208 Cullom av., attended Carl Schurz High school, Wright Junior college, and the Chicago College of Laboratory Techniques, from which she was graduated in May.

The national headquarters of WOW [woman ordnance workers], Inc., thru its executive secretary, Caroline W. Budinger, announces the establishment of post No. 47 at Press Wireless, Inc., 1339 Diversey pkway. Members on the office and factory staffs chosen as officers include Mrs. Ellen Preschern, president; Mrs. Alice Finkler, vice president; Reva Golden, recording secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Mueller, treasurer.

The WOW, which will mark its second anniversary as a national organization at the end of this month, has as its aims the maintenance of industrial health standards, the promotion of patriotic projects, and the development of coöperation among women war workers.

If a Marriage Is to Succeed You Should—

BY JUNE GESERICK.

An educated woman has more difficulty in "getting her man" than an uneducated woman, warned Dr. Leonard Manning Ware, director of the National Institute of Family Relations, last night at the opening session of a six weeks' course on modern marriage problems.

Dr. Ware said college girls usually find men with equally good educations few and far between. Secondly, highly educated girls frequently take positions in professions or businesses where they do not meet many men. Last, but not least, is the inability of many college men to marry as soon as they complete their schooling. They must start at the bottom of their chosen field and usually postpone marriage until they are financially well fixed. Girls who wait for them must have patience, he said.

To members of the group, which included two men and 33 married, single, or engaged women, he pointed to religion, temperament, family social background, and personal tastes as important factors in the selection of a mate. To help them appraise their "marriage personality" he gave them a questionnaire of 190 interrogations.

The following is a cross-section of the questionnaire:

1. Is it difficult for you to adjust yourself to things quite different from those to which you have been accustomed?
2. Are you opposed to the idea of working and sacrificing to make your home a success?
3. Are you opposed to running your marriage as a partnership with division of labor and finances?
4. Do you find that you and your sweetheart or spouse have very few similar interests?
5. Do you dislike to give friends a lift in your car if it means going out of your way?

The answer to the first three questions is no. For No. 4 Dr. Ware urges similar likes in hobbies, reading, athletics, or skills to bring two people closer together. As to No. 5, if your fiance or fiancee won't go a block or two out of the way to give a neighbor a ride, chances are you're engaged to a selfish person.

New Autumn Suits, Just Like Leaves, Are Riot of Color

BY REA SEEGER.

The first of the fall suits blaze with color. Some of the most brilliant shades of shocking pink, jade green, and yellow break all records for shrieking colors, and the shoppers love it. And, as tho one striking color wasn't enough, some designers have gone berserk with contrast, such as a red and yellow striped jersey blouse and lining to a kelly green suit or a vivid pink blouse with a bright blue suit.

The colors are glorious, clear, sharp, and vibrant. The color controlled costumes are those which combine black or dark colors with the exuberant hues. For instance there's a shocking pink and black checked lumber jacket worn with a slim black sheath dress. Also there are grass green jackets outlined in black braid, teamed with deep navy blue, brown, or black dresses or skirts. But if you want the entire suit or costume of strong, undiluted color, you'll find plenty.

Some of the more subtle contrasts include the mauve and deep purple duets, the blouse of the pink with a decided lavender tint, the tweed or wool suit a deep reddish purple. Next come the nostalgic reminders of way back when a plum colored dress was the last word in elegance. This rich plum shade is fascinating as a background color, to spike with rich contrasts. Another new shade is the drab, dead-leaf brown, or dark taupe, which ever you think describes that very neutral tone.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 15. — When I learned that Mickey Rooney would form his own producing company, I didn't believe it. If there's one actor here who was nursed like a baby, it was Mickey. Sure, he was clever, but he was also fresh, brash, and had to be sat on like a young untrained colt. His boss not only fed him bonuses but gave Mickey race horses to boot and invested his money wisely. So now Mickey wants to be his own boss. 'Twould serve him right if M-G-M lets him. I understand his first official act was signing up Milton Berle. Ha! . . . Mickey may be interested to know that his father, Joe Yule, and Lee Trent wowed guests at the Biltmore in Las Vegas. Joe said, after an ovation which he never got while in pictures, "I can't tell you how happy you've made an old man." Lee and Joe are on their way to Chicago, Detroit, and New York.

A Few Bits and Pieces.

The Frank Rosses [Jean Arthur], Bill Hebert, and Mervyn Leroy are off to New York to test new faces for "The Robe." That's one picture that should use them and not the same old ones we've seen for years. . . . Eve Arden is off to Texas and Edward Bergen, who's army bound there. Edward's no relation to Edgar Bergen. . . . Claudette Colbert was amused at a drawing of herself sent by Robert Friedman of the Coast Guard. He'd rescued it from a Jap who had drawn it. Claudette's eyes had a decided slant. . . . Ben Hecht wants Groucho Marx to do another tour of army hospitals so he can go along and write about the Purple Heart circuit. . . . Well, Linda Darnell's got the buggy for it but so far no expectation of a baby. . . . Xavier Cugat and Lina Romay started doing the rhumba at the Mocambo, and patrons cleared the floor to become spectators. . . . Ava Gardner, Mrs. Van Heflin, and Mrs. Merrill Pye spotted a handsome young man dining at the Beverly Tropics the other night, and begged for an introduction. He was Newcomer Frank McGowan. The following evening Ava showed up at the same place on his arm.

Sounds Like a Good Idea.

Evalyn Walsh McLean wasn't kidding when she said the new cabinet should feature a secretary of education and art, a man who knows a great deal about the motion picture business. As time goes on, pictures, radio, and television will assume their rightful place in the scheme of things, and it will be as important for us to have a secretary in the cabinet as it is to have a secretary of labor or war. But before that could be done, there would have to be an amendment to the Constitution. When that was written, movies hadn't even been dreamed of.

Some Notes from France.

Dinah Shore writes from over there: "I haven't time to do much except my laundry and pray we don't move on until it's dry. This French dust has replaced the robot bomb as Hitler's secret weapon. At present I'm sitting outside my tent in a beautiful forest adjoining a chateau. My borrowed typewriter is propped up on a large box of K-rations, and I'm sitting on a German ammunition box. Had eggs for breakfast, the second time since I've been over here. Last night the general invited me to dinner. A Chinese boy cooked it — most wonderful chicken and fresh vegetables and cucumbers grown in the chateau garden. When I get home, I'll want glasses of milk and 17 salads. Love and kisses, Dinah."

Only Time Will Tell.

To while away the time on "The Women's Army" set, Eddie Buzzell brought a ouija board for Lana Turner, Laraine Day, and Susan Peters to play with. Lana asked the question, "Will I marry again?" Ouija board answered, "Yes." She asked for initials. They came out "A. S." Even tho Lana denies she and Artie Shaw are dating again, they are — but privately. Susan and Laraine asked the ouija board when their husbands would return from the army. The answer was "six months." . . . At a party Laird Cregar introduced himself to Mrs. [Greer Garson] Miniver and congratulated her on her performance in "Mrs. Parkington." She said, "I hope you won't use it for another imitation of me, as you did my speech at the academy dinner." To which Laird replied, "Your speech was comic—your performance excellent."

Mayor Invited to Join Fight on School Freeze

Mayor Kelly, all aldermen, and members of the Chicago board of education were mailed invitations yesterday to attend a mass meeting at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Eighth Street theater, called to organize city-wide resistance to a superintendent's order which banned all school transfer permits with the opening of the fall term.

E. M. Cohen as he posed last night on steps outside Supt. Johnson's home.

Vincent Russo, 5042 Altgeld st., and Mrs. Frank H. White Jr., 1716 W. 103d st., will be co-chairmen of the gathering which is expected to number in the thousands. Mayor Kelly has been asked to speak and parents from all sections will be on the program, Mrs. White said. The Citizens Schools committee is cooperating in planning the meeting.

Parents yesterday continued a united front against the transfer ban, which would send thousands of children from schools they have been attending to new schools.

Resistance was especially strong yesterday on two fronts. E. M. Cohen, a grocer at 1343 Roosevelt rd., returned at 9 a. m. to the office of William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, 228 N. La Salle st., where he waited futilely until 3 p. m. the day before to see Johnson. He said he was told Thursday Johnson would be in Friday morning. Cohen went last night to Johnson's home at 1228 W. Farwell av., but Johnson was not in and he did not see him.

Cohen said he will return Monday to Johnson's office and daily thereafter until he gets an audience.

Cohen's 12 year old daughter, Marilyn, spent her third day in the seventh grade at Riis school, without books or other supplies, in a strike against being sent to Medill school.

A hundred and fifty parents and children marched to Caldwell school, 8546 Cregier av., yesterday morning to demand the children be enrolled. Principal Mildred Rylands refused, and the parents assembled at Southlawn Community church, across the street, and signed affidavits that their children had tried to attend school. Seventy-seven pupils were reported affected.

Similar plans were being followed in many schools to avoid charges of truancy. The truancy office of the board of education reported no orders have been given regarding the absence of children all over the city.

Walter T. Fisher to Head Foreign Relations Council

At the first meeting this season of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations yesterday in the Palmer House, Walter T. Fisher was elected president for the coming year. Others elected were Meyer Kestnbaum, vice president, and Stephen Y. Hord, who will continue as treasurer. The council's next meeting will be held Sept. 28 in the Morrison hotel, with Sen. Ball [R., Minn.] as speaker. Frederic Woodward is the council's retiring president.

INSTALMENT XLII.

SURPRISE MEETING.

It seemed to Carol as if the case was lost. She had made a fool of herself and of Bright. What was far more important, a very dangerous man was going on with his evil work unhindered. For a while she sat silent. Then thought began to blossom in her head and she signaled that she wanted to interrupt.

"I have an idea, gentlemen," she said. "It may not work but I believe it will. I'm sure it ought to be tried. Capt. de Gresser has been away on a flight. I think we can safely take it for granted that he does not know about Gen. Bachmann's surrender. Those two know each other well and they don't like each other. If we could bring them together without either of them being warned in advance, I believe we'd get starting results." There was a short, impressed silence.

"Good old Kansas!" said the colonel. "How about it, general?"

"It can be done, and will be done," the general barked. "As soon as de Gresser returns!"

"If he returns!" Bright added under his breath.

Col. Barlow got up.

"I'll go and telephone the air field," he said. "This gives us something to work on. If you'll excuse me a moment I'll do a little checking up."

The others waited in restless silence.

"Capt. de Gresser is on the beam now," Barlow announced. "He'll be landing directly. I've left orders for him to report to me at El Ouild as soon as he gets in."

"He's really in St. Germaine's command," the general reminded him.

"I know that.. And some important French officer ought to sit in on this."

How about St. Germaine himself?"

"Good idea, general. We'll pick him up on the way out. I'll have him phoned while we get going. There will be several little things to arrange when we reach the palace and we haven't much time."

At the door of the Officers' club both Bright and Carol hung back hesitantly.

"Come on, young lady," the general growled, "you asked for this and you're going to get it. You too, Stoner!"

The general's car was waiting outside and they all climbed in. Carol watched Barlow anxiously. He's not well enough for this sort of thing, not yet, she thought. He must be more sold on the idea than he's let us know, to make such a tremendous physical effort. But aloud she only said:

"Where's this we're going?"

"It's the summer palace, Barlow explained. "With the usual generosity towards prisoners of war it has been set aside for the use of high-ranking officers. Treat 'em to the standard of living befitting their rank and all that sort of thing. Backmann is top man, so far."

"Won't de Gresser get suspicious at being told to come there, sir?" Bright wanted to know.

"It used to be headquarters for my outfit," Barlow explained. "That's why I left my name. We were only moved out a few days ago. It's quite a house, as you'll see."

They made swift progress thru the open suburb with its wide streets and scattered mansions set deep in gardens. At a dignified house of typical French architecture in the Mansard manner the car came to a stop and presently they were joined by St. Germaine. He got in without ceremony and the car drove on.

As they rode along Barlow, taking the initiative, explained the situation while St. Germaine listened in dignified silence. He was a fine figure of a man, tall and straight, with strongly molded, lean, fine Gallic features. Carol had seen other leaders who had the same type of face—her tall, farseeing father, for one. The Frenchman's face was lined, but with the marks of struggles surmounted, and his eyes were both sad and bright. Their expression did not change as he listened to the curious charges against de Gresser. It was as if the great French soldier had so often seen betrayal that he had become armored against the shock of it.

"It is a fantastic idea, but often these prove to be the true ideas," was all he said in comment.

There were high walls about the palace, but now the blossom-laden vines which had topped them had been cut away and replaced by barbed wire. The wooden gate was heavily guarded.

There was a small office inside the main door and for a few minutes Col. Barlow and St. Germaine went into conference with the man in charge of it while the others waited. Then Barlow led the way past a large reception room and down a hallway where he opened a door and motioned them inside.

To Carol's surprise, the room was a radio control room very much like that in any broadcasting station except for the fact that there was no glass window overlooking what should have been the studio. Two radio men in American uniforms were testing the mike.

"One, two, three, four," said a voice from nowhere.

"This setup was put in when I was using the place," Barlow explained. "Part of our regular equipment. They were going to rip it out when we got the idea it might be useful and so it's been left for a tryout."

"How? What do you mean, sir, a tryout?" Bright asked.

The colonel went into detail. The next room, placed where a broadcasting studio would ordinarily be, was the room in which the prisoners received such guests as they were permitted; the room which they used for recreation and where they were allowed during certain hours, to talk with each other. In this room, too, the prisoners would sometimes be questioned by allied officers or other officials. The idea was the exact oposite of the Gestapo method of questioning and it was expected to bring results based on the confidence it might inspire. The reception room had microphones skilfully concealed, and during the hours when it was in use, there were always operators in the control room.

"We have given orders," Barlow went on, "that Bachmann is to be taken into the spider's parlor and left there alone. Naturally he will not be told why. Then the moment de Grasser reports he will be shoved into the room and the door locked behind him. While, of course, we cannot see them, we will be able to hear everything that goes on."

The testing from the other room ceased, and Carol found a seat next to Bright, her heart pounding with excitement.

"We're on the air, sir!" an operator said.

Mother Should Not 'Tell On' Her Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

(Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

"Not another word from you, Jack! I'll let your father deal with you when he comes home tonight. . . ."

"The whole thing is too much for me. I'll make you explain everything to your father and he'll mete out the necessary punishment. . . ."

"Just wait until your dad hears about this, Mary. You'll be sorry you ever started it. . . ."

I should think some fathers would hate to come home at night knowing that they must sit in judgment on their young sons or daughters.

No man enjoys having sullen looks or slowly rising tears greet his homecoming footsteps. No man wants his children to dread his arrival day in and day out or to be made the policeman or judge in the life of his family. It isn't fair to him and it certainly isn't good for the children.

And as for mother—she loses prestige by acknowledging in this way that she can't manage her children; she puts herself in the undignified position of "telling on" them.

Only this morning I heard a mother say to her 14 year old son, "You wouldn't dare to do that if your father was home. But remember, he will be here tomorrow and then he'll make you stand around. You never obey when I speak." What a confession for a mother to have to make to a child!

Of course, I realize there are exceptions to every rule—unusual situations, times when father may have to be the court of last resort. But in the ordinary course of events a mother should discipline the children when their father is away.

There are some mothers who are not really capable of controlling their children. But there are many who think they can't but who could do so if they would exert the necessary energy and thought in that direction. It is easier for some women to shift the responsibility than to follow up and settle with the children themselves. This is pretty hard on the father of the family.

If a mother is always fair but firm; willing to listen to her child's explanation of a misdemeanor; talk things over without anger; punish if necessary, and then drop the entire matter—without any post-mortems—when her son or daughter is little, she's almost sure of respect, consideration, and obedience thru the years.

Movie Unfolds Adventures of Plane Carrier

"WING AND A PRAYER."

A 20th Century-Fox picture, directed by Henry Hathaway, featuring Don Ameche, Dana Andrews, William Eythe, and Charles Bickford, and presented at the Roosevelt.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This tells the story of Carrier X—as deceptive a siren as ever sailed the seas.

Shortly after Pearl Harbor she slipped out into the Pacific, with her Capt. Waddell [Charles Bickford], her Comdr. Harper [Don Ameche], her officer in charge of flight operations, and her crew. . . . Lt. Comdr. Edward Moulton [Dana Andrews] comes with the planes of his squadron and presents the skipper with sealed orders—to be opened at a later day. . . .

For long the eccentric maneuverings of Carrier X are as much a mystery to those aboard her—including her captain—as they prove to be to the Japs.

WHY does she cut and run when approached by the enemy? WHY are her guns ordered kept quiet? WHY are the air patrols told to make for her deck immediately when Jap planes are sighted?

The restless, obedient men—their planes all ready for action—fret and wonder and keep themselves busy as best they can while the X bats around—to all appearances—aimlessly. Meanwhile, you become acquainted with personalities and problems, sit in on some tragedies, get a few laughs. . . . At last the sealed orders are opened and the message is relayed that makes all clear.

Carrier X, labeled "expendable," had been sent out for the purpose of befuddling the one track minded Japs—whose psychology is so well known to the Americans. . . . Twice her ruses have caused the Japs to report: "Enemy carrier sunk." And she has appeared practically simultaneously in so many places that they have figured her out as four carriers instead of one. . . .

Girls are introduced briefly into the action thru mediums of photographs and motion pictures. . . . In the latter, Betty Grable and Alice Faye entertain briefly—and unsatisfactorily. . . .

Acting is forthright and believable, and, if it's more war you would be seeing, "Wing and a Prayer" has a lot to offer.

See you tomorrow.

Navy Sisters and Wives Will Meet Monday Night

The Navy Sisters' and Wives' club, an auxiliary of the Navy Mothers' club, will have its monthly meeting at 7:30 p. m. Monday in parlor D of the Bismarck hotel. Mrs. Mary Bird, president, will preside at the session, at which discussion will be devoted to the auxiliary's use of the Mothers' new headquarters at 500 Sherman st. Members also will give attention to plans for an autumn benefit dance. Mrs. Bird invites all sisters or wives of men in the maritime service, regardless of rank or branch, to attend the meeting and join the organization.

Tell of Blood Studies to Aid Infection Fight

Cleveland, O., Sept. 15 (AP).—Progress toward the isolation of a part of human blood which may play an important role in enabling man to combat infectious diseases was reported today by three scientists of Western Reserve university.

They said they had been able to identify four of the components of a blood substance known as "blood complement," which, they declared, probably aids in the destruction of invading organisms when a so-called specific antibody is present.

Specific antibodies are nature's shock troops which help soften the germ enemy for final destruction by white blood cells. They are produced when the germ first strikes, but sometimes there are not enough of them to defeat the enemy completely. The doctors suggested that blood complement may play a complementary, or allied, role with the antibodies.

The doctors making the report to the 111th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science were Dr. Enrique E. Ecker, Dr. Samuel Seifter, and Dr. Theodore Dozois.

They declared that studies of the blood of 300 patients suffering from infections ranging from the common cold to epidemic meningitis indicated an apparent relationship between the severity of the disease and the amount of blood complement.

The more severe the infection, they said, the less complement there appeared to be in the blood.

The research triumphs of the war and the promise of better living thru technology after the war have created a new public hunger for science information which must be fed by the nation's newspapers, various speakers declared in a symposium sponsored by the National Association of Science Writers in connection with the scientific meeting.

G. Edward Pendray, assistant to the president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, predicted such things as electrical air cleaners to "reduce the drudgery of dusting, cleaning, and wall washing" in the household and new appliances for automobiles developed from lessons of battle machinery.

"Science and technology," he declared, "are destined to shape the future of our affairs. The day of the trained science writer, capable of translating the progress of scientific research into the language of the average man, has arrived."

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Can fruits and tomatoes be canned successfully in the pressure cooker?"

The high degree of heat reached in the pressure cooker is not desirable for the soft textures of fruits and tomatoes. It tends to make them mushy and causes floating fruit. It is better to convert the pressure cooker into a hot water bath for these foods by filling the cooker with water deep enough to immerse jars. Use canner cover, but do not clamp it down. Process food according to hot water bath time tables.

"What kind of insect gets into flour, cereals, and other starchy foods? I have been troubled with these pests and would like help in ridding my pantry of them."

The insects undoubtedly are flour weevils, which hatch in starchy foods because of improper fumigation of the products. In order to go on a clean-up campaign you must throw out all packages of flour and other starch type items in which the weevils are found. Examine boxes of crackers, oatmeal, and other cereals, including rice, noodles, macaroni, and spaghetti; cornstarch, and confectioners' sugar. The pests often are found in the folds of a floury pastry canvas and even in talcum powder which has a starch ingredient. Remove everything from the pantry shelves, including pots and pans. Wash shelves and walls, and before returning cupboard items look over carefully, both inside and out.

Make a practice of storing all starch foods in tightly covered containers—cannisters or glass jars with screw tops. Then if the weevils appear they cannot escape to other foods to lay their eggs, and the product can be thrown out at once. Burn discarded food immediately, or at least place it in a tightly covered disposal can.

"You printed a recipe recently using self-rising flour. Just what kind of flour is this and how can I substitute regular cake flour?"

Self-rising flour which is packaged under several brand names is cake flour to which baking powder and salt have been added. To substitute ordinary cake flour, use 2 to 2½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt for each 2 cups flour.

Collectors Set for Exhibition in Lake Forest

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The usual serenity and quiet of the Lake Forest library has been broken constantly this week with the busy chatter of voices and footsteps of Lake Foresters bringing in and arranging collectors' items for an exhibition to be held today and tomorrow for the benefit of the Lake Forest Garden club.

The purpose of the talented women arranging the exhibit has been to transform the library for two days into a beautiful little museum, with priceless possessions displayed to advantage and highlighted by stunning examples of flower arrangements designed by a hand picked few of the suburb's best known hostesses.

The show will be open from 1 to 9 p. m. today, and from 1 to 6 p. m. tomorrow. At 3 and 8 o'clock today and again at 3 o'clock tomorrow, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will show colored flower slides. Admission of $1.20 includes her show, and tea will be served from 4 to 6 p. m. tomorrow in the courtyard, at 50 cents a person.

The proceeds will be used to continue the club's nature study classes under Mrs. Theron Colton, and a group of children will be pursuing their classwork in a room adjoining the exhibit.

Described by Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of the exhibition committee as "mouth watering" is a set of 1830 Rockingham china that will be on display. It arrived recently in Mrs. D. Mark Cummings' home from Scotland, shipped by Mrs. Cummings' daughter, Mrs. Curtis Munson, who is in England with the American Red Cross. Mrs. Hambleton Kirk has lent the only piece of Newhall china in the show, made in about 1780.

Rare silver, flower prints, books, crystal, and other china has come from Lake Forest homes for the exhibit, which is open to the public. The library is only 200 feet from the electric and railroad stations, and inclement weather cannot spoil the show.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you're in the midst of packing away summer things and readying closets and bureau drawers for your fall and winter clothes, why not add some glamor to the task? You can do it easily by using sachet powder and pillows, a suggestion that isn't as frivolous as it may sound, for they really are a practical addition to your bedroom. Bureau drawers and clothes closets are apt to become a bit stale smelling, but a good sachet will chase the unpleasant odor away, replacing it with its own pretty perfume.

Some of the best sachets we know are those made in true-to-the-flower fragrances of lily of the valley, wood violet, carnation, and gardenia. Each scent is a delight in itself, and, while none of them is overpowering, each is penetrating enough to perfume the air effectively.

The sachets come in single pillows or in sets of three, all beautifully made and designed to fit different sized accessories and drawers. Tuck them in with your lingerie or gloves, place one or two in your hat box or on closet shelves, and you'll be delighted with the results. The pretty fragrance will meet you when you open a door or drawer and the scent will cling to your clothes to give you a feeling of elegant feminity.

The sachet powder also is available in loose, bottled form for uses of your own inspiration. A teaspoonful of the powder placed in a piece of cotton and slipped under the cushion of your boudoir chair will add a nice note to your room, or you might like to use it in this fashion in your jewel box. There are many ways it may be employed, but the effect always is the same—a lasting, pleasant fragrance lingering in the atmosphere and adding a note of loveliness to every day living.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Open Forum.

A letter to this column suggests it might be interesting to young women selecting courses of study in high school and college this fall if business women, looking back to their school days, would tell what studies proved most valuable to them in their work.

Is it the exactitude which comes from the mastery of mathematics, the elasticity of a good vocabulary gained from the study of English, poise from a course in public speaking, techniques derived from typing and other commercial courses?

No knowledge is wasted, yet some sifting of experience might be helpful. The business woman is in a favored position to offer aid. Let's hear from her.

Sweets Preferred.

You never call me Darling,
My Dear, or Love or Pet,
The way you waste them on my friends
Whom you have scarcely met.

Perhaps you'll never call me Sweet,
And yet it's nice to dream.
But if you call me Pal again
I know I'm going to scream!

CULLIE.

M-m-m-m-m!

Thought this might entertain your readers, what with the grocer saying "we can let you have a quarter pound of butter," comments M. Grobman. She incloses a card from Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm, career girl and land owner, saying: "Yesterday I had to stay home from Sunday school to do a double churning [four pounds of golden butter] and make ice cream and a whipped cream cake to use up the cream that had accumulated during my week's absence."

For the Real Word Expert.

Same words, opposite meanings: awful good . . . good and awful.

Waking Up Period.

What about fairness to the customers? Lately it seems to be something of a feat to get intelligent attention from a clerk until at least 20 minutes after the scheduled store opening time. Of course I realize that more important than attention to the customer, at this early morning hour, are: Combing the hair, reading the funnies, and offering a resume of the previous evening's activities ["and was he a marvelous dancer!"].

Perhaps it would be a smart idea to inaugurate a 15 minute "waking up" period, with the understanding that employers and customers alike would receive due attention at its conclusion.

PATIENCE.

The Key.

The key to the storehouse of success is education, preparation, concentration, and perspiration. The lock cannot be picked by poor work, spite work, guess work, or no work. —From Public Service magazine.

Apron Fashion

Wrap-around lines are universally favored for house dress, because such models are easy to wash and iron, and easy to put on. This one has a huge patch pocket which may be adorned, as may the collar also, with applique provided by pattern No. 11215, ordered extra. Style No. 3560 is designed for sizes 16 to 52. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 35 inch material with 2½ yards of binding. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Scotch Teas.
[One dozen cookies.]
½ cup margarine
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups oatmeal
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Melt margarine and stir in sugar. When well blended add oatmeal, salt, and baking powder, mixed together. Pack into bottom of greased 8 inch square pan. Bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven for 30 minutes. Cool about 5 minutes and cut in squares. Remove from pan as soon as cookies are cool enough to hold together, and before entirely cooled.

MINERS ASSAIL ROOSEVELT AND HAIL GOV. DEWEY

Charge F. D. R. with 'Breach of Fair Play.'

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 15 [Special].—Charging President Roosevelt with a "breach of fair play" and an "outrageous exhibition of personal malice and dangerous bad temper," the United Mine Workers' convention today adopted by an overwhelming vote a resolution assailing the President and lauding Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, as a "firm believer in equal justice, fearless and courageous action and a capable administrator."

John L. Lewis, UMW president, who called for the standing vote after a half hour's debate on a committee report, said the resolution was "overwhelmingly adopted."

Ill Bestowed Confidence.

The resolution described as "ill bestowed" the confidence expressed in the union's indorsement of President Roosevelt in 1936—the only official indorsement for a Presidential candidate in UMW history.

The New Deal administration was accused of trying to "destroy the UMW by subtly attacking its leadership, which is again evidenced by the fact that only mine workers have been prosecuted for strikes under the Smith-Connally-Harness act, despite all other strikes by truck drivers, teamsters, and workers in auto, aircraft, and kindred industries."

The resolution said the trouble between the President and the UMW began with the captive coal mine controversy in 1941 and charged the administration with trying to "create internal strife" in the UMW. It said that, before expiration of the 1943 contract, the President sent army intelligence forces into the coal regions "to intimidate miners and develop an anti-Lewis attitude."

Assail Radio Speech.

"President Roosevelt's radio speech to the nation [in May, 1943] castigating the UMW and its officials, even tho the policy committee had already voted to return to work under government operation, was a breach of fair play and an outrageous exhibition of personal malice and dangerous bad temper."

The resolution said, "The labor plank of the Republican party promises labor the recognition and representation that belongs to labor. It promises economic freedom and to abolish all policies that lead to regimentation, freezing of wages, and binding men to their job.

"Gov. Dewey, during his two year incumbency as governor of New York, has worked in complete harmony with the legitimate trade unions of his state," the resolution said. "Dewey has not met the expectations of the betrayers of labor or the Communists who dominate the CIO.

Believe in Justice.

"The record reveals Dewey to be a firm believer in equal justice, fearless and courageous action, and a capable administrator.

"In the election to come, the mine workers will know their enemy and can be relied upon to protect their home, their country, and their nation."

The convention formally denied a seat today to Ray Edmundson of Springfield, Ill., autonomy leader, on grounds "he is not a member in good standing" and is "not employed in or around the mines as provided" by the UMW constitution.

Edmundson Denies Charges.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 15 (AP).—Ray Edmundson, United Mine Workers' autonomy leader who was denied a seat at the UMW convention at Cincinnati, declared tonight the action was "a scheming device to keep me off the ballot" as a candidate for the UMW presidency.

Edmundson said "The charge that I am not a member in good standing is a deliberate falsehood. Mr. Lewis was not only afraid to face me at the convention on the self-government issue, but he also is afraid to submit an account of his stewardship to a vote of the membership on Dec. 12 in the rank and file election."

Edmundson said he had a receipt signed by the financial secretary of Springfield, local 764, of which Lewis also is a member, which showed Edmundson's dues were paid.

Members of the local tonight passed resolutions asking Lewis to produce proof of his convention statements involving Edmundson, and urging congress and the legislatures of 28 coal producing states to take steps to "guarantee United Mine Workers the right to choose officers of their union."

Bar Slaying Figure Held for Disorderly Conduct

Joseph Burns, 40, of 3350 Monroe st., seized for questioning about the murder of Fred Johannsen, a sewer cleaner who was beaten fatally with a bar stool in a tavern at 3108 Madison st. on Monday, was booked yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge. Johannsen's alleged assailant, Alfred [Dago] Junquera, 49, is held on a murder charge.

THE QUESTION.

What is the most amusing alibi you've ever received from a dancing partner who kept stepping on your toes?

WHERE ASKED.

53th st. beach.

THE ANSWERS.

Robert Simon, student, 5314 Hyde Park blvd.—My date was a beautiful brunette. She had been stepping on my toes several times in the evening. She noticed my pained expression and looked up with beautiful brown eyes and said, "I'm sorry, I thought I was in heaven and those were clouds I was dancing on."

Rita Frank, salesgirl, 1421 E. 53d st.—My dancing partner was a sailor. He walked all over my feet and never apologized. When we were thru he said, "You probably wondered why I didn't say 'excuse me' but I've never danced before and thought I'd save my pardon until the end and say it only once."

Mafilyn Moore, student, 5220 Harper av.—I was asked to dance by a very shy sailor. He was a recruit. One of his big feet stepped on my toes. He apologized and explained he was from the hillier section of Tennessee and had put on his first pair of city shoes a few days ago.

Jerry Klingelschmitt, office clerk, 8142 Rhodes av.—I had been struggling to teach a bashful soldier to dance. He was concentrating on his steps and as he walked onto my left foot he turned a deep crimson, and said, "Excuse me, I'm left handed and I guess my feet are the same way."

Elene Lieberman, student, 7653 Prairie av.—Near Palm Beach, where I spent several months is an army hospital. A bunch of us girls went out and danced with some of the patients. One very graceful dancer accidentally misplaced his foot and just as gracefully said, "Oh, excuse me, it isn't the body, it's the sole."

Bernice Smilay, office worker, 5486 Blackstone av.—A lot of soldiers have trouble dancing in their big "G. I." shoes and that's a perpetual excuse. One soldier said, "I've got on a new pair of G. I. dancing slippers. If I seem to step on your feet it's just because my feet don't know where my shoes are."

NEW HEARING SET IN BOGUS FBI AGENT CASE

Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, yesterday continued until Sept. 26 hearing on a charge of impersonating a government officer against Lee Phillips, 50, ex-convict, who was questioned as a suspect in 1938 for the labor goon slaying of Edward Shuler, an operating engineer.

Phillips was arrested late Thursday by agents of the federal bureau of investigation after he had allegedly taken $200 from Philip Bloom, owner of the Victory Paper Box company, 659 Randolph st. According to Michael Boyle, assistant United States attorney, Bloom said Phillips and another man posed as agents of the department of justice and threatened to charge him with operating a black market.

Bloom informed FBI agents who arrested Phillips after he had been paid the money. Agents are seeking Phillips' companion.

MAN IN AUTO GRABS PURSE.

PAC TELLS UAW: GIVE! BUT MAKE IT 'VOLUNTARY'

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 15.—Delegates to the ninth annual meeting of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union began making "voluntary" contributions to the CIO political action committee today.

A special PAC collection office was set up in the convention hall by R. J. Thomas, the union's president, who is a member of the CIO-PAC committee headed by Sidney Hillman, president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union.

"Voluntary" Funds Asked.

The convention's PAC slush fund collection was inaugurated last night after Hillman had pleaded for the "coöperation of the UAW delegates with the PAC for the reëlection of Roosevelt" and had reminded them that "funds are needed, too, but the donations must be voluntary." Urged by Thomas, the delegates voted to give $1 each before the convention ends.

Thomas notified the delegates today that a room in the convention hall had been arranged for the collection. "Three girls are ready to receive your voluntary contributions and to issue receipts for your money," Thomas said. His emphasis that the payments should be "voluntary" brought a ripple of laughter from the convention.

Advised to Contribute.

After the session it was explained to those who expressed an aversion to contributing that it "wouldn't be smart not to, because the receipts will serve as a record of those who have paid as well as of those who have not."

"What do we care?" said one of the delegates. "We don't have to pay it anyway. We're getting our money from our locals."

The estimated 3,500 delegates and alternates receive an average of $10 a day for room and expenses, plus an amount equal to their daily pay in their regular jobs.

The convention today settled down to the work of considering scores of resolutions.

A factional dispute may develop on a resolution which, it was learned, turns down a request for the creation of an office of third vice president.

Thomas, during his opening address, had asked the delegates to make a place for Richard Leonard, director of the Ford Motor company UAW union, as third vice president.

DIVORCES MATE, BUT CONTINUES AS HIS PARTNER

The marriage, but not the business partnership, of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Meyerhoff, advertising agency owners, was dissolved yesterday in Circuit court by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Mrs. Madeleine G. Meyerhoff, 40, of 237 E. Delaware st., obtained a divorce on a charge of desertion, and Meyerhoff's cross bill, also charging desertion, was dismissed. They were married April 22, 1923, and separated March 19, 1943.

Their partnership in the advertising agency at 410 N. Michigan av. will be continued to Nov. 30, 1951. Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, who represented Mrs. Meyerhoff with Atty. Richard Kuhns, said she receives $54,000 a year from the partnership, which will support her and two children, Jane, 17, and Arthur Jr., 14. The question of alimony will be deferred until 1951, Davis said. Meyerhoff was represented by Atty. Albert Orschel.

FIVE POLICEMEN SHIFTED FROM 'SCOTLAND YARD'

A lieutenant and four policemen have been removed from their jobs in the Scotland Yard detail and on the commissioner's staff and sent to outlying stations, it was learned yesterday. The two departments recently were placed in charge of Lt. William A. Balswick following the death of Capt. Michael Naughton. The changes, made during the last two weeks, were "for the good of the service," Commissioner Allman said. The men transferred and their new assignments are, Lt. Thomas Lyons, Town Hall; Arthur Manger, Burnside; John McDonald, Rogers Park; George O'Brien, W. North av.; and Harry Goelz, Stockyards.

CONNALLY ASKS WORLD PACT ON PRESS FREEDOM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the foreign relations committee asked the senate today to adopt a resolution favoring post-war international treaties protecting the rights of all to "write, send, and publish" at uniform communication rates, and free from government or private monopoly interference.

Connally's resolution, the third introduced in congress recently on the subject of a world free press, was referred to the foreign relations committee along with a previous proposal by Sen. Taft [R., O.].

Connally said he would call the committee into session tomorrow in the hope of reaching an agreement which would make possible floor action next week.

In the house strong sentiment has been voiced for approval of a similar resolution offered by Rep. Fulbright [D., Ark.].

SEEK TWO ON GIRLS' CHARGE.

Police yesterday sought two men on complaint they induced two young girls to stay with them at a loop hotel. Police said the men would be charged with statutory rape.

Dental Officer Switched to Seattle Navy District

Capt. J. A. Tartre yesterday left his posts as dental officer of the 9th naval district and senior dental officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training center to become dental officer of the 13th naval district with headquarters in Seattle, Wash. Capt. Paul G. White, now at Seattle, will become dental officer of the 9th district and Capt. R. P. Irons, Tartre's assistant, has been named senior dental officer at Great Lakes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 15.—The Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks, already rated as contenders for the national service team championship and with a 1943 record of only one defeat, will open the 1944 football season tomorrow afternoon with the University of Michigan. The Wolverines are co-holders with Purdue of the Western conference title.

Twenty-five thousand, a conservative estimate of tomorrow's crowd if the weather is favorable, will watch the battle which holds national attention in the embryo campaign. The Seahawks tonight were encamped in near-by Jackson, Mich., as Michigan's youthful players took a last drill on the stadium gridiron.

Nine Have College Experience.

For the first time, the Seahawks will be represented by an all-cadet eleven, tho Bus Mertes and Vic Schleich are bluejackets and are not candidates for wings. Mertes, a member of the Seahawk eleven last year, formerly played for Iowa, and Schleich was a tackle on the Nebraska eleven which was defeated by Stanford in the 1941 Rose bowl game.

Alex Kapter, who played against the Seahawks in 1942 and was captain of the Northwestern university eleven last year, is the best known of the Seahawk linemen. Kapter also contributed to the success of the College All-Stars in their 27 to 7 victory in 1943 over the Washington Redskins. Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher, former Alabama Poly coach, now serving at the Iowa City naval base, hopes his boys will continue the great record of the two preceding years. Last year, under Lt. Don Faurot, the team won nine games and was defeated only by Notre Dame, 14 to 13.

Five Freshman Linemen.

Michigan, according to Fritz Crisler, who is starting his seventh season as head coach of the Wolverines, will have a lineup including five letter men. Unfortunately for Michigan's hopes, the experienced strength is concentrated in the back field. Joe Ponsetto is the first choice as the quarter back. Bob Nussbaumer of Oak Park, Ill., right half back, and Bob Wiese, full back, are a pair of proven stars.

Crisler has concentrated on attack in the practice sessions. He believes that it is more important to score than to defend. This indicates a wide open game tomorrow, a selling point to the public. Certainly, the winner definitely will be in the running for midwestern honors.

IRISH BRUSH UP ON BLOCKING FOR PRACTICE GAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 15 [Special].—Notre Dame's football squad worked on play assignments this afternoon in preparation for another game length scrimmage tomorrow afternoon.

During a short dummy drill which concluded the session, the coaching staff stressed down field blocking, a department in which the inexperienced Irish squad has been noticeably weak.

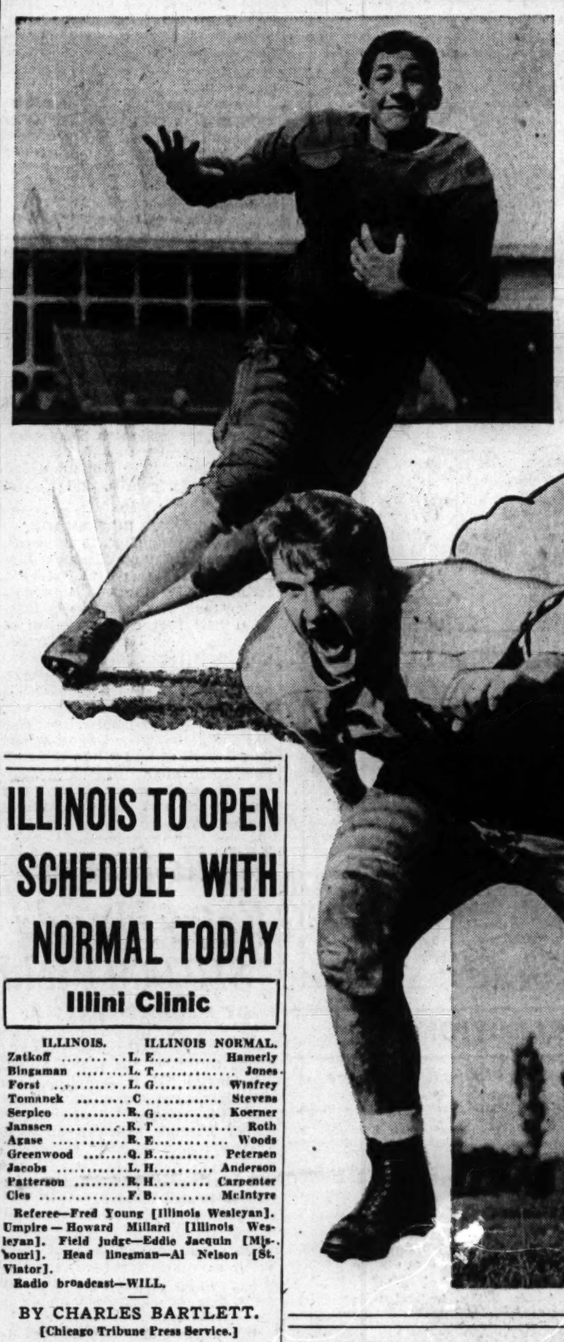
A NOVEMBER CLIMAX ON SEPT. 16!



Bob Wiese (left), Michigan full back, and Alex Kapter (below), guard for the Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks, are two of the leading stars in today's football season opener in Ann Arbor, Mich., which well deserves billing as one of the nation's top games of the 1944 football season. Wiese was a star on the Wolverine team which shared the 1943 Western conference title with Purdue and Kapter was captain of last year's Northwestern eleven. The Seahawks who lost only to Notre Dame last season, again are rated as one of the leading contenders for the service team title.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 15.—University of Illinois' football team, suspected of potentialities which have had more than one 1944 gridiron prophet eyeing it as championship material, will open its 55th season tomorrow afternoon in Memorial stadium against Illinois Normal's Redbirds.

Altho the Redbirds come well armed with navy trainees, the local citizenry is regarding the contest as a clinical examination against a formidable schedule which will see the Illini meet Indiana, Great Lakes, Purdue, Iowa, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State and Northwestern.

Prospects Bring Optimism.

There is a pleasant mood of optimism over the prospects of this young team which the brisk Ray Eliot will send against this stout array of foes and Illinois constituents are hopeful of their best war time season. For one item, it is no secret that Eliot's playing personnel will be equipped with a depth of reserve strength in which it was woefully lacking last year.

For another, there is a back field adapted to the T. Eddie Bray, the Utica, Ill., 148 pounder, is one example. Last year Eddie, who probably won't see too much action tomorrow because of a cranky knee, toted the ball 80 times against conference opponents, picking up 570 yards for an average of 7.1 yards per attempt.

Starting in place of Bray at left half against Normal will be Ed Jacobs, the Austin [Chicago] High school redhead. Ed was a member of the 1942 freshman squad which was rated one of the best in Illinois history.

Patterson, Young Share Right Half.

The quarter back post will be handled by the veteran Don Greenwood, while the full back assignment goes to Jerry Cles of Carlinville. Right half back will be manned by two of the state's outstanding Negro athletes. Starter will be Paul Patterson, captain of the 1943 East Aurora High team. When he isn't there the job will be filled by Claude [Buddy] Young, the swift Chicagoan from Wendell Phillips, who in addition to being an outstanding back also is the nation's sprint champion.

Guard Ralph Serpico will serve as captain of the Illini eleven tomorrow's game.

Sailors Open, Soldiers End Season Today

BY FRED DE LANO.

The football teams of Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes, one closing a suddenly abbreviated schedule and the other opening a 12 game drive for possible national honors, will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the naval training center's Ross field strictly for the entertainment of 25,000 service men.

Fort Sheridan's undermanned squad seemingly has little chance of winning, and only slightly more of holding the score at a point below last week's 67 to 6 rout by Western Michigan. Injuries suffered by several key men in that game, plus personnel transfers, caused athletic officials at the post this week to announce cancellation of six games which were to have been played after today. They will go thru with the Bluejacket contest for the benefit of men in training at the center, as well as 1,100 Fort Sheridan soldiers who will be in the crowd.

Heavy Line but Few Reserves.

The Comet lineup will include eight men who started a week ago against Western Michigan, but with one of them shifted from end to half back. He is Don Hemmingsen, from Union, Ill., who scored Fort Sheridan's only touchdown in the opener.

Fort Sheridan's line averages 214 pounds per man, but the Comets lack the speed and condition of the Great Lakes eleven. The line is anchored by 247 pound Ed Watkins at left tackle, while Clyde Nelson beside him at left end is listed at 225 pounds. However, Fort Sheridan has virtually no reserve strength.

Chance to Test Players.

The game will mark the debut as Great Lakes coach of Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, head coach for the past three years at Ohio State, and will give him a chance to evaluate his 38 man squad in action prior to meeting Purdue, Illinois and Northwestern on successive Saturdays.

In the starting Bluejacket line only one player lacks a collegiate football background. He is Center Frank Sullivan from Belle Harbor, N. Y.

CUBS WIN OVER CARDINALS, 2-1; THEN LOSE, 3 TO 2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs refused to be slowed down yesterday even by so great a personage as the 21 game winning Morton Cooper, accompanied by his title holding Cardinal associate, but, with that feat accomplished, Charley Grimm's toilers proceeded to confound themselves with their own blunders. They fixed Mr. Cooper with his seventh defeat and ran the Cards' losing streak to five in the first portion of a double header, after which they tossed off a 3 to 2 decision before a ladies' day crowd of 14,763.

Bob Chipman managed to wriggle thru nine innings of southpawing in the opening battle, but his performance was hardly as glamorous as the run yield might indicate. He was such a pleasant toy for the champions in the first four innings that they collected eight hits, much of this attack being nullified by two double plays. Thereafter the slim lefty was in almost complete control, allowing only two safe thumps in the last five innings.

Vandenberg Is Unlucky.

The victim of the bad fielding in the second game was Hy Vandenberg, who was present when the Cards scored all their runs on one hit in the sixth and even the lone hit was on the gift side. Against this disastrous generosity, the Cubs had to earn what little they could against Rookie Ted Wilks, taking a one run lead in the fifth and then being snuffed out hurriedly in the ninth after they had stirred up a rumpus that put one run in and placed two others on the bases to await developments. The only development was a double play. It was Wilks' 16th victory against three defeats.

Old Pepper Martin had a hand in the activity that netted the Newhouser Wins 25th Game.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 15 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers blasted four Cleveland pitchers for a 9 to 1 victory to split a twilight-night double header tonight. The Indians won, 4 to 3, in the 12 inning first game.

Harold Newhouser went all the way for the Tigers, allowing the Indians eight hits. Mel Harder was charged with the loss in the second game. It was Newhouser's 25th victory of the season.

The Tigers missed an opportunity to take first place from the New York Yankees by losing the opener.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN the Detroit Tigers were on their last eastern trip, Manager Steve O'Neill, attending church, was asked by an usher to take up the collection. . . . Steve consented and when he reached a pew occupied by three of his players—Don Ross, Joe Orengo, and Johnny Gorsica—he delivered a little sermon of his own. . . . "Listen, you guys," said Steve, "I want nothing out of you but dollar bills; no silver this trip." . . . Naturally the boys obliged, so Steve has a standing invitation to pass the plate whenever he attends that church again. . . . L. C. Boles is starting his 30th year as director of athletics at Wooster [O.] college. . . . New Castle [Pa.] High school suffered its first opening game defeat in 22 years the other night. . . . Hod Lisenbee, former major league pitcher now with Syracuse, was the first International leaguer to pitch 200 innings this season. . . . The Athletics, famous for years for negative achievements, were handed their first double shutout of the season on Labor day. . . . Six members of the Tiger cast have participated in world series. . . . They are Paul Trout, Hal Newhouser, Pinky Higgins, Roger Cramer, Johnny Gorsica, and Roy Henshaw. . . . Johnny Shober, star passer at the University of Pennsylvania in the twenties, has been promoted to major. . . . Dr. Shober has been in the army medical corps for two years. . . . The Alabama-Louisiana State football game in Baton Rouge the night of Sept. 30 is expected to attract 30,000. . . . Sale of season ticket books to Minnesota's home football games is up 40 per cent over the 1943 figure.

Al Schacht tells this one: "When Hughie Jennings was managing the Detroit club he received a letter from a Michigan hopeful who boasted that he could strike out Ty Cobb three times out of four trips to the plate. . . . Jennings risked the $1.80 transportation cost and the prospect was sent in to pitch against Cobb in batting practice. . . . Ty slapped the kid's first pitch against the right field fence; the second went clear out of the park in left; the third to deep center, and the fourth over the center field barrier. . . . 'Well,' Jennings demanded, 'what have you got to say?' . . . 'I don't think that's Cobb,' the would-be pitcher told him." . . . Five regulars on the Denison university football team at Granville, O., are Michigan boys. . . . Mel Ott says Lefty O'Doul taught him to pull the ball to right field, and "that," adds Mel, "is how I stayed in the major leagues."

Secret Weapons.

And sear and maim the helpless in their flight,
Leaving a blackened trail behind.
And yet,
Despite the direful portent of their threat,
We have a secret weapon stouter still,
Within the sturdy freeman's valiant will,
To keep inviolate and ever hold
His cherished heritage bequeathed of old.

Oppressors who rely on force of arms
And fill the world with strife and dread alarms
Have left on many a battlefield thick strewed
The wreckage of ambitious schemes they brewed,
Because they reckoned not the unseen might
Of men who hold to be divinely right
The freedom that we know. Stronger than steel,
The spirit that endures thru each ordeal;
Invincible, the one who knows that he
Was created to be forever free.

The royal guards and tiny jeeps,
Nursery blocks in tumbled heaps,
A wooly dog, a bright red chair,
Even a doll without its hair;
I gazed with sadness on each toy,
Remembering the glad schoolboy
That on a new threshold now stood
A door had closed on babyhood.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns, his mind very much on baseball, caught the White Sox in a grievous case of batting order befuddlement and distraction in the first inning of the Chicago-St. Louis series opener here tonight. Luke's alertness blotted out an apparent Sox run, left Sox runners on third and second, and so flustered the Sox they never seemed the same thereafter.

St. Louis won the ball game, 5 to 1, and rose to a second place tie with the Detroit Tigers, who split a twilight-night double header with the Cleveland Indians.

An Important Rarity.

Batting order mixups rarely occur in the majors, even in elemental careless brain fags. The one of which the Sox were guilty tonight was all the more rare because of the effect it had on the game, the pennant race and the details of its happening.

The public address announcer and the press box announcer gave out a Sox lineup showing Eddie Carnett fifth in the batting order and Guy Curtright sixth. Coach Mule Haas, who provides the official lineup to the plate umpire in the absence of a Sox captain, gave Umpire Joe Rue a lineup showing Carnett in the sixth spot, Curtright ahead of him. This lineup is obtained from Manager Jim Dykes; apparently the Sox players listened to the public address system, instead of getting any word from Dykes or Haas.

Get Out the Record Books!

Apparently Dykes wasn't paying much attention to either the announcer, or later, to what was going on in the field. In any event here's what happened in the Sox's first inning—tie it if your memory is good or your record books are extensive!

Wally Moses opened the game with a single off Denny Galehouse [who went all the way for his seventh victory]. LeRoy Schalk moved Moses to second with a perfect sacrifice. Ralph Hodgin filed to Mike Greevich. Hal Trosky was given an intentional pass. Carnett lined a single to left. Moses ran across the plate, Trosky went to third, and Carnett went to second on Al Zarilla's wide and late throw to the plate. Then Manager Sewell stepped out of the Brownie dugout with his copy of the official lineup, showing Curtright should have batted instead of Carnett.

Rule Curtright Out.

He conferred with Umpire Rue who confirmed Sewell's understanding, and called Curtright out, thus nullifying Moses' apparent tally.

The Browns did not wait long before taking further advantage of the Sox befuddlement and embarrassment. With one down, Mike Kreevich tripled to left center off the naturally distressed Orval Grove, and Zarilla walked. Vern Stephens singled to right center, scoring Kreevich and putting Zarilla on third. Milt Byrnes forced Stephens, Zarilla scoring. Byrnes was caught trying to steal second.

The Sox scored in the third. With one down, Moses, Schalk, and Hodgin knocked successive singles to load the bases. Moses scored the

Tilden Beats Leo; Loyola Is 13 to 12 Victor

Tilden Tech opened its 1944 prep football season by defeating Leo of the Catholic league, 25 to 0, last night in Shewbridge field. Loyola beat Sullivan, 13 to 12, in the Loyola stadium.

Yesterday afternoon six City league teams also opened their seasons. Lane and Austin played a 0 to 0 tie at Lane before 2,500. Lane never threatened, but turned back an Austin drive in the second quarter on the Tech 2 yard line.

Marshall scored once in each quarter in defeating Roosevelt, 24 to 0, in Winnemac park. Larry Novak and Gerald Cohen each scored twice. Novak took a 20 yard pass in the first period and Cohen scored thru the line in the second. In the third, Cohen ran 25 yards for another score. In the fourth period Novak reversed for 10 yards and a touchdown.

Bowen scored twice in the first quarter to take an early lead over Gage Park in Yates av. stadium, and won, 19 to 6. Bowen scored in the third period, and in the final period, Half Back George Suster ran 70 yards for the Gage score.

ALDRICH URGES JUNKING WORLD MONEY SCHEME

Believed Speaking for Most Bankers.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Rejection of the Bretton Woods financial plans was urged yesterday by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank of New York, the nation's largest commercial bank.

Winthrop W. Aldrich.

Declaring that the plans agreed upon last July would create a spurious stabilization of international finances, Aldrich said that they should be junked in their entirety. This would be the first step in a realistic approach to the problem of world economic reconstruction, he asserted.

Comprehensive Indictment.

Aldrich's statement, delivered before a luncheon meeting of the Executives club in the Hotel Sherman, is the most comprehensive indictment yet made of the Bretton Woods proposals by a responsible financial leader. Before delivering the speech Aldrich conferred with other leading bankers in New York and Chicago. His speech is regarded as a considered statement of the position of the great majority of American bankers.

The Bretton Woods conference, at which 44 nations were represented, addressed itself strictly to the symptoms of instability in international exchange, not the basic causes, Aldrich said. The formulas that emerged can produce only the shadow of economic stability not the substance, he said.

The international monetary fund and the world bank for reconstruction, to which the United States would be by far the largest contributor, propose to meet world economic problems by creation of new, burdensome debts, Aldrich said.

Would Ship Out Capital.

Advocates of the world bank believe that large exports of capital by the United States are indispensable to maintaining employment in this country and reconstructing the economies of other nations, he said.

"My own opinion is that capital exports on a large scale are not required under present circumstances and will be detrimental to debtor, as well as creditor nations," Aldrich asserted. "Most of the capital for domestic reconstruction and development should come from local sources. Local labor and local materials should be relied upon to the greatest possible extent in the rebuilding of devastated areas and the industrialization of undeveloped regions.

"Foreign funds should be used sparingly and only where their use will create foreign exchange for the repayment of the loan. If foreign funds are used when local capital is available, a needlessly heavy burden is placed on the debtor's balance of payments. Capital accumulations, like currency instability, are largely the product of domestic policy."

Must Put Own Affairs in Shape.

Aldrich emphasized that stabilization of currencies will come about automatically when individual countries put their own affairs on a sound footing and not before.

Under the Bretton Woods plans, currency depreciation would become the accepted method of meeting economic trouble, Aldrich declared. Each individual country must solve its own economic problems, he said, before it can hope to put its money on a solid base.

These problems he listed as the balancing of national budgets, the divorce of central banking systems from deficit financing by governments, the refunding of short term debts created during the war, freeing of interest rates, and the abandonment of price and rationing controls. He added:

"Then and only then can exchange rates reflect basic conditions and true exchange stability be achieved. If these measures are not taken, a spurious exchange stability may exist, which for its maintenance will require recurrent recourse to the fund or reliance on trade controls not less severe than those enforced in Nazi Germany prior to the outbreak of war."

Moves to Soundness Unpopular.

He warned that to attain sound currencies is difficult economically and seldom popular politically.

The proposed 8.8 billion dollar monetary fund, he pointed out would consist in large part of non-negotiable, non-interest bearing obligations and currencies of subscribing nations.

The quotas of the individual countries are not so much the measure of their contribution but of their access to the fund's benefits, he asserted. The United States, which would have the least cause to use the fund, would contribute about 70 per cent of the sound assets of the fund. Other countries could resort to printing press money or mere book entries to make up their quotas, he pointed out. The privileges of the fund would be automatic, without regard to credit position, domestic finances, or economic position of the country using the fund.

"Inasmuch as the fund gives nations with relatively poor currencies access on an automatic basis to relatively good currencies, the good currencies may be pulled down to the level of the poor currencies. Currencies of all the world would be weakened, and the stabilization attained thru this means would seek the lowest level."

As an alternative to the Bretton Woods approach to the problem Aldrich proposed that the United States immediately summon an international conference to discuss the elimination of trade barriers between countries, the reduction of tariffs and otner measures to stimulate sound international trade.

He also suggested that the United States provide a "grant in aid" to Great Britain to help restore stability between the dollar and the pound. Aldrich indicated that such a grant would be a gold loan or outright gift. He did not mention any figure, but indicated he believed that a 5 billion dollar gold loan, proposed by others, would be too large.

Favors Attaching a Condition.

The gold aid to Britain, he said, should be conditional on reaching an international agreement for eliminating trade barriers and reducing tariffs.

The conference would seek agreement on such practices as export subsidies, regional currency arrangements and bulk purchasing, he said. Empire preference arrangements such as that employed by Great Britain also would be an important problem for the conference.

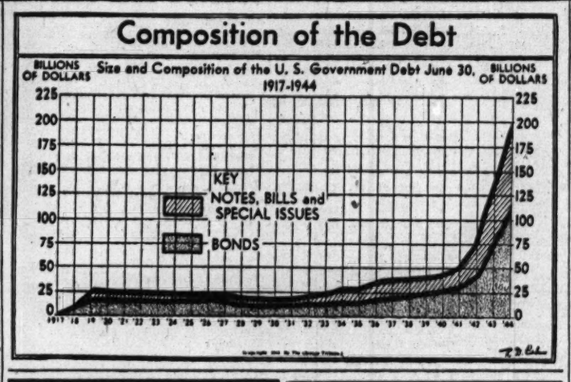
"The success of such a conference," Aldrich said, "will depend in no small measure upon the attitude of the United States. We must be prepared to effect substantial reductions in our tariff rates. We must convince the world of our sincerity of purpose.

May Set World Trend.

"The quality of our leadership may easily determine whether the world will move toward free enterprise or toward collectivism. Never shall we have a better opportunity to reduce trade barriers than in the period from war to peace, when the markets of the world, including our own, will be short of goods, and the exportable products of our country will be in great demand.

"Under such conditions tariff reductions should be feasible, not only because protection for domestic markets becomes less necessary, but because payments for exports in the long run must be made in imports. Credits, however generously given, must in the end be balanced in terms of goods received or losses taken."

Composition of the Debt



19 MORE SOFT COAL MINES ARE SEIZED; 64 TAKEN SINCE AUG. 31

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt today ordered the seizure of 19 strike-idle soft coal mines operated by 16 companies in West Virginia and Kentucky, bringing to 64 the number taken over by the government since Aug. 31.

The President directed Secretary of the Interior Ickes to take possession because "there are interruptions of the operations" and "the effective prosecution of the war will be unduly impeded or delayed by such interruptions."

Labor disputes among supervisory employes forced the mines into idleness. The national war labor board order directing termination of strikes several days ago was ignored.

Ship Electricians Strike.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP).—The Dravo corporation today reported a strike by an estimated 1,000 electricians engaged in LST production [landing ships for tanks]. Wiring of ships was halted. A company spokesman attributed the walkout to delay in action by a "government agency" on a bonus incentive plan adopted June 17.

U. S. to Delay Change in Hog Price Ceilings

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Government assurance was given today that there will be no reduction in ceiling prices of live hogs before June 30, 1945. At the same time, the office of price administration and the war food administration announced jointly that a previously announced decrease in support prices would be extended to the same 1945 date. The decrease, effective Oct. 1, is from $13.75 to $12.50 a hundred pounds, on the representative class of good and choice 200 to 240 pound hogs at Chicago.

Present ceiling prices are $14.75, Chicago basis, for hogs weighing 240 pounds or less and $14 for those weighing more than 240.

Floor Cut Extended.

WFA previously had announced the support price would be cut to $12.50 Oct. 1 for the period ending March 31, 1945.

A WFA spokesman said the announcement was not "the final word" on support prices and did not preclude further action on a suggestion that WFA is reported to have made for a $13.75 "cushion" with a $12.50 support price and a $14.75 ceiling. Under the "cushion" proposal, prices paid by packers for good and choice hogs would have to average $13.75 and subsidy payments would be reduced to the extent that the packers' average paying price fell below that amount.

HOG RECEIPTS LOW

Hog receipts in the Chicago stock yards set an 11 month Friday low yesterday at 8,000 head, including direct shipments to packers. Buyers paid the $14.75 a hundred pounds ceiling for almost all stock weighing 240 pounds or less and the $14 heavy hog limit for those over 240 pounds.

Cattle receipts were small as usual on Friday. Steady prices prevailed in almost all classes, altho none was good enough to sell at more than $17. Most steers brought $14 to $16.50.

Lambs met good demand at steady prices, equal to the highest in 10 days. Old ewes reached $6, highest since last May.

STORAGE STOCKS FALL

Stocks of meat and lard in cold storage on Sept. 1 showed a large decrease from the preceding month, the department of agriculture announced yesterday. The largest drop was in pork and lard holdings.

Stocks of pork totaled 489,496,000 pounds, the smallest since Dec. 1, 1943. Beef holdings were 161,733,000 pounds, smallest since Nov. 1, 1943. Lard stocks on Sept. 1 totaled 244,040,000, the lowest total since Feb. 1. Holdings of lamb and mutton totaled 15,220,000 pounds, the largest stock since May 1.

Peace Order Outlook Lifts Stock Prices

New York, Sept. 15 (AP). — Steel, motor, and rubber shares today started the stock market on a wide advance which persisted when aided by rails, aircrafts, and other leaders. Despite some letdowns and reduced volume, numerous climbers finished at or close to their highs.

Aviation manufacturing issues were stimulated by expectations post-war commercial orders would offset to a large extent cancellation of government orders. Forecasts of heavy peace time demand for civilian products buoyed other stocks.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.5 at 53.4. Of 792 issues traded, 505 were higher, 117 lower, and 170 unchanged. Transfers of 642,280 shares compared with 727,675 yesterday.

BOND PRICES HIGHER.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Bond prices improved today, altho buying again was selective. Several groups in the rail division made wide gains. These included the Milwaukee, Missouri Pacific, and Southern Pacific.

Low yield corporates were stronger on more active demand for American Telephone 3¼s and other top rank utility and industrial investment issues. Transactions totaled $5,673,000, against $6,458,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES.

Prices advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in decreased turnover of 22,000 shares. Volume leaders included Bendix Aviation, up ⅞; Chicago corporation and Aviation corporation, each up ¼, and General Finance, down ¼.

W. T. GRANT COMPANY.

I would appreciate information on the earnings of W. T. Grant company.—F. O.

Altho the profit margin after taxes has declined, the increase in sales has enabled the company during the war thru the fiscal year ended last Jan. 31 to maintain average annual earnings for the common stock above those of the preceding five years. For the five years ended last January the average was approximately $2.96 a share, compared with $2.73 for the five years ended Jan. 31, 1939.

During the most recent fiscal year Grant earned $2.91 a share. Sales approximated 164 million dollars compared with 97.5 million in the 1939 period. For the first seven months of the current fiscal year a further sales increase of less than 3 per cent was reported. Profit for the first half year was 91 cents a share, against 78 cents a year ago.

Of the company's 493 variety stores in 39 states approximately 60 per cent are in the middle Atlantic and New England states. Most of the merchandise is sold within a range of 5 cents to $1, altho some of the stores carry higher priced lines.

Common dividends have been paid by the company and predecessors each year since 1907. Current payments are at the rate of 35 cents quarterly. Outstanding are 1,189,354 common shares of $10 par, 348,834 shares of $1 cumulative preferred stock, $20 par, and $4,783,870 real estate mortgages and bonds of a subsidiary. Net working capital as of Jan. 31 amounted to $26,381,442.

SEASONAL GOODS DEMAND RAISES RETAIL VOLUME

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Heavy demand for seasonal merchandise emphasized by cool weather in many parts of the country, increased retail trade this week, 11 to 15 per cent over last year, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

"Turnover continued brisk in apparel lines and sales of household goods and food were satisfactory," the agency said. "Retail prices have changed slightly during the past several weeks, indicating a preference for the higher priced merchandise as sales continue above last year's level."

Army Sets Up Plan to Speed Reconverting

The war department has developed a plan by which war contractors can expedite reconversion to peace time production by determining in advance of contract cancellations the disposition and approximate value of raw materials and partly finished products, Brig. Gen. Albert J. Browning, assistant director of material in the war department, yesterday told an Illinois Manufacturers' association meeting in the Stevens hotel.

The plan provides that war contractors inform the government, while contracts are in force, of the cost of each unit at the various stages of manufacture, and whether the finished and unfinished materials will be scrapped, turned over to the government, or purchased by the contractor.

Can Do Much Work Earlier.

"It is my opinion that most of the work involved in settling a termination, except counting and moving the inventory, can be done before the contracts are canceled as easily as afterward," Browning said.

"The most difficult problem facing the average contractor is clearing his plant of raw materials and work in process. Civilian production cannot be started until war production materials have been cleared from the plant's floor and machines."

Browning said the new program, which has been named "pre-determination," was proposed to 15 prime contractors in the east and midwest, and that "without exception the idea of determining costs in advance of termination has met with enthusiastic approval."

Studebaker Experience Told.

Among the 15 contractors was the Studebaker corporation which submitted advance estimates on an assumed cancellation of the contract on the "Weasel," a cargo carrier. The corporation said it could start production of civilian automobiles at least one month earlier if the government informed the corporation of its decisions regarding the value and disposition of materials used in the "Weasel" in the event of cancellation.

Studebaker recommended that certain "special items of no use to any one," be scrapped, but offered to buy other articles at various percentages of their cost. Among the scrap items was a quantity of differential and transmission assemblies unusable for "any civilian purpose." The corporation said it would buy some "Weasel" manifolds which could be altered for other uses.

CHANGED WAGE PLAN AT WAR'S END HELD SURE

Pass Transit Bonus

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—The war labor board today announced a bonus pay policy, based on increased work load, for employees of street railways and other local transit lines. The policy will be applied only when union and company agree to such a bonus. Economic Stabilization Director Vinson has approved the formula, provided no increase in fares is asked, the WLB said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—William H. Davis, war labor board chairman, said today that economic conditions arising after the European war will demand changes in the national wage stabilization policy and promised that the board would not "sidestep" the wage issues raised yesterday by the reports of the CIO Steelworkers and AFL panels.

At the end of a press conference, Davis left little doubt that the NWLB, before the election, would recommend to President Roosevelt a policy of increased wages, altho he did not specifically say that the "change" would be an increase. He said that "any fool can see we are facing a probable change in wage policy" because of the approaching end of the war with Germany.

Labor Supply Fixes Policy.

Davis emphasized that wage policies formulated earlier in the war when man power was short cannot be maintained when the end of the European war and reductions in war output result in a plentiful supply of labor.

The question of wages has "gone beyond the mere question of the Little Steel formula," he said, and added that with Germany's defeat rapidly approaching, the wage policy finally arrived at may be different from that originally demanded by the CIO and AFL when the panels were organized several months ago.

Davis parried a question whether the NWLB recommendations will be made to the President before the election by saying that the board will attempt to finish its consideration of the panel reports before the end of the war with Germany, "which probably will occur sooner." He said he hoped the board could begin its study of the reports by Oct. 9, when public hearings will have been finished, and have its recommendations or findings of fact ready within a week.

Concerned with War's End.

He implied that the NWLB is not concerned with finishing its work before the election, but with being ready for the end of the European war. The latter date is more important from an economic standpoint than the election, he said.

Davis said that when reconversion begins, the NWLB will use its authority to approve or reject reductions in industrial wage rates. The purpose of the national board will be to maintain production and purchasing power, he said.

SUN OIL ORDERS 10 PCT. COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Sun Oil company yesterday declared a 10 per cent common dividend, payable in stock, the first such disbursement since 1941. Three cash dividends of 25 cents each were paid earlier this year.

Payments of $1 on the 6 per cent preferred and 33⅓ cents on the $2 preferred were authorized by New England Power association, leaving arrears of $13 and $4.33⅓, respectively.

National Fuel Gas company voted a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share, compared with 25 cents previously. General Capital corporation also trimmed its payment to 29 cents from the 31 cents paid in July.

COTTON CONSUMPTION RISES.

The census bureau has reported that cotton consumed in August totaled 841,490 bales of lint and 125,063 bales of linters, compared with 724,167 of lint and 136,726 of linters in July, and 843,187 of lint and 107,975 of linters in August, 1943.

1942 Level Set as Yardstick for Prices of Peace Products

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Price Administrator Bowles said today that his purpose is to hold reconversion prices to 1942 levels wherever possible. "We can't build a full production economy on high prices," he told a news conference.

The office of price administration chief said he was surprised on a trip across the country recently to learn that many manufacturers believed they would be able to price new civilian products at 1942 prices. He said he could not mention specific items that will be held to that level but that he was convinced each industry was determined to keep prices as low as possible.

Holds Industry Must Lead.

"The heaviest responsibility in achieving that goal is industry's," Bowles said. "OPA is only a stop gap—that is all we have ever been and all we ever want to be."

Bowles listed these items as the major ones which will need new, but not necessarily higher prices in the reconversion period: Automobiles and automotive parts, refrigerators, washing machines, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, and other appliances, radios, phonographs, pianos, heating and cooling equipment, and clocks and watches.

How Volume Is Made.

Fewer than a dozen of the commodities which will be given new ceilings make up 85 per cent of the total dollar volume of items on the list, he said, and added that the remaining 15 per cent is made up of items in the "egg beater" category.

OPA has two pricing formulas covering major items which "could be put into use tomorrow if necessary," Bowles said. These will be announced in three or four weeks when discussions with manufacturers have been concluded, he added.

Oct. 1 Moving Just Memory; No Place to Go

BY AL CHASE.

Oct. 1 as a traditional moving day in Chicago will almost cease to exist in this war year of housing shortage. Several real estate management firms yesterday reported none of their tenants was moving.

As a specific example, Fred Lorish of Swan-Lorish, Inc., one of the largest Chicago apartment management companies, said fewer than 10 of the 3,600 families whose leases thru his firm expire Oct. 1 would move then. This is the lowest ratio in the firm's history, and compared with an average of 10 per 1,000 on May 1 and about 200 per 1,000 in the 1930s.

Martin A. Culhane of Cain & Culhane, and director of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board, said every October lease handled by his firm had been renewed. Further, nearly every building it manages had a waiting list in excess of the number of apartments.

Dozen Friends Know First.

Meanwhile, families who face the prospect of being homeless by Oct. 1 have found it almost impossible to get a place to live. When a tenant decides to move, a dozen friends know it before he notifies the realty agent. The quickest of the dozen gets the prize.

Death notices are scanned and flat hunters flock about in ghoulish desperation, on the possibility that the sorrowing family will give up its home. Even scandal items that may foreshadow divorce proceedings are followed up on the chance that a broken home will produce a vacant flat.

Everybody Pays on Time.

One of the brightest spots in the realtors' heretofore unusual experience of having all their apartments filled is the record low level of delinquency in rents. During the depression about 10 of every 100 families were behind in their rent, said Lorish, but the average in the last eight months has been about 1 in 200.

All of which adds up to this: Oct. 1 will be the quietest moving day in Chicago history with even less shifting than on May 1, previous record breaker for inactivity.

GEORGIAN BAY LINE BUYS LAKE SHIP ALABAMA

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 15 (AP).—The 250 foot passenger steamer Alabama, once the flagship of the Goodrich Transit company in Lake Michigan service, has been sold to the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay line by Earl G. Kirby.

From 1939 until 1942 when crew shortages forced the tying up of the Alabama at Holland, Mich., the vessel was operated under charter by the Georgian Bay line, along with its cruise steamships North America and South America.

After the Goodrich line went into bankruptcy, the Alabama was sold to Kirby for $22,050 in 1936 by the United States marshal at Manitowoc, Wis.

HOFFMAN IS ELECTED CUDAHY'S PRESIDENT; DIVIDEND IS DECLARED

The board of directors of Cudahy Packing company yesterday elected Fred W. Hoffman president to succeed E. A. Cudahy, who became chairman of the board. Hoffman had been vice president since 1932. The chairmanship had been vacant since the death of E. A. Cudahy Sr., in 1941.

Fred W. Hoffman.

Hoffman started with the company in 1902 as a messenger in the South Omaha office. He was made general manager of the Salt Lake City plant in 1921. Subsequently he was general manager of the Jersey City and St. Paul plants, and manager of the Boston district.

In 1930 he was placed in charge of the company's dairy and poultry products department in the Chicago headquarters, and two years later became vice president and manager of the pork division. He has been a director since 1936.

C. L. Hodgert, general superintendent with headquarters in Omaha, was elected a director and vice president. Other vice presidents elected were T. P. Gibbons and J. W. Breathed.

Directors also declared the first common stock dividend since 1937. It is a special disbursement of 30 cents, payable Oct. 27 to holders of record Oct. 13.

CORN FUTURES TRADE SLOWS; CLOSE UNEVEN

Trading of corn futures slackened yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade in contrast with the 4,235,000 bushel volume of Thursday, the first day of resumed corn futures trading. The market held within a range of about 1 cent a bushel and closed ¼ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower, the latter on July.

September oats showed independent strength and were up 2½ cents at one time to 62½ cents, or 6⅝ cents above the low of last week. The close was 2¼ cents higher. Deferred oats futures finished ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher.

Wheat closed ½ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower. Short covering in September and December was induced by continued buying of cash wheat by the Commodity Credit corporation and reports that agency was considering buying corn for deferred shipment from the country to hold back movement to terminal markets.

Rye was up ½ to 1⅛ cents and barley gained 1¼ to 2⅛ cents on short covering and a better demand for cash barley in Minneapolis.

LESS NEWSPRINT USED BY PAPERS DURING AUGUST

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publishers association said today newspapers reporting to it used 182,432 tons of newsprint in August, compared with 217,054 tons in August, 1943, and 224,361 tons in August, 1941, base year for curtailment orders.

In the first eight months of 1944 reporting newspapers used 1,525,823 tons of newsprint, 16.2 per cent less than in 1943 and 20 per cent less than in 1941. Stocks of paper were unchanged from July at the equivalent of 66 days' needs.

CONFEREES END RESHAPING OF SURPLUS BILL

Pass Over Sniping by Agency Chiefs.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15 [Special].—Congressional conferees tonight reached final agreement on all details of the controversial bill for disposal of an estimated 100 billion dollars of surplus war goods after administration officials had renewed their sniping at the measure.

Its enactment would leave only the George bill for reconversion and demobilization barring a congressional recess until after election. Rep. Manasco [D., Ala.], chairman of the house conferees, said the house would consider the surpluses bill Monday.

The principal late change conferees made was to place full control of sales in a three-man board to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate. The President would designate one member as chairman. Each would receive $12,000 a year.

Suggested by House Group.

This compromise was suggested by the house delegation, after the senate group refused to accept a single administrator instead of the eight-member board voted by the senate. An administrator and four-man policy board had been the earlier prospective compromise.

No other "material changes" were made, said Manasco. Details of the bill will be made public Monday. It lays down rules for disposal of government owned land, buildings, and other property, and for stockpiling strategic materials.

Developments earlier in the day included:

1. W. L. Clayton, surplus property administrator, charged in a letter to War Mobilization Director Byrnes that the compromise bill before the conferees was "obviously impractical." He said he would not accept the job of administrator under the proposed act. The conferees later said the compromise was voted without reference to Clayton's letter.

Asks One Chief, More Power.

2. A letter from Undersecretary of War Patterson to Sen. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, in which Patterson held out for a single administrator and asked added authority for the army and navy in surplus disposal, was released by Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], senate conferee's chairman.

3. Clayton in an interview said the three man board provision did not change his position. He said the bill still was unworkable and that he would not accept an appointment under its provisions.

Clayton wrote Byrnes his decision "springs from the conviction growing out of the senate hearings and debates on the bill that the surplus property disposal program is no longer to be conducted in a businesslike
